IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

APRIL 30, 2008

Mr. BERMAN (for himself, Ms. DELAURO, and Mr. MARSHALL) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs

A BILL

To combat international violence against women and girls.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

4 (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the 5 “International Violence Against Women Act of 2008”.

6 (b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents for 7 this Act is as follows:

- Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.
- Sec. 2. Findings.
- Sec. 3. Statement of policy.
- Sec. 4. Definitions.

TITLE I—COORDINATION AND POLICY PLANNING

- Sec. 101. Official positions and institutional changes.
- Sec. 102. Policy and programs.

Sec. 103. Inclusion of information on violence against women and girls in human rights reports.

TITLE II—OTHER PROVISIONS

Sec. 201. Amendments to Foreign Service Act of 1980.

Sec. 202. Support for multilateral efforts to end violence against women and girls.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress makes the following findings:

3 (1) Violence against women and girls is rooted 4 in multiple causes and takes many forms, including 5 physical, sexual, and psychological. It affects all 6 countries, social groups, ethnicities, religions, and 7 socioeconomic classes and is a global health, eco-8 nomic development, and human rights problem of 9 epidemic proportions.

10 (2) According to the World Health Organiza-
11 tion—

12 (A) approximately 1 in 3 of the women in 13 the world will experience violence in her life-14 time, with rates of up to 70 percent in some 15 countries; and

16 (B) 1 in 5 of the women in the world will 17 be the victim of rape or attempted rape in her 18 lifetime.

19 (3) According to the 2006 United Nations Sec-
20 retary General's report entitled Ending Violence 21 Against Women, 102 member states have no specific 22 laws on domestic violence.

1 (4) Women and girls face many different types
2 of gender-based violence, including forced or child 3 marriage, so-called “honor killings”, dowry-related 4 murder, human trafficking, and female genital muti-
5 lation. The United Nations estimates that at least 6 5,000 so-called “honor killings” take place each year
7 around the world and that more than 130,000,000
8 girls and young women worldwide have been sub-9 jected to female genital mutilation.

10 (5) The President’s Emergency Plan for AIDS 11 Relief 2006 Report on Gender-Based Violence and 12 HIV/AIDS reports that violence against women is a 13 public health and development problem that signifi-
14 cantly increases susceptibility to HIV/AIDS. A 15 United Nations study on the global AIDS epidemic 16 found that in sub-Saharan Africa, women who are 17 15 to 24 years old can be infected at rates that are 18 up to 6 times higher than men of the same age.

19 (6) Recent studies in Africa indicate that be-20 tween 16 and 47 percent of girls in primary and sec-21 ondary school report sexual abuse or harassment by 22 male teachers or classmates. Girls who experience
23 sexual violence at school are also more likely to expe-
24 rience unintended pregnancies or become infected

1 with sexually transmitted infections, including HIV/
2 AIDS.

3 (7) Rape and sexual assault are weapons of war 4 used to torture, intimidate, and terrorize women and 5 communities. Amnesty International reports that 6 women have suffered from sexual violence during 7 conflicts in Rwanda, the former Yugoslavia, Sierra 8 Leone, and most recently in the Democratic Repub-9 lic of the Congo, where women have suffered from 10 brutal and systematic sexual assaults.

11 (8) Displaced, refugee, and stateless women and 12 girls in humanitarian emergencies, conflict settings, 13 and natural disasters face extreme violence and 14 threats because of power inequities, including being 15 forced to exchange sex for food and humanitarian 16 supplies, and being at increased risk of rape, sexual 17 exploitation, and abuse.

18 (9) According to the United States Agency for 19 International Development (USAID)—

20 (A) 70 percent of the 1,300,000,000 people 21 living in poverty in the world are women and 22 children;

23 (B) $\frac{2}{3}$ of the 876,000,000 illiterate adults
24 in the world are women;

1 (C) $\frac{2}{3}$ of the 125,000,000 school-aged 2 children who are not in school are girls;

3 (D) more than $\frac{3}{4}$ of the 27,000,000 refu-4 gees in the world are women and children; and 5 (E) 1,600 women die unnecessarily every 6 day during pregnancy and childbirth.

7 (10) In 2003, the United Nations Special
8 Rapporteur on Violence Against Women concluded 9 that violence against women violates the basic 10 human rights of women, results in “devastating con-
11 sequences for women who experience it, traumatic 12 impact on those who witness it, de-legitimization of 13 States that fail to prevent it and the impoverishment 14 of entire societies that tolerate it.”.

15 (11) Violence against women is an impediment 16 to the health, opportunity, and development of 17 women and their societies. According to an October 18 2006 study of the United Nations Secretary General
19 entitled Ending Violence Against Women, “Violence
20 against women impoverishes women, their families,
21 communities and nations. It lowers economic produc-
22 tion, drains resources from public services and em-23 ployers, and reduces human capital formation.”.

24 (12) The World Bank recognizes that women’s 25 health, education, and economic opportunities di-

1 rectly impact the development and well being of their 2 families and their societies. A 2001 World Bank Re-
3 port, entitled Engendering Development, reports
4 that greater gender equality leads to improved nutri-
5 tion, lower child mortality, less government corrup-
6 tion, higher productivity, and reduced HIV infection 7 rates.

8 (13) Increased access to economic opportunities
9 is crucial to the prevention of and response to do-10 mestic and sexual violence. Both microfinance-based 11 interventions and increased asset control have been 12 shown to reduce levels of intimate partner violence 13 in addition to providing economic independence for 14 survivors.

15 (14) Campaigns to change social norms, includ-
16 ing community organizing, media campaigns, and ef-17 forts to engage and educate men and boys, have 18 been shown to change attitudes that condone and 19 tolerate violence against women and girls and reduce 20 violence and abuse.

21 SEC. 3. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

22 It is the policy of the United States—

23 (1) to promote women’s political, economic,
24 educational, social, cultural, civil, and human rights
25 and opportunities throughout the world;

1 (2) to condemn and combat violence against 2 women and girls, and to promote and assist other 3 governments in preventing and responding to such 4 violence;

5 (3) to promote ending violence against women 6 and girls around the world, whether the abuse is 7 committed directly by a foreign government, is im-
8 plicitly committed by such government through hos-
9 tile laws or de jure mandates to disenfranchise 10 women, or is committed by private actors and the 11 government fails to address the abuse;

12 (4) to encourage foreign governments to enact 13 and implement effective legal reform to combat vio-
14 lence against women and girls, and to encourage ac-15 cess to justice, true accountability for abusers, and 16 meaningful redress and support for victims;

17 (5) to systematically integrate and coordinate 18 efforts to prevent and respond to violence against 19 women and girls into United States foreign policy
20 and foreign assistance programs, and to expand im-
21 plementation of effective practices and programs;

22 (6) to fully implement the comprehensive inter-23 national strategy set forth in section 300G of the 24 Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as added by this 25 Act, which provides assistance to eligible countries to

1 reduce and prevent gender-based violence with co-
2 ordinated efforts in the criminal justice, health, edu-
3 cation, and economic sectors;

4 (7) to support and build capacity of indigenous 5 nongovernmental organizations that are working to 6 prevent and respond to violence against women and 7 girls, particularly women’s nongovernmental organi-
8 zations, and to support and encourage United States 9 organizations working in partnership with such non-10 governmental organizations;

11 (8) to prevent and respond to violence against 12 women and girls through multisectoral methods,
13 working at individual, family, community, local, na-
14 tional, and international levels and incorporating 15 service, prevention, training, and advocacy activities
16 and economic, education, health, legal, and protec-
17 tive intervention services;

18 (9) to coordinate activities with recipient coun-
19 try governments, as appropriate, and with other bi-20 lateral, multilateral, nongovernmental, and private 21 sector actors active in the relevant sector and coun-22 try;

23 (10) to foster international and regional co-24 operation with an aim towards defining regional 25 strategies, as appropriate, for preventing and re-

1 sponding to violence against women and girls, and 2 exchanging data and successful strategies;

3 (11) to work through international organiza-
4 tions of which the United States is a member, in-5 cluding the United Nations and its specialized agen-
6 cies, funds and programs to encourage, promote, 7 and advocate for stronger efforts and policies to pre-
8 vent and end violence against women and girls;

9 (12) to enhance training and other programs to 10 prevent and respond to violence against women and 11 girls in humanitarian relief, conflict, and post-con-12 flict operations;

13 (13) to enhance training by United States per-14 sonnel of professional foreign military and police 15 forces and judicial officials to include specific and 16 thorough instruction on preventing and responding 17 to violence against women and girls;

18 (14) to press for the implementation of policies 19 and practices in global peace and security efforts, in-20 cluding United Nations peacekeeping and policing
21 operations, that prevent and respond to violence
22 against women and girls and hold personnel account-23 able for the full implementation of these policies and 24 practices.
