(b) GRACE PERIOD FOR CURRENT EMPLOYMENT-BASED HEALTH PLANS.—

(1) GRACE PERIOD.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Commissioner shall establish a grace period whereby, for plan years beginning after the end of the 5-year period beginning with Y1, an employment-based health plan in operation as of the day before the first day of Y1 must meet the same requirements as apply to a qualified health benefits plan under section 101, including the essential benefit package requirement under section 121.

(B) The similarities and differences between typical insured and self-insured health plans.

(C) The financial solvency and capital reserve levels of employers that self-insure by employer size.

(D) The risk of self-insured employers not being able to pay obligations or otherwise becoming financially insolvent.

(E) The extent to which rating rules are likely to cause adverse selection in the large group market or to encourage small and mid size employers to self-insure

(2) REPORTS.—Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Commissioner shall submit to Congress and the applicable agencies a report on the study conducted under paragraph (1). Such report shall include any recommendations the Commissioner deems appropriate to ensure that the law does not provide incentives for small and mid-size employers to self-insure or create adverse selection in the risk pools of large group insurers and self-insured employers. Not later than 18 months after the first day of Y1, the Commissioner shall submit to Congress and the applicable agencies an updated report on such study, including updates on such recommendations.

SEC. 114. NONDISCRIMINATION IN BENEFITS; PARITY IN MENTAL HEALTH AND SUBSTANCE ABUSE DISORDER BENEFITS.

(a) NONDISCRIMINATION IN BENEFITS.—A qualified health benefits plan shall comply with standards established by the Commissioner to prohibit discrimination in health benefits or benefit structures for qualified health benefits plans, building from sections 702 of Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 2702 of the Public Health Service Act, and section 9802 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

SEC. 115. ENSURING ADEQUACY OF PROVIDER NETWORKS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—A qualified health benefits plan that uses a provider network for items and services shall meet such standards respecting provider networks as the Commissioner may establish to assure the adequacy of such networks in ensuring enrollee access to such items and services and transparency in the cost-sharing differentials between in-network coverage and out-of-network coverage.

(b) INTERNET ACCESS TO INFORMATION.—A qualified health benefits plan that uses a provider network shall provide a current listing of all providers in its network on its website and such data shall be available on the Health Insurance Exchange website as a ‘click through’ from the basic information on that plan. The Commissioner shall also establish an on-line system whereby an individual may select by name any medical provider (as defined by the Commissioner) and be informed of the plan or plans with which that provider is contracting.

(c) PROVIDER NETWORK DEFINED.—In this division, the term “provider network” means the providers with respect to which covered benefits, treatments, and services are available under a health benefits plan.

SEC. 116. ENSURING VALUE AND LOWER PREMIUMS.

The QHBP offering entity shall provide that for any plan year in which a qualified health benefits plan that the entity offers has a medical loss ratio (expressed as a percentage) that is less than a percentage (not less than 85 percent) specified by the Commissioner, the QHBP offering entity offering such plan shall provide for rebates to enrollees of payment sufficient to meet such loss ratio. The Commissioner shall establish a uniform definition of medical loss ratio and methodology for determining how to calculate the medical loss ratio. Such methodology shall be designed to take into account the special circumstances of smaller and newer plans.

(2) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section:

(A) The term “eligible employment-based plan” means a group health benefits plan that—

(B) BASIS FOR CLAIMS.—Each claim submitted under subparagraph (A) shall be based on the actual amount expended by the participating employment-based plan involved within the plan year for the appropriate employment-based health benefits provided to a retiree or to the spouse, surviving spouse, or dependent of a retiree. In determining the amount of any claim for purposes of this subsection, the participating employment-based plan shall take into account any negotiated price concessions (such as discounts, direct or indirect subsidies, rebates, and direct or indirect remunerations) obtained by such plan with respect to such health benefits. Such payments shall not be used to reduce the costs of an employer maintaining the participating employment-based plan. The Secretary shall develop a mechanism to monitor the appropriate use of such payments by such plans.

(4) APPEALS AND PROGRAM PROTECTIONS.—The Secretary shall establish—

(A) an appeals process to permit participating employment-based plans to appeal a determination of the Secretary with respect to claims submitted under this section; and

(iii) LIMITATION TO AVAILABLE FUNDS.—The Secretary has the authority to stop taking applications for participation in the program or take such other steps in reducing expenditures under the reinsurance program in order to ensure that expenditures under the reinsurance program do not exceed the funds available under this subsection.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The affordability premium credit under this section for an affordable credit eligible individual enrolled in an Exchange-participating health benefits plan is in an amount equal to the amount (if any) by which the premium for the plan (or, if less, the reference premium amount specified in subsection (c)), exceeds the affordable premium amount specified in subsection (b) for the individual.

(1) IN GENERAL.—The affordable premium amount specified in this subsection for an individual for monthly premium in a plan year shall be equal to $\frac{1}{12}$ of the product of—

(c) DETERMINATION AND PAYMENT OF COST-SHARING AFFORDABILITY CREDIT.—In the case of an affordable credit eligible individual in a tier enrolled in an Exchange-participating health benefits plan offered by a QHBP offering entity, the Commissioner shall provide for payment to the offering entity of an amount equivalent to the increased actuarial value of the benefits under the plan provided under section 203(c)(2)(B) resulting from the reduction in cost-sharing described in subsection (b).

SEC. 245. INCOME DETERMINATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In applying this subtitle for an affordability credit for an individual for a plan year, the individual's income shall be the income (as defined in section 242(c)) for the individual for the most recent taxable year (as determined in accordance with rules of the Commissioner). The Federal poverty level applied shall be such level in effect as of the date of the application.

(2) REPORTING OF SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN INCOME.—The Commissioner shall establish rules under which an individual determined to be an affordable credit eligible individual would be required to inform the Commissioner when there is a significant change in the family income of the individual (expressed as a percentage of the FPL for a family of the size involved) and of the information regarding such change. Such mechanism shall provide for guidelines that specify the circumstances that qualify as a significant change, the verifiable information required to document such a change, and the process for submission of such information. If the Commissioner receives new information from an individual regarding the family income of the individual, the Commissioner shall provide for a redetermination of the individual's eligibility to be an affordable credit eligible individual.

(3) TRANSITION FOR CHIP.—In the case of a child described in section 202(d)(2), the Commissioner shall establish rules under which the family income of the child is deemed to be no greater than the family income of the child as most recently determined before Y1 by the State under title XXI of the Social Security Act.

If the Commissioner determines that an adjustment is feasible, the study should include a methodology to make such an adjustment. Not later than the first day of Y2, the Commissioner shall submit to Congress a report on such study and shall include such recommendations as the Commissioner determines appropriate.

(d) PENALTIES FOR MISREPRESENTATION.—In the case of an individual intentionally misrepresents family income or the individual fails (without regard to intent) to disclose to the Commissioner a significant change in family income under subsection (c) in a manner that results in the individual becoming an affordable credit eligible individual when the individual is not or in the amount of the affordability credit exceeding the correct amount—

(1) the individual is liable for repayment of the amount of the improper affordability credit; and

(2) in the case of such an intentional misrepresentation or other egregious circumstances specified by the Commissioner, the Commissioner may impose an additional penalty.

I. PURPOSE

The U.S. health care system is on an unsustainable course. Between 1999 and 2008, health insurance premiums more than doubled as wages largely stagnated.¹ Over the past two decades, the cost of the average family health insurance policy has steadily drained larger and larger portions of families’ income. In the United States, at least 47 million individuals are uninsured and millions more are underinsured.² Even having insurance does not guarantee health care security, as families are forced to fight insurance companies that regularly deny coverage or delay treatment. In more than half of the medical bankruptcies filed, the household was insured.³ Rising health care costs have had a negative impact on business, especially small employers.⁴ Over just the last 15 years, the percentage of small businesses offering health insurance dropped from 61 percent to 38 percent.⁵ The number of uninsured Americans is expected to hit 61 million by 2020.⁶ In no uncertain terms, the U.S. health care system is in crisis and has been for some time. Reform is needed. Inaction is not an option.

H.R. 3200, America's Affordable Health Choices Act, adopts the health care reform principles outlined by President Barack Obama. Specifically, the bill preserves and strengthens the employer-based health care system, includes protections for small businesses, creates a health insurance marketplace where individuals can choose between private insurance and the public health insurance option, ensures low and middle income Americans have access to affordability credits to help offset the costs of insurance and saves over $500 billion in future health outlays of Medicare and Medicaid through reforms to the system.

Together, these critical reforms are fundamental to the long-term health and security of this country.

II. COMMITTEE ACTION INCLUDING LEGISLATIVE HISTORY AND VOTES IN COMMITTEE

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

For more than 70 years, Congress and Presidents have attempted to reform the nation's health care system, most recently under President Clinton in 1993–94. The election of the Democratic majority in Congress in 2006 and President Obama in 2008 have led to renewed efforts toward national health care reform. The legislative history described in this report is limited to legislative action beginning in the 110th Congress.

Introduction of America’s Affordable Health Choices Act, H.R. 3200

On July 15, 2009, after taking into consideration comments on the discussion draft from a very wide range of voices, Chairmen George Miller, Henry Waxman, Charles Rangel, and Congressman John Dingell introduced America’s Affordable Health Choices Act, H.R. 3200. The bill seeks to control rising health care costs, strengthen the employer-based health care system, and ensure that all Americans have access to quality and affordable health care coverage.

Committee on Education & Labor Mark-up of H.R. 3200

The Full Committee met on July 15–17, 2009 to mark up H.R. 3200. The Committee passed by voice vote an amendment in the nature of a substitute offered by Chairman George Miller (D–CA). There were 42 other amendments offered and debated. Of the amendments offered, 20 passed, 17 failed, 4 were withdrawn, and one was ruled not germane.

America’s Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009

H.R. 3200 was reported favorably to the House with an amendment in the nature of a substitute. By a vote of 26–22, the Committee authorized the Chairman to transmit the bill, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute, to the Committee on the Budget in compliance with section 310 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 as the first part of the Committee’s recommendations, pursuant to the reconciliation instruction in S. Con Res. 13.

The Miller amendment in the nature of a substitute contains the following modifications to H.R. 3200:

Recognizes the unique structures of multi-employer plans and how they interact with the Health Insurance Exchange (HIE). In Section 100(26), the health care contributions of multiemployer plans are to be treated as employer contributions. Section 123(b)(1)(D) directs the Health Benefits Advisory Committee to take into consideration the unique nature of the multiemployer plans in recommending the essential benefits package. Lastly, Section 202(e)(8) makes clear that multiemployer plans shall be treated as large employers in regard to joining the HIE.

The Miller substitute also creates a new subsection (b) in Section 115 that requires qualified health benefits plans to make provider information available to consumers by publishing current listings of all providers within a plan network on their website. Amends the bill in Section 116 to provide that the medical loss ratio for qualified health benefits plans must be at least 85 percent.

Creates Section 117 to prohibit insurance companies from changing the coverage or costs of a health plan mid-year except if the costs are lowered and/or the coverage is increased.

Specifically includes in the essential benefits package “durable medical equipment, prosthetics, orthotics, and supplies.” (DMEPOS) The Committee is aware that Section 122 (4) related to coverage of “services, equipment, and supplies incident to the services of a physician’s or a health professional’s delivery of care in . . . patients’ homes or places of residence” encompasses coverage of such devices and related services, but opted to clarify that these are considered essential benefits. By separately listing the category of DMEPOS as an essential benefit, the Committee intends to underscore the importance of coverage for these devices and related services.

Amends sections 122 and 133 to include three provisions related to integrative medicine: to require that the membership of the Health Benefits Advisory Committee include one or more integrative medicine providers; establish an Integrative Health Care Service Task Force that is to be comprised of five experts in integrative health care; and, ensure that HIE enrollees are provided with information to identify integrative medicine providers who are trained and accredited.

Establishes Section 138 to ban the sales of physician prescribing data to the pharmaceutical industry when the physician serves patients enrolled in a qualified health benefit plan.

Amends Section 202(d) to include that retirees who are participants or beneficiaries in an adversely affected health benefits group and are not enrolled in Medicare, are to be considered Exchange eligible individuals and may enter into the HIE in 2013, the first year of operation. Also limits post-retirement reductions of retiree health benefits by group health plans in Section 165.

Creates a new provision, Section 209, to allow small employer benefit arrangements, which are defined as not-for-profit agricultural or other industry cooperatives, to work with the Commissioner to assist in the enrollment of small employers and their employees in the HIE. The small employer benefit arrangements are to operate for the primary purpose of providing affordable employee benefits to its members; that only consists of member employers that are in the same industry or line of business; ensure that no member has more than five percent voting interest in the cooperative, and are to be governed by a board of directors elected by its members.

Adds an additional condition for providers eligible to participate in the public health insurance option in Section 225(b) by permitting providers, such as Christian Science practitioners, who are “otherwise permitted to practice under state law” to also participate in the public health insurance option.

Amends the affordability standard for access to the HIE in Section 242(b)(2)(B) by giving the Commissioner the authority to permit individuals and families who have received an employer offer of health care coverage to qualify for the HIE in Y2 of operation if their premium and cost sharing is greater than 11 percent of family income.

Inserts language to protect against the misclassification of workers for purposes of the provisions within H.R. 3200. The language requires the Secretary of Labor to promulgate record-keeping requirements for both employees and certain individuals performing work for an employer but whom the employer has not treated as employees. The content and scope of these record-keeping requirements (both in terms of what data is needed and what non-employee individuals are covered) should be designed to assist the Secretary in the audits she performs to determine noncompliance with the bill’s health coverage participation requirements.

Requires the development of standards for accessible equipment, and requires relevant agencies to ensure that all entities covered by the legislation meet the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act. The Committee recognizes that a critical component of providing health care to many individuals with disabilities is ensuring that diagnostic and treatment equipment is accessible to those with impairments which impede use of standard equipment. Inaccessible medical equipment often prevents people with disabilities from receiving the basic care others take for granted, such as getting weighed, preventative dental care, mammograms, pelvic exams, x-rays, physical examinations, colonoscopies, and vision screenings.

Subtitle F of Division C adds a new provision to reduce the student-to-school nurse ratio. Section 2551 makes available demonstration grants to eligible local education agencies with the purpose of reducing the student-to-school nurse ratio in public elementary and secondary schools with special consideration given to high-need local educational agencies who demonstrate the greatest need for new or additional nursing services by providing information on the current ratios of students to school nurses.

The last modification within the Miller substitute recognizes the importance of preventive approaches to health and wellness. Section 2552 authorizes the Secretary of Labor to offer incentives to employers who establish qualified wellness programs for their employees. The Committee believes these small grants will assist in improving the health of our nation’s workforce and will reduce employer healthcare costs. Participating employers must offer the programs to all employees and cannot mandate participation nor use participation as a condition to receive any financial incentive.

The amendment was defeated by a roll call vote of 19-29.

The second amendment offered by Representative Biggert (R-IL) would prohibit the Commissioner or any health insurance issuer offering health insurance coverage through the HIE from discriminating against approving or covering health care services based on religious or spiritual content if expenditures for such a health care service are allowable under 213(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. SENATE CONSIDERATION OF THE AFFORDABLE HEALTH CHOICES ACT

Beginning on June 17, 2009 the HELP Committee met to mark-up the Affordable Health Choices Act. The Committee reported the bill as amended on July 15, 2009 by a vote of 13–10.

III. SUMMARY OF THE BILL

America's Affordable Health Choices Act makes critical reforms to this nation's broken health care system. It will lower costs, preserve choice, and expand access to quality, affordable care. To protect families struggling with health care costs and inadequate coverage, the bill ensures that health insurance companies can no longer compete based on risk selection. By prohibiting rate increases based on pre-existing conditions, gender and occupation, the bill requires that insurance companies instead compete based on quality and efficiency. In addition, H.R. 3200 will lower the cost of health care by eliminating co-pays and deductibles for preventive care, capping annual out-of-pocket expenses, prohibiting lifetime limits, and allowing the uninsured, part-time workers, and employees of some small businesses to obtain group rates by purchasing health care through the HIE.

H.R. 3200 will expand choice of health insurance, especially in many parts of the country where families have very limited choices because of the nature of the insurance market. The HIE will serve as an organized and transparent “marketplace for the purchase of health insurance”⁷ where individuals and employees (phased-in over time) can shop and compare health insurance options. To participate in the HIE, insurers will be required to meet the insurance market reforms and consumer protections and offer the essential benefits package established by the new independent benefits advisory committee. Individuals and families under 400 percent of poverty who qualify for affordability credits will be able to use that money in the HIE to help offset the costs of their health care coverage.

One health insurance choice within the HIE will be the public health insurance option. The public option will be required to operate on the same level as private insurance companies, adhering to the same market reforms and consumer protections, and it will be required to be financed from its premiums. Rates will vary geographically just as private insurers do. The public plan option will be able to utilize payment rates similar to Medicare with provider rates at Medicare plus 5 percent. However, beginning in Y4 the Secretary will have the authority to use an administrative process to set rates (at levels that do not increase costs) in order to promote payment accuracy and the delivery of affordable and efficient care.

The inclusion of a public option in the HIE will help to rein in the costs of health insurance while preserving access. At all times, the Secretary retains the authority to utilize innovative payment mechanisms and policies to improve health outcomes, reduce health disparities, and promote quality and integrated care. Furthermore, the public option will represent choice in many communities where one insurer dominates the market. Consequently, the public health insurance option has the ability to increase competition and control costs. However, no one, including employers who put their employees into the HIE, can place or force anyone into the public option. The decision to enroll in a private plan or the public option is always left to individuals and families to decide for themselves.

H.R. 3200 is built upon the premise of shared responsibility among individuals, employers and the government, so that everyone contributes and has access to affordable, quality health care. America’s Affordable Health Choices Act gives employers the choice to either offer health insurance or pay a percentage of payroll for their employees to go into the HIE.

Beginning in 2013, employers “playing” will be required to offer health coverage to all of their full-time employees and contribute 72.5 percent of the premium for an individual and 65 percent for a family premium. For part-time workers, employers will have the choice to either offer health coverage on a pro rata basis or pay the required penalty. There will be no minimum benefit requirement for existing employer-sponsored health plans until the end of 2018. At that time, employers who “play” will be required to offer coverage that is no less than the minimum benefit level within the Exchange and must include the insurance market reforms.

Employers may also choose to “pay” instead of play. A “pay” employer would be required to make a contribution equal to 8 percent of their payroll to the HIE. However, recognizing the difficulties small businesses face, the bill includes a number of provisions to help small employers. For example, H.R. 3200 exempts employers with payrolls of $250,000 or less from the pay or play requirements. For employers with payroll between $250,000 and $400,000 the contribution amount phases-up from 2 to 8 percent so that only employers with payrolls greater than $400,000 will pay the full 8 percent.

Whether obtaining coverage through an employer, a spouse or the HIE, H.R. 3200 requires that individuals either enroll in health care coverage or pay 2.5 percent of their adjusted gross income capped at the total cost of the average cost premium offered in the HIE. Recognizing that high health care costs prevent many Americans from securing health care coverage, H.R. 3200 provides for affordability credits to help eligible low- and middle-income individuals and families purchase coverage in the HIE. In addition, for those who can demonstrate that they are unable to afford health insurance, the Health Choices Commissioner (Commissioner) retains the authority to develop and grant hardship waivers.

The affordability credits provided for under the bill will be available to individuals and families with incomes between 133 to 400 percent of the federal poverty level. Medicaid will be expanded so that anyone below 133 percent of poverty will be Medicaid eligible and that expansion will be fully federally financed. Employees who are offered health insurance through an employer will be unable to go into the HIE and receive affordability credits unless that employer coverage is deemed unaffordable. An unaffordable employer offer is one where the employees’ share of the premium and cost sharing are more than 11 percent of family income.

Finally, as millions of Americans gain coverage, investments in the health care workforce are critical to ensuring all Americans have access to needed care. H.R. 3200 includes significant investments to help train more primary care and public health physicians as well as nurses. It puts into place incentives to encourage more people to become doctors and nurses (particularly in rural areas). Some of the workforce provisions include: (1) increased funding for the National Health Service Corp.; (2) expanded scholarships and loans for health professionals who work in shortage professions and areas; (3) steps to increase physician training outside of the hospital and redistribute unfilled graduate medical education residency slots so that more primary care physicians can be trained; and (4) grants through the Department of Labor to help train and retain nurses.

IV. COMMITTEE VIEWS

The Committee on Education and Labor of the 111th Congress is committed to containing the cost of health care and ensuring that every American has access to affordable, quality health care coverage. H.R. 3200 includes critical reforms to the health care system that are needed to reduce surging premium and health care costs that families, businesses and governments are struggling to afford. The bill cuts over a half trillion dollars from the health care system, ensures that no one is ever one illness away from bankruptcy and creates a system where 97 percent of Americans will have health care coverage by 2015.

OVERVIEW

Health care reform is a critical issue in this country. There are 47 million people in the United States without health care coverage and almost nine million of them are children.⁸ Meanwhile, health care costs are rising for nearly everyone. The United States spends over $2.4 trillion—more than 18 percent of GDP—on health care services and products—far more than other industrialized countries.⁹ In addition, health care costs continue to grow faster than the economy as a whole, and individuals and families are burdened by the weight of these escalating expenses. Yet, for all this spending, the United States' scores are average or worse on many key indicators of health care quality. Health care reform is critical to restoring prosperity for our nation's families and H.R. 3200 will ensure that coverage is truly affordable and dependable for hard-working Americans.

The Uninsured

The number of uninsured persons in the United States continues to grow, from 44.8 million in 2005 to 47.0 million in 2006. The percentage of uninsured is also rising, from 15.3 percent of the total population in 2005 to 15.8 percent in 2006.¹⁰

More than two-thirds of the uninsured live in a household with one full-time worker. These increasing numbers can be attributed to the rising cost of health care, a decline in manufacturing jobs and an increase in workers employed in the service industries and small businesses, which are less likely to provide insurance.¹¹ Roughly two-thirds of Americans without health insurance have incomes 200 percent below the federal poverty level—or approximately $44,000 for a family of four.¹² Not surprisingly, those in households with annual incomes below $25,000 are even less likely to be insured. In 2006, twenty-five percent of these Americans were uninsured in comparison to 16 percent of the total population.¹³

Approximately 162 million non-elderly workers and their dependents received health coverage through their employment-based health plans.¹⁴ However, millions of other working Americans are unable to participate in an employer-sponsored plan, either because the employer does not offer coverage or the employee is not eligible under the plan. In 2005, 20 percent of “wage and salary” workers had an employer that did not offer any coverage to their workers. And 18 percent were not eligible for the health plan that was offered by their employer.¹⁵ For example, some firms do not offer coverage to part-time employees and some do not offer coverage to workers who have been employed for less than a specific amount of time.

While employer-sponsored plans still remain the dominant source of health coverage for most Americans, the percentage of people obtaining health coverage through these plans has been steadily shrinking. For example, 60 percent of employers offered benefits in 2007, compared with 69 percent in 2000. Most of this decline can be attributed to the decline in small businesses (less than 200 workers) offering coverage.¹⁶ Among firms with less than 10 workers, the offer rate dropped from 57 percent in 2000 to 45 percent in 2007.¹⁷ For employers who have stopped offering coverage, almost three out of four say that premiums are too expensive.¹⁸

Unaffordable Health Care Coverage

Employers and workers alike are increasingly concerned about the rising costs of health care and insurance. Premiums for employer-sponsored health coverage are rising much faster than workers’ earnings and inflation. Between spring 2006 and spring 2007, premiums for coverage offered by employers across the United States increased by 6.1 percent—more than twice the growth in the Consumer Price Index (CPI). The average annual cost of employer-sponsored health insurance was nearing $13,000 in 2008. In response to these steady premium hikes, many companies are asking their employees to cover some of the new costs. For instance, workers taking single coverage through an employer paid 12 percent more for their coverage in 2007 than in 2006. Premiums for a family of four paid by workers increased by 10 percent from 2006 to 2007.¹⁹

These increases are of great concern, and more and more workers believe that they may not be able to afford their share of the cost of coverage. In a recent poll by the Pew Research Center,²⁰ forty-four percent of workers surveyed say that affording health insurance is difficult or very difficult. In addition, almost three out of four uninsured workers who chose not to participate in their employer's health plan in 2002 said the plan was too costly. Workers also know that if they lose their job, they are likely to lose access to affordable health care coverage.

In addition, among those employers that offer benefits, a large percentage of firms report that in the next year not only are they very or somewhat likely to increase the amount workers contribute to premiums (45 percent), but they will also increase deductible amounts (37 percent), office visit cost sharing (42 percent) or the amount that employees have to pay for prescription drugs (41 percent).²¹

The problem of being "underinsured" has also become increasingly relevant. One recent study estimated that 29 percent of individuals who have insurance are "underinsured" and have coverage that is inadequate to secure them access to needed care or protect against catastrophic medical bills.²²

The Commonwealth Fund found that 25 million adults who had health coverage in 2007 were underinsured²³—a 60 percent increase from the 16 million Americans who were underinsured in 2003.²⁴ Another study found that while 16 percent of adults spent more than 10 percent of their family income on health care service in 1996. By 2003 the proportion of adults bearing these health-related "catastrophic financial burdens" had increased to 19 percent to about 49 million individuals.²⁵ Another study found that financial burdens had increased to the point that private health insurance coverage no longer provided adequate financial protection for low-income families.²⁶

In addition, many families have little room within their family budgets for large or unexpected out-of-pocket health care expenses. In 2003, an estimated 77 million Americans—nearly two out of five adults—had difficulty paying medical bills.²⁷ Even working age adults who were continually insured had problems paying their medical bills and carried medical debt as a result. Nearly half of all bankruptcies in the United States are related, in part, to health care expenses. And of those facing medical bankruptcies, roughly three-quarters had health insurance at the onset of their bankrupting illness.²⁸

The risk of being underinsured or experiencing financial problems due to health spending varies not only by family income, but also by health status. According to Judy Feder, Senior Fellow at the Center for American Progress, “health care affordability is particularly elusive for individuals with chronic illness and other conditions that require on-going, often costly, medical care.”²⁹ Individuals who are older and have chronic conditions such as diabetes, heart disease, or arthritis, or have experienced a stroke, are more likely to spend a high proportion of their income on health expenses. If these individuals do not have an employer-sponsored health plan, or if they lose this coverage, their ability to purchase coverage in the non-group market is limited at best. The non-group market systematically denies coverage, limits benefits, and charges excessive premiums to individuals with pre-existing conditions or those who are perceived to be at high-risk. Ironically, the people who are more likely to become sick—the very population that insurance is supposed to protect—are also more likely to be underinsured and face grave financial problems.

The Consequences of being Uninsured or Underinsured

Being uninsured makes it more likely that a person will not receive adequate medical care. Individuals without insurance often go without or delay care, and the care they do receive is likely to be lower quality than the care received by insured individuals. An estimated 18,000 to 22,000 Americans die each year because they do not have health coverage.³⁰ The length of time a person goes without health insurance also makes a difference—people who are uninsured for at least a year report being in worse health than those uninsured for a shorter period of time.³¹ Finally, lack of coverage and coverage stability is particularly burdensome on the seriously and chronically ill, whose care is often delayed or denied when they cannot pay.³²

HEALTH CARE COSTS AND SPENDING: THE COST OF DOING NOTHING

H.R. 3200 ensures quality and affordable health care choices for all Americans while also controlling costs in a system in which costs have spiraled out of control. The United States spends over $2.4 trillion on health care each year.³³ As noted earlier, health care expenditures in the United States constitute approximately 18 percent of the current Gross Domestic Product (GDP).³⁴ If health care costs continue to grow at historical rates, the share of GDP devoted to health care in the United States is projected to reach 34 percent by 2040.³⁵

International Comparisons

The United States devotes a far larger share of GDP to health care spending more than two times per person on health care than any other OECD (Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development) country.³⁶ While health care expenditures in the United States are about 18 percent of GDP³⁷ the OECD reports that the next highest country was Switzerland—with 11.3 percent—and in most other high-income countries, the share was less than 10 percent.³⁸

Despite outpacing other countries with investments in health care, the U.S. fails to produce better health outcomes in fundamental ways. OECD data shows that life expectancy in the United States is lower than in any other high-income country, as well as in many middle-income countries.³⁹ Similarly, the infant mortality rate in the United States is substantially higher than that of other developed countries. While many factors other than health care expenditures may affect life expectancy and infant mortality rates—for example, demographics, lifestyle behaviors, income inequality, non-health disparities, and measurement differences across countries⁴⁰—the Council of Economic Advisors (CEA) has concluded that “the fact that the United States lags behind lower spending countries is strongly suggestive of substantial inefficiency in our current system.”⁴¹ Indeed, according to estimates by the CEA based on the spending and outcomes in other countries, efficiency improvements in the U.S. health care system potentially could free up resources equal to 5 percent of U.S. GDP.⁴²

Analyzing health care spending over time, the CEA also notes that while health care spending has increased in other countries as well, the spending by the U.S. has not yielded the same outcomes as other countries. In 1970, the United States devoted only a moderately higher fraction of GDP to health care than other high-income countries, whereas in 2009 the United States spends dramatically more.⁴³ Yet, during that same period, life expectancy has actually risen less in the United States than in other countries.⁴⁴ This data suggests that much of the increased U.S. spending is inefficient.⁴⁵

Cost of the Uninsured

While the U.S. health care system currently leaves 47 million Americans uninsured⁴⁶ and approximately 25 million underinsured,⁴⁷ the CEA projects that the number of uninsured could increase to 72 million by 2040.⁴⁸ Such increases in the numbers of uninsured people will create additional uncompensated care costs, which include costs incurred by hospitals and physicians for the charity care they provide to the uninsured as well as bad debt such as unpaid bills.⁴⁹ Both the federal government and state governments use tax revenues to pay health care providers for a portion of these costs through programs such as Disproportionate Share Hospital (DSH) payments and grants to Community Health Centers.⁵⁰ In 2008, total government spending to reimburse uncompensated care costs incurred by medical providers was approximately $42.9 billion.⁵¹ The CEA projects that if the U.S. does not slow the real growth rate of health spending and a subsequent rise in the uninsured, the real annual tax burden of uncompensated care for an average family of four will rise from $627 in 2008 to $1,652 (in 2008 dollars) by 2030.⁵²

Costs to Individuals and Families

As the cost of health care skyrockets, families and employers offering health insurance struggle to absorb the increased costs. In 2008, employer-based premiums increased by 5 percent. That growth was even greater for small firms. On average, they incurred a premium increase of 5.5 percent, and, for those with 24 or fewer workers, their respective increase was 6.8 percent.⁵³ Much of the increase in health care costs has been shifted onto workers. In 2008, the average annual premium for a family of four was $12,700, and workers contributed approximately $3,400 of that total which was 12 percent more than the year before. Workers are now paying $1,600 more for family coverage than they did 10 years ago.⁵⁴ Over the last decade, health care costs have risen on average four times faster than workers' earnings.⁵⁵

These dramatic increases in health care costs have serious implications for American households. Some economists believe that, over the long run, workers pay for the rising cost of health insurance through lower wages.⁵⁶ To illustrate this relationship, the CEA has analyzed historical and projected average annual total compensation (measured in 2008 dollars), which includes wages as well as non-wage benefits such as health insurance.⁵⁷ Their analysis indicates that health insurance premiums are growing more rapidly than total compensation in percentage terms, and as a result, an increasing share of total compensation that a worker receives goes to cover health insurance premiums.⁵⁸ Moreover, the CEA notes that households with employer-sponsored health insurance could also be affected by rapid cost growth as employers shift to less generous plans with higher annual deductibles.⁵⁹ It is important to note, however, that the wage stagnation experienced by workers over recent decades cannot be attributed solely to rising health care costs. For example, low-wage workers have experienced real wage declines in recent years despite few such workers having access to or participating in employment-based health insurance coverage.⁶⁰ More economic dynamics are at work in the wage squeeze on workers, but rising health costs contribute to the downward pressure.

H.R. 3200 Will Increase Standards of Living and Create New Jobs

By slowing the growth in health care costs, standards of living will improve and resources will be freed to improve and expand the health care system. The CEA projects that slowing growth by 1.5 percentage points per year will save a family $2,600 by 2020.⁶¹ By 2030 that savings would be increased to nearly $10,000.⁶²

Furthermore, the CEA estimates that the coverage expansions that will result from health reform will produce a net benefit of approximately $100 billion a year, or about two-thirds of a percent of GDP.⁶³ According to its analysis, health care reform will lower the unemployment rate in the United States and could add as many as 500,000 jobs on an annual basis.⁶⁴ By producing a more healthy and productive workforce, health care reform will improve standards of living and help strengthen the U.S. economy.

Shared Responsibility & Employment-Based Health Care Insurance

In order to control costs and expand access to quality affordable health care, everyone must be covered and employers, individuals and the government must share in this responsibility. Consistent with the minimum wage and overtime laws, H.R. 3200 creates a fundamental right to a minimum level of health care contribution and/or coverage through an employer. As noted earlier, two-thirds of Americans receive health coverage through an employer, and H.R. 3200 builds upon the current employer-based system by implementing a ‘pay or play’ requirement.

The employer responsibility to provide and/or contribute to the health care of its workers will stabilize the employer-based health care system. Because the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) currently contains no requirement that an employer offer employee benefits, employers who do not offer health insurance to their workers gain an unfair economic advantage relative to those employers who do provide coverage, and millions of hard-working Americans and their families are left without health insurance. It is a vicious cycle because these uninsured workers turn to emergency rooms for health care which in turn increases costs for employers and families with health insurance. It is estimated that in 2008 premiums were about 8 percent or $1,100 higher due to this hidden cost shift.⁶⁵

Strengthening the Employer-Based System

Millions of employers voluntarily decide to offer health benefits because it is in their economic interest. Employers are not taxed on their contributions to employees' health care, and these costs are deductible as a business expense.⁶⁶ In addition, large employers can offer health care coverage at a much lower cost because they can negotiate with insurers and have a larger pool of employees to spread the risk. Furthermore, employers recognize that investments in health care can produce gains in employee health which means fewer missed days, higher productivity and better overall job satisfaction.

Despite the incentives to offer health coverage, skyrocketing health care costs make it difficult for employers, particularly small businesses, to offer comprehensive health insurance. As noted earlier, while approximately 63 percent of the under-65 population and their dependents have insurance through employment,⁶⁷ the number of employers offering health care coverage has been declining over the last decade. The number of people getting health coverage through an employer dropped by 3 million between 2000 and 2007,⁶⁸ largely due to increasing costs. In addition, the Center for American Progress projects that as a result of layoffs, approximately 14,000 Americans lose their employer-sponsored coverage each day.⁶⁹ Overall, since 1999 premiums have increased 120 percent and at a rate that is on average four times faster than workers' earnings.⁷⁰

However, even without an employer shared responsibility requirement, 86 percent of employers surveyed report that they will continue offering health care despite increasing costs.⁷¹ Many of these employers are large ones who use health care benefits as a means to recruit and retain employees. Health care benefits are "highly valued by employees, and risk-averse employers may be reluctant to take advantage of the option of dropping coverage" even though they can currently do so.⁷²

H.R. 3200 generally will not change what many employers are already doing. Beginning in 2013, the bill requires employers already offering health insurance to make an offer to all full-time employees and contribute 72.5 percent of the cost toward an individual policy and 65 percent toward a family policy. Today, employers on average contribute 83 percent toward the coverage of individual premiums and 71 percent toward the coverage of family premiums.⁷³

The second phase of requirements under H.R. 3200 for existing employer health plans does not take effect until the end of 2018. At that time, in addition to making the required contribution amount, every employer-sponsored health plan will have to, at a minimum meet the essential benefit standards defined by the benefits committee, as well as satisfy the insurance reform standards specified in the bill. Employer health insurance plans will be required to be equivalent to no less than 70 percent of the actuarial value minus the cost sharing components of the essential benefit package. The majority of employers already meet this standard. According to the Congressional Research Service, the typical employer-sponsored PPO has an estimated actuarial value between 80–84 percent, while the typical employer-sponsored health savings account (HSA) and a qualified high deductible health plan (HDHP) has an estimated actuarial value of 76 percent, excluding contributions by an employer.⁷⁴

While many employer plans already meet the bill's requirements, there are some notable omissions. For example, 10 percent of employer plans do not offer mental health and substance use disorder benefits and many include caps on lifetime limits and out of pocket expenses. In these cases, employers will have over 8 years to modify their plans and meet the requirements. Finally, H.R. 3200 extends the same benefit and insurance reform standards in all new employer and HIE plans, so that individuals and families have access in either case to affordable quality health coverage.

Protecting Small Business

For small business, health reform “is their number one need.”⁷⁵ Forty-percent report that high costs have a “negative effect on other parts of their business, such as high employee turnover or preventing business growth.”⁷⁶ According to the Small Business Majority, a non-profit independent group representing 27 million small businesses, small businesses spend 18 percent more than large employers for health care coverage.⁷⁷ The result is that in 2008, the percent of firms offering health insurance with three to nine employees dropped from 57 percent to 49 percent.⁷⁸

Small businesses have small purchasing pools and one of the biggest obstacles they face in securing affordable health coverage is the lack of bargaining power they have against the insurance companies. In addition, the administrative costs paid by small businesses can be up to 27 percent of premiums to pay for marketing and paperwork costs and underwriting.⁷⁹

LaShonda Young, a small business owner, testified to the Committee about the problems she has had in seeking coverage for her forty employees. She received eight bids and each was from the same insurance company. She testified her experience isn't unique, as there are only one or two health insurers in her area.⁸⁰ She went on to testify that, "it's been years since we've been able to afford group health insurance . . . we got quotes from a couple of different places, [the] quotes came in at about 13 percent of payroll. [We're] willing to pay our fair share but we just couldn't afford 13 percent . . ." ⁸¹ Even if she was able to afford the coverage, she knew that it wouldn't cover the pre-existing conditions of her employees for up to 18 months and there was no guarantee the costs would remain stable.⁸² As a result, small employers like Young are looking to other ways to help their employees find coverage on their own. Young testified that her company offers small stipends to employees to buy insurance on their own.

High health care costs also present an enormous obstacle for those trying to start or maintain a new business. While small businesses have traditionally played an essential role during prior economic recoveries, the high cost of health care is deterring entrepreneurs from starting a business in the first place. Louise Hardaway started her own business near Nashville, Tennessee. When attempting to get health care insurance she was quoted $12,800 a month to cover herself, her husband, business partner, and her business partner's spouse and child. Due to her inability to find affordable health care coverage Ms. Hardaway went out of business and went to work for another company where she could get health care.⁸³

Recognizing the economic reality for many small businesses, in addition to driving down health care costs overall, H.R. 3200 contains numerous provisions such as tax credits and access to the HIE to help these employers provide coverage and alleviate their costs. In addition, the bill exempts employers from the pay or play requirement if they have payrolls of $250,000 or less. For employers with payrolls above $250,000 who choose not to offer coverage and would rather pay a penalty, that penalty is phased-up so that only employers with payrolls over $400,000 must pay the 8 percent penalty.

The Small Business Majority reports that small businesses, workers and the economy stand to save billions of dollars with the enactment of health care reform.⁸⁴ Absent health care reform small businesses will spend $2.4 trillion in health care costs over the next ten years. With health reform, small businesses will save 36 percent of those costs, as much as $855 billion. Without health reform, small businesses stand to lose $52.1 billion in profits due to high health care costs over the next ten years. Health reform will decrease these losses and save $29.2 billion. Reduced health care costs will allow employers to reinvest in their business and their workers. Without health reform, individuals working for small businesses could lose up to $834 billion in lost wages as employers pass increased health care costs onto their employees over the next ten years. Health reform could save workers over $300 billion over the next ten years.⁸⁵ Reduced health care costs will allow employers to reinvest in their business and their workers.

THE HEALTH INSURANCE EXCHANGE WILL HELP SMALL EMPLOYERS

H.R. 3200 creates a health insurance exchange (HIE) for the uninsured and employees of small businesses to purchase health insurance in the initial years after enactment. Due to the disadvantages small businesses face when trying to purchase health care coverage on their own, both proponents and opponents of the bill believe that a health insurance exchange is essential for small business: “a broad, well-functioning marketplace offering consistency, fairness and healthy competition will vastly improve the availability and affordability of coverage to small businesses and the self-employed.”⁸⁶ Furthermore, it “can be a vehicle that facilitates and monitors the movement of the system toward achievements of many national health care reform goals.” Eighty-percent of small business owners in a recent state survey stated they favor a health insurance pool that they can put their employees into to buy coverage.⁸⁷

A health insurance exchange is an organized marketplace where individuals and some employers can go to purchase health insurance. The HIE is advantageous to those looking to purchase insurance because it provides transparency when individuals and families shop for their health insurance. Currently, insurers are regulated by a patchwork of state laws. Beyond licensing requirements to sell insurance, private health insurance companies and health maintenance organizations (HMO) operate with considerable autonomy. The result is that policies can vary greatly and many policies leave people underinsured.

The robust HIE will not only organize the marketplace but also include insurance reforms and consumer protections, administer affordability credits, and provide people with choice of plans. The HIE will require that insurers, both private and public, adhere to the same rules. To help consumers make educated decisions the Commissioner will conduct outreach and provide assistance to consumers. The Commissioner will ensure that information is readily available in plain language and is provided in a culturally and linguistically appropriate manner. Furthermore, qualified health benefits plans (QHBP) including those participating in the HIE will be required to comply with transparency requirements established by the Commissioner, including the accurate and timely disclosure of plan documents, plan terms and conditions, as well as information on cost-sharing and payments with respect to out-of-network coverage, claims denials and other information to help educate consumers.

In addition to monitoring and streamlining the insurance industry, the HIE will play a significant role in containing health care costs. Health care costs are comprised of both the underlying costs of providing health care services as well as the administrative costs related to the provisions of coverage.⁸⁸ The HIE will require participating plans to offer standardized benefit packages which will increase the ability to compare plans and “reinforce incentives for insurers to price premiums as competitively as possible.”⁸⁹ Lower cost plans in the HIE will help those employers who “play” by putting their employees into HIE because they will be responsible for a set contribution amount regardless of the plan an employee choose.⁹⁰ Furthermore, the affordability credits available to individuals in the HIE who do not enter the exchange with an employer contribution are tied to the average of the lowest three plans which will then incentivize individuals to choose low-cost plans. By the same token, insurers will be incentivized to offer low-cost plans in order to get more business.⁹¹

Access & Cost Containment Through A Public Health Insurance Option

The inclusion of a strong public health insurance option in the HIE will save over one hundred billion dollars and provide choice to millions of consumers who currently have little or no choice when looking for a health plan. Its inclusion in the HIE will promote value and innovation in the private health insurance industry by increasing competition. The result is that the public option will lower costs for consumers across the private market.

The public health insurance option will provide access to meaningful choice, something many Americans have never had when searching for a health plan. Many areas only have one or two dominant insurance options that control the market and thus have no downward pressure on costs.⁹² Furthermore, “it is often in [these insurers’] interest to pay higher rates to key doctors and hospitals because they can pass on these costs to individuals and employers.”⁹³ For insurers trying to enter a market, this practice makes it difficult for them to compete and reduce costs.

While the public option will be subject to the same standards as private plans, the public option can use administrative efficiencies to control costs. On average, private insurance overhead was about 11.7 percent of premiums which is significantly higher when compared to public insurers (Medicare is estimated at 3.6 percent and Medicaid at 6.8 percent).⁹⁴ In addition, because the public option is a health plan available nationwide it will have a broad reach and be able to obtain larger volume discounts and will not operate for profit.⁹⁵ Accordingly, the public option in H.R. 3200 will serve as a “benchmark for private plans, a backup to allow consumers access to a good plan with broad access to providers in all parts of the country, and to serve as a cost-control backstop.”⁹⁶

Ultimately, it will be up to consumers in the HIE to decide whether to enroll in the public option or a private plan. H.R. 3200 intends to create a level playing field for both to compete. Consumers will be able to compare what each plan offers—private plans or the public option—and decide which plan serves them and their families best.⁹⁷

Ensuring Access to Health Care Through Insurance Market Reforms

Comprehensive insurance reforms are another critical element of health reform. Guaranteeing access to health care and protecting against medical debt largely depends on implementing comprehensive insurance reforms. About “20 percent of the population accounts for 80 percent of health spending;” the “sickest one-percent accounting for nearly one-quarter of health expenditures.”⁹⁸ This uneven distribution of medical care creates incentives for insurance companies to avoid risk altogether rather than trying to spread it among the insured population.⁹⁹ As a result, health insurers—particularly in the individual market—have adopted discriminatory, but not illegal, practices to cherry-pick healthy people and to weed out those who are not as healthy.¹⁰⁰ These practices include: denying health coverage based on pre-existing conditions or medical history,¹⁰¹ even minor ones; charging higher, and often unaffordable, rates based on one’s health; excluding pre-existing medical conditions from coverage; charging different premiums based on gender;¹⁰² and rescinding policies after claims are made based on an assertion that an insured’s original application was incomplete.¹⁰³ In addition, while “state and federal laws give individuals the right ¹⁰¹ See Fran Visco, testimony before the Committee on Education and Labor (June 22, 2009). Ms Visco testifying on behalf of the National Breast Coalition, stressed how no insurance or inadequate insurance has had a devastating effect on women diagnosed with breast cancer.

¹⁰² A 2008 report by the National Women’s Law Center examined individual insurance policies in 47 states and the District of Columbia and found that most of the states engage in a practice called “gender rating” where insurance companies arbitrarily charge women and men different rates for individual insurance premiums. Specifically, they found that women under 55 are charged more for health insurance than men (at age 25, 4% to 45% more; at age 40, 4 to 48% more). In addition, the report discovered that the vast majority of individual policies do not cover maternity leave, and in 9 states and the District of Columbia, insurers can reject survivors of domestic violence and those who have had C-sections. to renew their health insurance coverage, guaranteed renewability provides no protection against rate increases.”¹⁰⁴

Discrimination based on health, gender and other factors has severe economic consequences for those who have been unable to find affordable health coverage and for those who have coverage, but are under-insured.¹⁰⁵ As noted earlier, these practices have resulted in about 57 million Americans having debt because of medical bills,¹⁰⁶ and over 42 million of that number has some sort of medical coverage.¹⁰⁷ Medical debt is now the leading cause of personal bankruptcy.¹⁰⁸

A key element to health reform is to prohibit risk selection practices and to support those factors based on quality and efficiency. Where states have prohibited these discriminatory practices, consumers have benefitted. For example, since 1993, Maine requires insurers to provide health insurance to individuals or small businesses on a “guarantee issue” basis. In addition, it also has an “adjusted community rating” so that prices for policies are set based on “the collective claims experience of anyone with a policy” and not on any one individual’s medical history.¹⁰⁹

H.R. 3200 includes insurance market reforms ending discriminatory practices conducted by insurance companies. These reforms will apply both inside and outside the HIE to end the discriminatory practices currently practiced by insurance companies. The bill requires that all policies be sold on a guaranteed issue basis; prohibits insurers from excluding coverage based on pre-existing conditions; and prohibits insurers from charging higher rates based on health status, gender, or other factors. It would allow premiums to vary based only on age (no more than 2:1),¹¹⁰ geography and family size. In addition, the bill prohibits lifetime and annual limits on benefits so that families no longer face bankruptcy as a result of a serious medical illness.

STRENGTHENING THE HEALTH CARE WORKFORCE

As millions of new people gain access to health care coverage, H.R. 3200 recognizes that significant investments in the health care workforce are needed. There is mounting evidence that the nationwide healthcare workforce shortage is accelerating. The Health Resources and Services Administration, within the Department of Health and Human Services, reported in January of this year that twenty states were experiencing scarcities of physicians and nurses.¹¹¹ In particular, dramatic shortages in the health care workforce are seen in primary care and nursing.

Indeed, demand for primary care physicians outpaces supply more than in other specialty group.¹¹² Specifically, the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) estimates that primary care accounts for 37 percent of the total projected shortage in 2025.¹¹³ Primary care physicians are leaving the practice of medicine sooner than other physician specialties at the same time that fewer medical students and residents are choosing to make the practice of general internal medicine and primary care their central career goal.¹¹⁴ For many students, the costs of medical education are so high that they feel compelled to specialize in more lucrative subspecialties in order to manage their debt.¹¹⁵

While registered nurses constitute the largest single healthcare profession in the United States, there is a worsening nursing shortage.¹¹⁶ In 2000, the national supply of full time registered nurses was estimated at 1.89 million while the demand was estimated at 2 million, a shortage of 110,000 nurses.¹¹⁷ Studies published in both The New England Journal of Medicine and The Journal of the American Medical Association confirms that the shortage of registered nurses is influencing the delivery of health care in the United States and negatively affecting patient outcomes.¹¹⁸

The current nursing shortage is a product of several trends including: a diminishing pipeline of new students to nursing, a decline in RN earnings relative to other career options, an aging nursing workforce, low job satisfaction and poor working conditions that contribute to high attrition rates.¹¹⁹ Compounding these problems is the fact that nursing colleges and universities across the country are struggling to expand enrollment to meet the rising demand for nursing care. According to an American Association of Colleges of Nursing report, nursing schools turned away 49,948 qualified applicants from baccalaureate and graduate nursing programs in 2008 due to insufficient number of faculty, clinical sites, classroom space, clinical preceptors, and budget constraints.¹²⁰

The shortage of health care workers in this country disproportionately impacts those Americans residing in rural areas. The National Health Service Corps (NHSC) was established in the Emergency Health Personnel Act of 1970 (P.L. 91-623) to improve the distribution of health workers in underserved rural areas by providing scholarship support to students in qualified medical professions in exchange for a period of service in a Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA).

Administered by the Health Resources and Services Administration, in 2008, 14,000 students applied to the program for financial assistance. However, the Agency was only budgeted to grant one of every seven requests.¹²¹

H.R. 3200 includes significant investments in the health care workforce to directly address the shortages outlined. The legislation provides resources to help train more primary care physicians as well as registered nurses. It puts into place incentives to encourage more people to become doctors and nurses, particularly in rural areas. Specifically, the bill increases funding for the National Health Service Corps in order to expand scholarships and loans for health professionals that work in shortage professions and areas. In addition, it creates an advisory committee on health workforce evaluation to assess the adequacy and appropriateness of the health workforce, and to make recommendations to the Secretary of Health and Human Services on federal workforce policies to ensure the health workforce is meeting the nation's needs.

V. SECTION-BY-SECTION SUMMARY¹²²

Division I

Title I—Protections and Standards for Qualified Health Benefits Plans

Subtitle A—General Standards

Sec. 100. Purpose; Table of Contents of Division; General Definitions

Purpose

The purpose of this division is to provide affordable, quality health care for all Americans and reduce the growth in health care spending. In addition, this division achieves this purpose by building on what works in today's health care system, while repairing the aspects that are broken. Insurance reforms that this division encompasses are:

- Enacting insurance market reforms
- Creating a new Health Insurance Exchange, with a public health insurance option alongside private plans
 - Including sliding scale affordability credits
 - Initiating shared responsibility among workers, employers, and the government

This division institutes health delivery system reforms both to increase quality and to reduce growth in health spending so that health care becomes more affordable for businesses, families, and government.

General Definitions (Created within this Act)

The public option would be required to offer basic, enhanced, and premium plans, and would be allowed to offer premium-plus plans. Payment rates for prescription drugs not covered by Medicare part A or B will be covered by the public option at prices negotiated by the Secretary.

- Service Area, Premium Rating Area—with respect to health insurance coverage: (1) if not within the Health Insurance Exchange, an area established by a QHBP offering entity of such coverage in accordance with applicable state law or (2) within the Health Insurance Exchange, an area established by such entity in accordance with state law and applicable rules set forth by the Commissioner for exchange-participating health benefits plans.
- “State”—given term for purposes of the Medicaid program, but only includes the 50 states and the District of Columbia.
- Y1, Y2, etc.—2013, 2014, etc.

Sec. 101. Requirements Reforming Health Insurance Marketplace

Current Law

Regulation of the private health insurance market is primarily done at the state level. State regulatory authority is broad in scope and includes requirements related to the issuance and renewal of coverage, benefits, rating, consumer protections, and other issues. Federal regulation of the private market is more narrow in scope and applicable mostly to employer-sponsored health insurance (i.e., through the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA)).

Proposed Law

This provision would require “qualified health benefits plans” (QHBP) to meet the new federal health insurance standards specified in Subtitles B (relating to affordable coverage), C (relating to essential benefits) and D (relating to consumer protection) of Title I. The section also provides terminology for the phrases “enrollment in employment-based health plans;” and “individual and group health insurance coverage.”

This provision also includes a Sense of Congress that the final bill must meaningfully address the health care needs of the territories.

Sec. 102. Protecting the Choice to Keep Current Coverage

Current Law

See description under Sec. 101.

Proposed Law

“Grandfathered health insurance coverage” would be defined as individual health insurance coverage that is in effect before the first day of 2013, as long as the insurance carrier does not (1) enroll new individuals on or after the first day of 2013 (would not affect subsequent enrollment of a dependent); (2) change any terms or conditions of the individual coverage, except as required by law; and (3) vary the percentage increase in premiums for a risk group of enrollees without changing the premium for all enrollees in the same risk group at the same rate, as specified by the Commissioner. The Commissioner would establish a five-year grace period beginning in 2013 for existing group health plans to transition to the new federal health insurance standards applied to QHBPs. The grace period would not apply to limited benefits plans specified in the provision, such as dental only, vision only, flexible spending arrangements, and others.

Individual health insurance coverage that is not grandfathered, may only be offered after the first day of 2013 as an Exchange-plan. Excepted benefits (e.g., accident or disability insurance) could be offered as long as they are offered and priced separately from health insurance coverage. New group health plans would have to comply with this Act on 2013.

For purposes of the individual mandate (established under title III of Division A), an individual would be required to have “acceptable coverage.” In order for an individual health insurance policy to be considered acceptable coverage, the policy would be either grandfathered health insurance coverage or offered through the HIE (established under title II of Division A) or otherwise deemed or determined to be acceptable coverage under the bill. Group health coverage, including group health coverage consisting of a consumer-directed plan, provided during the grace period would be considered acceptable coverage.

Section 102(b)(3), providing an exception for treating consumer-directed health plans and arrangements as acceptable coverage, was added by an amendment which originally called for a “permanent” exception. The word “permanent” was dropped from the amendment by unanimous consent, as Members of the Committee agreed that such exception for treating consumer-directed health plans as acceptable coverage should only be effective during the five-year grace period, not permanently.

Subtitle B—Standards Guaranteeing Access to Affordable Coverage

Sec. 111. Prohibiting Pre-Existing Condition Exclusions

Current Law

The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA), which amended ERISA, limits the duration that issuers in the group market may exclude coverage for pre-existing health conditions for “HIPAA eligible” individuals, among other provisions. Group plans may impose pre-existing condition exclusions for no longer than 12 months (18 months in the case of a late enrollee), and must decrease that exclusion period by the number of months an enrollee had prior “creditable coverage.” HIPAA outright prohibits issuers in the individual market from excluding coverage for pre-existing conditions for HIPAA eligibles.

All states require health issuers to reduce the period of time when coverage for pre-existing health conditions may be excluded, in compliance with HIPAA. As of January 2009 in the small group market, 21 states had pre-existing condition exclusion rules that provided consumer protection above the federal standard. And as of December 2008 in the individual market, 42 states limit the period of time when coverage for pre-existing health conditions may be excluded for non-HIPAA eligible enrollees in that market.

Proposed Law

This provision would create a uniform minimum standard prohibiting a qualified health benefits plan from excluding coverage for pre-existing health conditions, or otherwise limiting or conditioning such coverage with respect to an individual or dependent based on any health status-related factors. Such factors include health status, medical condition (including both physical and mental illnesses), claims experience, receipt of health care, medical history, genetic information, evidence of insurability (including conditions arising out of acts of domestic violence) and disability.

Sec. 112. Guaranteed Issue and Renewal for Insured Plans

Current Law

HIPAA requires that coverage sold to small groups (2–50 employees) must be sold on a guaranteed issue basis. That is, the issuer must accept every small employer that applies for coverage. (Guaranteed issue rules do not address premiums.) HIPAA also guarantees that each issuer in the individual market make at least two policies available (“guaranteed availability”) to all HIPAA eligible individuals. In addition, HIPAA guarantees renewal or continuation of group coverage at the option of the plan sponsor (e.g., employer) and individual coverage at the option of the individual, with some exceptions. Insurers may not renew coverage under specified circumstances, such as nonpayment of premiums or fraud.

All states require issuers to offer policies to firms with 2–50 workers on a guaranteed issue basis, in compliance with HIPAA. As of January 2009 in the small group market, 13 states also require issuers to offer policies on a guaranteed issue basis to self-employed “groups of one.” And as of December 2008 in the individual market, 15 states require issuers to offer some or all of their insurance products on a guaranteed issue basis to non-HIPAA eligible individuals.

Proposed Law

This provision would require issuers to offer all health insurance coverage on a guaranteed issue and renewal basis beginning in 2013, whether offered through the HIE (established under Subtitle A of Title II), through any employment-based health plan, or otherwise. Rescissions of coverage would be prohibited, except in cases of fraud.

Sec. 113. Insurance Rating Rules

Current Law

There are no federal rating rules applicable to the private health insurance market. Most states currently impose rating rules on insurance carriers in the small group and individual markets. Existing state rating rules restrict an insurer’s ability to price insurance policies according to the risk of the person or group seeking coverage, and vary from state to state. Such restrictions may specify the case characteristics (or risk factors) that may or may not be considered when setting a premium, such as age. The spectrum of existing state rating limitations ranges from pure community rating, to adjusted (or modified) community rating, to rate bands, to no restrictions. Pure community rating means that premiums cannot vary based on any characteristic related to a person’s or group’s risk, including health. Adjusted community rating means that premiums cannot vary based on health, but may vary based on other key risk factors, such as gender. Rate bands allow premium variation based on health, but such variation is limited according to a range specified by the state. Moreover, both adjusted community rating and rate bands allow premium variation based on any other permitted case characteristic, such as industry. And for each characteristic, the state typically specifies the amount of allowable variation. As of January 2009 in the small group market, one state has pure community rating rules, eleven have adjusted community rating rules, and 35 have rate bands. As of December 2008 in the individual market, two states have pure community rating rules, five have adjusted community rating rules, and eleven have rate bands.

There are no federally-established rating areas in the private health insurance market. However, some states have enacted rating rules in the individual and small group markets that include geographic location as a factor on which premiums may vary. In these cases, the state has established rating areas. Typically, states use counties or zip codes to define those areas.

Proposed Law

This provision would impose new federal rating rules on qualified health benefits plans. QHBP premiums would vary only by age (by no more than a 2:1 ratio within age categories specified by the Commissioner (established under Sec. 141)), premium rating area (as permitted by state regulators or, in the case of an Exchange plan, as specified by the Commissioner), and family enrollment (as specified under State law and consistent with Commissioner rules).

The Commissioner, in coordination with the Secretaries of Health and Human Services (HHS) and Labor, would conduct a study of the large group market to examine (1) characteristics of employers who purchase fully-insured health insurance products and employers who self-fund health benefits, including characteristics related to bearing risk and solvency, and (2) the extent to which rating rules cause adverse selection in the large group market or encourage small and mid-size employers to self-insure health benefits. The Commissioner would submit this report to Congress and the applicable agencies no later than 18 months after enactment, and include any recommendations to ensure that the law does not provide incentives for small and mid-size employers to self-insure or create adverse selection in the risk pools of large group insurers and self-insured employers.

Sec. 114. Nondiscrimination in Benefits

Current Law

HIPAA established federal rules regarding non-discrimination based on health status-related factors. It prohibits group issuers from establishing rules for eligibility and premium contributions based on health status-related factors. Those factors include health status, medical condition (including both physical and mental illnesses), claims experience, receipt of health care, medical history, genetic information, evidence of insurability (including conditions arising out of acts of domestic violence) and disability. In addition, the Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008 prohibits issuers in the individual health insurance market from establishing eligibility rules (including continued eligibility) based on an individual's genetic information, and the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 establishes that if an employer provides mental health benefits there must be parity with physical health benefits.

Proposed Law

This provision would require QHBPs to comply with non-discrimination standards regarding health benefits or benefit structures established by the Commissioner, building on existing federal non-discrimination rules in ERISA, the Public Health Service Act (PHSA), and the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. Existing mental health parity rules, apply to QHBPs, regardless of whether coverage is offered in the individual or group market.

Sec. 115. Ensuring Adequacy of Provider Networks

Current Law

HIPAA established special rules for network plans. It allows small group issuers to (1) limit the employers that apply for coverage to those firms with eligible individuals who live or work in the network service area, and (2) deny coverage to small employers if the issuer demonstrates (if required) to the State that it has limited provider capacity due to obligations to existing enrollees and it is applying this decision uniformly without regard to claims experience or health status-related factors. HIPAA also prohibits a small group issuer that has denied coverage in any service area to offer small group coverage in that area for 180 days after the denial.

Proposed Law

This provision would require QHBPs that use provider networks to meet provider network standards that may be established by the Commissioner to ensure the adequacy of networks, and transparency in the cost-sharing differences between in- and out-of-network coverage. The term "provider network" means the providers with respect to covered benefits, treatments, and services available under a health benefit plan.

Sec. 116. Ensuring Value and Lower Premiums

Current Law

Medical loss ratio is the share of total premium revenue spent on medical claims. Medigap insurance policies are private supplemental health care policies that Medicare beneficiaries can purchase to help cover some items, services, and cost sharing not covered under Medicare. Medigap plans are required to have a minimum medical loss ratio of 65 percent for individual policies and 75 percent for group policies. In addition, most states impose medical loss ratios or related requirements on insurers in the individual and/or small group health insurance markets.

Proposed Law

This provision would require a QHBP to comply with a medical loss ratio standard to be determined by the Commissioner but not less than 85 percent. For any QHBP that does not meet such a standard, it would be required to provide rebates to enrollees, in a manner specified by the Commissioner, in sufficient amounts to meet such a loss ratio. To establish the medical loss ratio standard, the Commissioner would build on the definition and methodology, developed by the HHS Secretary under Section 161, for determining how to calculate such a ratio. The methodology would set the highest ratio possible to ensure adequate QHBP participation, competition both in and out of the HIE, and value for consumers so that their premium contributions are used for medical claims.

Sec. 117. Consistency of costs and coverage under qualified health benefits plans during plan year

This provision would prohibit insurance companies from changing the coverage or costs of a health plan mid-year except if the costs are lowered and/or the coverage is increased.

Subtitle C—Standards Guaranteeing Access to Essential Benefits

Sec. 121. Coverage of Essential Benefits Package

Current Law

There are limited federal benefit mandates for health insurance. These standards were added to the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA), and are described in the discussion of Section 122, below.

Proposed Law

This provision would require a “qualified health benefits plans (QHBP)” to cover at least an “essential benefit package.” QHBPs could be offered in or outside of an Exchange. QHBPs offered outside of an Exchange would be allowed to offer additional benefits beyond those specified in the essential benefits package. For QHBPs offered through the Exchange, a plan offering a premium-plus level of benefits (established under Section 203) could provide additional benefits.

The requirements under Division A would not affect the offering of limited-purpose benefit plans, including policies covering dental or vision treatment, long-term care, Medicare supplement policies, workers’ compensation, and other similar benefits, if such benefit plans are offered under a separate policy, contract, or certificate of insurance.

A QHBP would not be allowed to impose coverage restrictions (except cost sharing) unrelated to the clinical appropriateness of the health care items and services.

Sec. 122. Essential Benefit Package Defined

Current Law

Federally mandated benefits. Laws are found in the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA—covering employer-sponsored plans), the Public Health Service Act (PHSA—covering insurance plans and state and local government plans), and the Internal Revenue Code (IRC—covers Church plans in certain circumstances).

Those mandates include:

- The Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 established that employers who offer mental health and substance use disorder benefits must offer them in an equal manner as physical health benefits are offered. The Newborns' and Mothers' Health Protection Act of 1996 (NMHPA) requires plans that offer maternity coverage to pay for at least a 48-hour hospital stay following childbirth (96-hour stay in the case of a cesarean section).
- The Women's Health and Cancer Rights Act of 1998 contains protections for patients who elect breast reconstruction in connection with a mastectomy. For plan participants and beneficiaries receiving benefits in connection with a mastectomy, plans offering coverage for a mastectomy must also cover reconstructive surgery and other benefits related to a mastectomy.
- The Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008 (GINA) prohibits discrimination based on genetic information by health insurers and employers. GINA strengthens and clarifies existing HIPAA nondiscrimination and portability provisions. Broadly, GINA prohibits health insurers from engaging in three practices: (1) using genetic information about an individual to adjust a group plan's premiums, or, in the case of individual plans, to deny coverage, adjust premiums, or impose a preexisting condition exclusion; (2) requiring or requesting genetic testing; and (3) requesting, requiring, or purchasing genetic information for underwriting purposes.
- Michelle's Law ensures that dependent post secondary education students who take a medically necessary leave of absence do not lose health insurance coverage. The law provides that a group health plan may not terminate a college student's health coverage simply because the student takes a medically necessary leave of absence from school or changes to part-time status. The leave of absence must be medically necessary, begin while the student is suffering from a serious illness or injury and would otherwise result in a loss of coverage.

Similarly, the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP), administered by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), reviews scientific evidence and makes recommendations to the Secretary and the CDC Director for the routine administration of vaccines to children, adolescents, and adults in the U.S. civilian population. The ACIP is not explicitly authorized; rather, it is based in general authorities of the Secretary in Titles II and III of the PHSA.

Proposed Law

This provision would require the essential benefits package to cover specified items and services, limit cost sharing, prohibit annual and lifetime limits on covered services, ensure the adequacy of provider networks, and be equivalent (as certified by the Office of the Actuary of the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services) to the average prevailing employer-sponsored coverage.

The essential benefits package would be required to cover the following items and services:

- Hospitalization;

- Outpatient hospital and clinic services, including emergency department services;
- Services of physicians and other health professionals;
- Services, equipment, and supplies incident to the services of a physician or health professional in appropriate settings;
- Prescription drugs;
- Rehabilitative and “habilitative” services (i.e., services to maintain the physical, intellectual, emotional, and social functioning of developmentally delayed individuals);
- Mental health and substance use disorder services;
- Preventive services, include those graded “A” or “B” by the Task Force on Clinical and Preventive Services, as well as certain other substance abuse and mental health services, and those vaccines recommended by the Director of the CDC;
- Maternity care;
- Well baby and well child care and oral health, vision, and hearing services, equipment, and supplies, as defined under Section 1905(r) of the Social Security Act, for those under age 21; and
- Durable medical equipment, prosthetics, orthotics and related supplies.

The Committee recognizes that historically, insurers have not covered medical services addressing a range of women’s health needs, resulting in high out-of-pocket costs for medical services, such as maternity care and preventive screenings. Women have a variety of essential health needs throughout their lifetimes. Therefore, the Committee intends that the bill require the basic benefits package include the full range of medical services for women’s unique health needs, at all stages of life, including, but not limited to, maternity care, preventive screenings such as mammograms, annual gynecological exams, diagnostic, routine care, and recommended treatments.

The Committee believes that medically necessary evidence-based behavioral intervention services, including those provided to individuals with autism, are included within the ambit of section 122(b) of the bill.

The essential benefits package would be subject to various requirements concerning cost-sharing. The package would be required to provide preventive items and services without cost-sharing. The annual out-of-pocket limit in 2013 would be $5,000 for an individual and $10,000 for a family. These limits would be annually adjusted for inflation using the Consumer Price Index (CPI). To the extent possible, the Commissioner would establish cost-sharing levels using copayments (a flat dollar fee) and not coinsurance (a percentage fee). Cost-sharing would result in coverage equal to approximately 70 percent of the actuarial value of the benefits if there were no cost-sharing imposed.

Sec. 123. Health Benefits Advisory Committee

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

A Health Benefits Advisory Committee (HBAC) would be established to recommend covered benefits and the essential, enhanced, and premium plans. The HBAC would be chaired by the Surgeon General. The HBAC membership would be comprised of

- Nine members, appointed by the President, who are neither federal employees nor officers;
- Nine members, appointed by the Comptroller General, who are neither federal employees nor officers; and
- An even number, up to eight members, appointed by the President, who are federal employees and officers.

The initial appointments would be made within 60 days of enactment. Each HBAC member would serve a three-year term, except the terms of the initial appointments would be adjusted to provide for staggered years of appointment. The members would reflect the interests of the many diverse groups of stakeholders so that no single interest would unduly influence the HBAC's recommendations. At a minimum, committee membership would reflect educated patients or consumer advocates, providers, employers, labor, health insurance issuers, experts in health care and delivery, experts in health disparities, and government agencies. In addition, at least one HBAC member would be a practicing physician or health professional, and another member would be an expert on children's health. At least one member must be an expert on the scientific evidence and clinical practice of integrative medicine.

The HBAC's recommendations to the Secretary on the essential benefits package (as defined in Section 122), cost-sharing levels for the enhanced plans and premium plans (as defined in Section 203), and periodic updates of the package would be required to incorporate innovation in health care. The HBAC members would also consider how the package would reduce health disparities, would take into account integrative medicine, and would allow for public input as part of developing its recommendations. The HBAC's initial benefit recommendations must be made to the Secretary within one year of enactment.

In developing standards for the enhanced and premium plans, the HBAC would be required to calculate cost-sharing such that the enhanced plan would have benefits that are actuarially equivalent to about 85 percent of the actuarial value of the benefits provided in the essential benefits package, and the premium plans would have benefits that are actuarially equivalent to about 95 percent of the actuarial value of the benefits provided in the essential benefits package.

The Committee intends that, in developing its recommendations regarding benefit standards, the Health Benefits Advisory Committee shall take into account the special characteristics of group health plans that are multiemployer plans as defined in section 3(37) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and the impact of the recommendations on such plans. Among the special characteristics to be considered is that these plans are funded, and their costs borne, by the workers who tradeoff wages for employer contributions, that a plan's income fluctuates with the availability of covered work, and that workers are equally represented on the plans' boards of trustees who design the rules and benefit programs.

HBAC members would serve without pay, but would receive federal travel expenses, including per diem expenses. In addition, the HBAC would be subject to the Federal Advisory Committee Act although the members would not become Federal employees.

The Secretary would be required to publish all recommendations developed pursuant to this Section in the Federal Register and on the HHS website.

Following an amendment at Committee, this provision would also instruct the Health Benefits Advisory Committee to examine current state laws and to seek input from the states as it forms its recommendations for the federal benefits standards.

Sec. 124. Process for Adoption of Recommendations; Adoption of Benefit Standards

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

This Section proposes a timeline by which the Secretary must choose whether to adopt the recommendations of the HBAC established under Section 123 of this bill. Within 45 days of receiving the HBAC's recommendations regarding the essential benefits package, the Secretary would be required either to adopt the benefit standards as written or not adopt the benefit standards, notify the HBAC of the reasons for this decision, and provide an opportunity for the HBAC to revise and resubmit its recommendations.

The Secretary would be required to adopt an initial set of benefit standards within 18 months of enactment either by adopting the recommendations (and any revisions) of the HBAC, or absent that, by proposing an initial set of benefit standards.

The Secretary would be required to publish all determinations under this Section in the Federal Register.

The Secretary would be required to periodically update the benefit standards. However, an essential benefits package that does not meet the essential benefits requirements specified in Section 122 could not be adopted.

Sec. 125. Prohibition of Discrimination in Health Care Services Based on Religious or Spiritual Content

This provision would prohibit the Commissioner or any health insurance issuer offering health insurance coverage through the HIE from discriminating against approving or covering health care services based on religious or spiritual content if expenditures for such a health care service are allowable under 213(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

Subtitle D—Additional Consumer Protections

Sec. 131. Requiring Fair Marketing Practices by Health InsurersCurrent Law

States have established varying marketing standards to prohibit insurers from marketing their insurance products only to healthy risks.

Proposed Law

This provision would require the Commissioner to establish uniform marketing standards for QHBPs.

Sec. 132. Requiring Fair Grievance and Appeals MechanismsCurrent Law

ERISA does mandate compliance to certain standards if an employer chooses to offer health benefits, such as procedures for appealing denied benefit claims. The Department of Labor has issued regulations for plan internal appeal processes but does not provide for external appeals other than through judicial review. In addition, as of February 2008, 44 states and the District of Columbia mandate the independent review of benefit denials by an entity outside of the health plan (“external review”). The Supreme Court has upheld the application of state external review laws to ERISA covered plans.

Proposed Law

This provision would require QHBPs to provide for a uniform timely grievance and appeals mechanisms as established by the Commissioner. QHBPs would provide an internal claims and appeals process that initially incorporates the claims and appeals procedures (including urgent claims) promulgated by the Labor Department and published in the Code of Federal Regulations on November 21, 2000 (65 Fed. Reg. 70246). Such a process would be updated in accordance with any relevant standards that may be established by the Commissioner. The Commissioner would establish standards for an external review process (including expedited review of urgent claims), and any determination made with respect to a QHBP under an external review process would be binding. Aggrieved individuals would have state law rights and remedies to appeal adverse QHBP decisions.

Sec. 133. Requiring Information Transparency and Plan DisclosureCurrent Law

ERISA requires applicable health plans (as well as other “welfare benefit” plans) to disclose and report certain plan information to enrollees and regulators. For example, plan administrators must provide to enrollees a written summary plan description (SPD) which contains the terms of the plan and the benefits offered, including any material modifications, and the SPD must be written in a manner that can be understood by the average enrollee. Certain plans must file an annual report with the Department of Labor, containing information about the operation, funding, assets, and investments of those plans.

Proposed Law

This provision would require QHBPs to comply with disclosure standards established by the Commissioner concerning plan terms and conditions, claims payment policies, plan finances, claims denials, and other information as determined appropriate by the Commissioner. One specified disclosure requirement would be a list of health care providers under the plan trained and accredited in integrative medicine. The Commissioner would require such disclosure to be provided in plain language. QHBPs would be required to comply with standards established by the Commissioner to ensure transparency regarding reimbursements between the plan and health care providers. A change in a QHBP could not be made without reasonable and timely advance notice to enrollees about the change.

Sec. 134. Application to Qualified Health Benefits Plans Not Offered Through the Health Insurance Exchange

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

The Committee intends that the Commissioner may make any or all of the requirements of Subtitle D applicable to qualified health benefits plans outside of the HIE if the Commissioner determines that such an extension is necessary to accomplish the fundamental purposes of this Act. The Commissioner may make the requirements applicable to only health insurance issuers, and not to self-funded plans or to multiemployer plans based upon the Commissioner's determination that such plans satisfy the consumer protections provided for in this Act.

Sec. 135. Timely Payment of Claims

Current Law

Under Medicare Advantage (MA), private health plans are paid a per-person amount to provide all Medicare-covered benefits (except hospice) to beneficiaries who enroll in their plan. MA plans include health maintenance organizations and private fee-for-service (PFFS) plans. MA PFFS plans are required to pay 95 percent of "clean claims" within 30 days of receipt. The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) defines a clean claim as a claim that has no defect or impropriety, and is submitted with all the required documentation. The 30-day rule also applies to claims submitted to any MA organization by a provider who does not have a written contract with the plan. MA organizations are required to pay interest on clean claims that are not paid within 30 days. All other claims from non-contracted providers must be paid within 60 days. MA organizations that do contract with providers (i.e., HMOs and PPOs) must include a prompt payment provision in their contracts.

Proposed Law

This provision would require QHBPs to comply with the prompt pay requirements applicable to Medicare Advantage plans.

Sec. 136. Standardized Rules for Coordination and Subrogation of BenefitsCurrent Law

While there are no federal statutes specifying primary and secondary payment rules for multiple insurers in the private market, the Medicare statutes can be cited as providing an example. Section 1862(b) of the Social Security Act authorizes the Medicare Secondary Payer (MSP) program, which identifies specific conditions under which another party pays first and Medicare is only responsible for qualified secondary payments. The statute authorizes several methods to identify cases when an insurer other than Medicare is the primary payer and to facilitate recoveries when incorrect Medicare payments have been made. Under certain conditions, the law makes Medicare the secondary payer to insurance plans and programs for beneficiaries covered through (1) a group health plan based on either their own or a spouse's current employment; (2) auto and other liability insurance; (3) no-fault liability insurance; and (4) workers' compensation situations, including the Black Lung program. The purpose of the MSP program is to shift costs from Medicare to private sources of payment, thus reducing Medicare expenditures. Additionally, the Medicare statutes exclude Medicare coverage for items and services paid for directly or indirectly by a government entity, subject to certain limitations. This includes the Department of Veterans Affairs, among others.

The states have long established rules on coordination of benefits and subrogation of claims but in recent years, health plans have challenged aspects of the traditional rules leading to confusion and uncertainty in this area.

Proposed Law

The Commissioner would establish standards for the coordination of benefits and reimbursement of payments in cases involving individual and multiple plan coverage.

Sec. 137. Application of Administrative SimplificationCurrent Law

To support the growth of electronic record keeping and claims processing, HIPAA's Administrative Simplification provisions instructed the Secretary to adopt electronic format and data standards for several routine administrative and financial transactions between health care providers and health plans/payers. The standards apply to health care providers (who transmit any health information in electronic form in connection with a HIPAA-specified transaction), health plans, and health care clearinghouses. Although providers have made significant progress in streamlining administrative processes, much work remains to achieve uniform claims and billing processes.

Proposed Law

This provision would require QHBP offering entities (as defined in the bill) to comply with the new administrative simplification standards adopted under Sec. 163 (discussed below).

Sec. 138. Records Relative to Prescription Information

This provision would ban the sales of physician prescribing habits to the pharmaceutical industry when the physician serves patients enrolled in a qualified health benefit plan.

Subtitle E—Governance

Sec. 141. Health Choices Administration; Health Choices CommissionerCurrent Law

No specific provision in federal law.

Proposed Law

This provision would establish an independent agency in the Executive Branch of the United States called the Health Choices Administration, “Administration.” The Administration would be headed by a Health Choices Commissioner, “Commissioner,” who would be appointed by the President, by advice and consent of the Senate. Section 702 of the Social Security Act (detailing compensation, terms, general powers, rule-making, and delegation as applied to the Commissioner of Social Security and the Social Security Administration) would apply to the Commissioner.

Sec. 142. Duties and Authority of CommissionerCurrent Law

None.

Proposed Law

This provision would make the Commissioner responsible for carrying out the following functions:

- Qualified Plan Standards—Establishing qualified health benefits plan (“QHBP”) standards, including the enforcement of such standards in coordination with State insurance regulators and the Secretaries of Labor and the Treasury.
- Health Insurance Exchange—Establishing and operating the Health Insurance Exchange.
- Individual Affordability Credits—Administering individual affordability credits, including the determination of eligibility for such credits.
- Promoting Accountability—Undertaking activities in accordance with this section to promote accountability of QHBP offering entities in meeting Federal health insurance requirements, regardless of whether such accountability is with respect to qualified health benefits plans offered through or outside the Health Insurance Exchange.
- Compliance Examination and Audits—coordinating with States to conduct audits of qualified health benefits plan compliance with Federal requirements. These audits would include random compliance audits and targeted audits in response to complaints or other suspected non-compliance.

- Recoupment of Costs in Connection with Examination and Audits—authorizing to recoup from qualified health benefits plans reimbursement for costs of such examinations and audit of such QHBP offering entities.

- Data Collection—Collecting data for the purposes of carrying out the Commissioner’s duties, including promoting quality, value, protecting consumers and addressing disparities in health care; the commissioner may share such data with Secretary of Health and Human Services. The Committee believes populations who experience disparities in health care include people with disabilities.

- Sanctions Authority—Providing any of the following remedies (in addition to any other authorized by law) in coordination with State insurance regulators and the Secretary of Labor if it is determined that a QHBP offering entity violates a requirement:

1. Civil money penalties of not more than the amount applicable under similar circumstances for similar violations under Medicare;

2. Suspension of plan enrollment of individuals under such plan after the date the Commissioner notifies the entity of a decision, until the Commissioner is satisfied with rectification;

3. In the case of an Exchange-participating health benefits plan, suspension of payment under the Health Insurance Exchange for individuals enrolled in the plan after the date the Commissioner notifies the entity of such decision and until the Commissioner is satisfied with corrective action; or

4. Work with State insurance regulators to terminate plans for repeated failure by the QHBP offering entity to meet this title’s requirements.

Standard Definitions of Insurance and Medical Terms—providing the development of standards for defining terms used in health insurance coverage, including insurance-related terms.

Sec. 143. Consultation and Coordination

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

The Commissioner, as appropriate, would be required to consult with, at a minimum, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, State attorneys general, and State insurance regulators concerning the standards and enforcement for insured qualified health benefits plans described in this title. Concurrently, the Commissioner would be required to consult with, at a minimum, Indian tribes and tribal organizations, appropriate federal agencies, and appropriate State agencies concerning affordability credits and the offering of Exchange-participating health benefits plans (including Medicaid concerning standards for insured qualified health benefits plans).

Sec. 144. Health Insurance OmbudsmanCurrent Law

The Department of Health and Human Services receives various complaint handling and client-assistance ombudsmen including:

Long-term Care Ombudsman—mandated by Older Americans Act of 1965, consists of 1,000 paid and 14,000 volunteers who identify, investigate, and resolve complaints made by, or on the behalf, of residents. They have a blend of federal and state oversight.

Medicare Beneficiary Ombudsman—Created by the Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act of 2003 (P.L. 108–173), it is intended to ensure those eligible for Medicare have reliable and current information about their benefits, rights and protections under the Medicare program, and the procedures for getting problems and disputes resolved. The Ombudsman is to aid Medicare recipients in filing appeals if their insurance did not pay proper amounts for their medical services or those services were denied.

State Health Insurance Ombudsman—Several states (VT, MN, and IL to name a few) have created State health insurance ombudsmen, with the core responsibilities of rectifying concerns encompassing access to care, billing problems, and access to health insurance. The ombudsman provides information on state and federal programs that may be available, explains continuation rights under an existing health plan, provides help on how to shop for health insurance, and assists in appealing decisions made by their health insurance.

Proposed Law

The Commissioner would appoint within the Health Choices Administration a Qualified Health Benefits Ombudsman (with experience and expertise in the fields of health care and education). The Ombudsman would be required to perform the following duties:

- Receive and provide assistance with complaints, grievances, and requests for information submitted by individuals. The assistance would be provided more specifically in instances such as helping individuals determine relevant information for an appeal, assisting with any problems arising from disenrollment, choosing a qualified health benefits plan to enroll, and presenting information relevant to affordability credits.
- Submit annual reports to Congress and the Commissioner describing the activities of the Ombudsman, including recommendations for improvement in the Administration of this Division, as determined appropriate. The Ombudsman would not serve as an advocate for any increases in payments or new coverage of services, but would identify issues and problems in payment or coverage policies.

Subtitle F—Relation to Other Requirements; Miscellaneous

Sec. 151. Relation to Other RequirementsCurrent Law

None.

Proposed Law

- Coverage Not Offered Through the Exchange—The requirements of this provision would not supersede specified provisions of federal and state laws with respect to the health insurance coverage not offered through the Health Insurance Exchange (whether or not offered in connection with an employment-based health plan).
- Coverage Offered Through the Exchange—The requirements under this title would not supersede any requirements relating to genetic information non-discrimination and mental health for such health insurance coverage (as long as those related do not prevent the application of requirements detailed in this division; as determined by the Commissioner). Concurrently, individual rights and remedies under State laws would apply. Nothing in this paragraph would be construed as preventing the application of rights and remedies under State laws.

Sec. 152. Prohibiting Discrimination in Health CareCurrent Law

HIPAA established federal rules regarding non-discrimination based on health status-related factors. It prohibits group issuers from establishing rules for eligibility and premium contributions based on health status-related factors. Those factors include health status, medical condition (including both physical and mental illnesses), claims experience, receipt of health care, medical history, genetic information, evidence of insurability (including conditions arising out of acts of domestic violence) and disability. In addition, the Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008 (GINA, P.L. 110–233) prohibits issuers in the individual health insurance market from establishing eligibility rules (including continued eligibility) based on an individual’s genetic information. The Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 establishes parity by requiring an employer offering mental health and substance use disorder benefits in an equal manner as physical health benefits are offered.

In addition, Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination by the recipients of federal funds, which includes many hospitals, clinics and social service agencies. However, the Civil Rights Act’s link to the receipt of federal funds has insulated many insurance companies from any obligation to comply with non-discrimination protections.

Proposed Law

Unless explicitly permitted within this Act and subsequent related regulations, all health care and related services, (including insurance coverage and public health activities) covered by this Act would be provided regardless of personal characteristics extraneous to the provision of high quality health care or related services.

Within 18 months of enactment, the Secretary would be required to ensure that all health care and related services would be provided without regard for extraneous personal characteristics.

Sec. 153. Whistleblower ProtectionCurrent Law

None.

Proposed Law

No employer may discharge any employee (or otherwise discriminate against) with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or other privileges of employment because the employee (or an individual acting at the request of the employee):

- Provides or causes to provide to the employer, Federal Government, the attorney general of a relevant State, information relating to any violation of, or any act or omission the employee reasonably believes to be a violation of any provision, order, rule, or regulation promulgated under this Act.
- Testifies or is about to testify in a proceeding concerning such violation.
- Assists, participates or about to assist and participate in such a proceeding.
- Objects to, or refused to participate in any activity, policy, practice, or assigned task that the employee reasonably believes to be in violation of any provision, order, rule and regulation promulgated under this Act.

Enforcement Action—An employee covered by this section who alleges discrimination by an employer in violation may bring an action governed by the rules, procedures, legal burden of proof, and remedies detailed in section 40(b) of the Consumer Product Safety Act.

Employer Defined—The term employer in this section means any person (including one or more individuals, partnerships, associations, corporations, trusts, professional membership organization including a certification, disciplinary, or other professional body, unincorporated organizations, nongovernmental organizations, or trustees) engaged in profit or nonprofit business or industry whose activities are governed by this Act, and any agent, contractor, subcontractor, grantee, or consultant of such person.

Rule of Construction—The rule of construction set forth concerning employee protections in the United States Code would apply to this section.

Sec. 154. Construction Regarding Collective BargainingCurrent Law

None.

Proposed Law

Nothing in this division may be construed to alter or supersede any statutory or other obligation to engage in collective bargaining over the terms and conditions of employment related to health care. This rule of construction clarifies that long-standing principles of law continue to apply in the context of this health reform legislation. Where a new law sets mandatory minimum labor standards, the parties in a collective bargaining relationship must abide by such standards. Where, however, a new law leaves some discretion to an employer with regard to how to achieve compliance, which this bill indeed does on many levels, an employer with collective bargaining obligations may not make unilateral changes to the terms and conditions of employment but must bargain with the employees' bargaining representative over those matters.¹²³

Sec. 155. Severability

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

If any provision of this Act, or the application thereof towards any person or circumstance, is held unconstitutional, the application of the remaining provisions would not be affected.

Sec. 156. Rule of Construction Regarding Hawaii Prepaid Health Care Act

Added with an amendment at Committee, this provision would maintain Hawaii's Prepaid Health Care Act exemption under ERISA, including with respect to the provisions of H.R. 3200, where such state statute ensures health care benefits equivalent to or greater than those benefits that would be guaranteed by H.R. 3200.

Sec. 157. Increasing Meaningful Use of Electronic Health Records

This provision would require the Health Choices Commissioner to study how to increase the meaningful use of electronic health records and then use the results of that study to potentially require higher reimbursement rates for providers that use health information technology.

Sec. 158. Private Right of Contract with Health Care Providers

This provision forbids any other provision in this bill from being construed to preclude any participant or beneficiary in a group health plan from entering into any contract or arrangement for health care with any health care provider.

Sec. 162. Ending Health Insurance Rescission Abuse

Sec. 164. Reinsurance Program for RetireesCurrent Law

No current law.

Proposed Law

No later than 90 days after enactment, the Secretary would establish a temporary reinsurance program, to provide reimbursement to assist participating private or public sector employment-based plans with the cost of providing health benefits to eligible retirees who are 55 and older and their dependents, including eligible and surviving spouses. Such plans include voluntary employee benefit associations (VEBAs) and multi-employer plans covering retirees. Health benefits would be required to include medical, surgical, hospital, prescription drug, and other benefits determined by the Secretary. An eligible employment-based plan would submit an application to the Secretary, as required. A participating employment-based program would submit claims for reimbursement to the Secretary, documenting the actual cost of items and services for each claim. Each claim would be based on the actual amount expended by the participant. The participating employment-based plan would take into account any negotiated price concessions, such as discounts, subsidies, and rebates. The cost of deductibles and cost-sharing would be included in the cost of the claim, along with the amounts paid by the plan. For any valid claim, the Secretary would reimburse the plan for 80 percent of the portion of costs above $15,000 and below $90,000. This amount would be adjusted annually based on the percent increase in the medical care component of the Consumer Price Index, rounded to the nearest multiple of $1,000. Amounts paid to a participating employment-based plan would be used to lower cost directly to participants and beneficiaries in the form of premiums, co-payments, deductible, co-insurance, or other out-of-pocket costs, but would not be used to reduce the costs of an employer maintaining the employment-based plan. The Secretary would establish an appeals process for denied claims, procedures to protect against fraud, waste, and abuse, and would conduct annual audits of claims data.

The Retiree Reserve Trust Fund would be established, consisting of such amounts as appropriated or credited to the Fund to enable the Secretary to carry out the reinsurance program. The Secretary could request such sums as necessary to carry out this section, not to exceed $10 billion. Amounts appropriated and outlays from such appropriation would not be taken into account for purpose of any budget enforcement procedures, thus exempting the Fund from the framework of the budget resolution and the points of order which enforce that framework. The Secretary would have the authority to stop taking applications or take other steps to reduce expenditures to ensure that expenditures did not exceed available funds.

Sec. 165. Prohibition Against Post-Retirement Reductions of Retiree Health Benefits by Group Health Plans

This provision would prohibit group health plans from reducing retirees' health benefits after those retirees have retired, unless the reduction is also made to benefits for active participants.

Sec. 166. Limitations on Preexisting Condition Exclusions in Group Health Plans in Advance of Applicability of New Prohibition of Preexisting Condition Exclusions

This provision would require that the limit on pre-existing conditions exclusions in the insurance market start immediately at the bill's passage instead of 2013 as the introduced version of H.R. 3200 instructs. The permitted "look back" period is reduced from six months to 30 days, and the amount of time during which a provider can exclude coverage for pre-existing conditions is shortened.

Sec. 167. Extension of COBRA Continuation Coverage

This section was added by amendment at Committee. This provision would end the current COBRA eligibility limit and allow those currently enrolled in COBRA to keep their insurance until they find another job offering coverage or until they become eligible to participate in the HIE.

Title II—Health Insurance Exchange and Related Provisions

Subtitle A—Health Insurance Exchange

Current Law

No specific provision in federal law.

Text.

Sec. 201. Establishment of Health Insurance Exchange; Outline of Duties; Definitions

A Health Insurance Exchange, "Exchange" would be established to facilitate access of individuals and employers to a variety of choices of affordable, quality health insurance coverage, including a public health insurance plan option. The HIE would exist within the Health Choices Administration under the direction of the Health Choices Commissioner (described above in Sections 141 and 142). As described in greater detail in the following sections, regarding the Exchange, the Commissioner would (1) establish standards for, accept bids from, and negotiate and enter into contracts with entities seeking to offer qualified health benefits plans (QHBP) through the Exchange, (2) facilitate outreach and enrollment of Exchange-eligible individuals and employers, and (3) conduct appropriate activities related to the Exchange, including establishment of a risk pooling mechanism and consumer protections.

Sec. 202. Exchange-eligible Individuals and Employers

Beginning in 2013, all individuals generally would be eligible to obtain coverage through the Exchange, unless they were enrolled in the following (as determined by the Commissioner, in coordination with the Treasury Secretary):

- a group plan through a full-time employee (including a self-employed person with at least one employee) for which the employer makes an adequate contribution (described below in Section 312),
- Medicare,

- Medicaid (except in certain cases, discussed below), or
- military and VA coverage.

Except for the Medicaid exception, individuals would lose eligibility for Exchange coverage once they become eligible for Medicare Part A, Medicaid (although in this case, the Commissioner could permit continued Exchange eligibility for such limited time as the Commissioner determines it is administratively feasible and consistent with minimizing disruption in the individual's access to health care), and other circumstances as the Commissioner provides. Besides those cases, once individuals enroll in an Exchange plan, they would continue to be eligible until they are no longer enrolled.

Exchange-eligible employers could meet the requirements of the employer responsibility (Section 312) by offering and contributing adequately toward employees' enrollment through the Exchange. Those employees would be able to choose any of the available Exchange plans. Once employers are Exchange eligible and enroll their employees through the Exchange, they would continue to be Exchange eligible, unless they decided to then offer their own qualified health benefits plan(s).

In 2013, employers with 15 or fewer employees would be Exchange-eligible. In 2014, employers with 25 or fewer employees would be Exchange-eligible. Beginning in 2015, employers with 50 or fewer employees would be Exchange-eligible, however the Commissioner could permit employers larger than 50 to participate in the Exchange. These additional employers could be phased in or made eligible based on the number of full-time employees or other considerations the Commissioner deems appropriate. ("Employer" and other employment-related definitions would be defined by the Commissioner.)

The Committee intends that if and when the Commissioner permits "larger employers" to become Exchange-eligible employers, the Commissioner will also permit a multiemployer plan (as defined in section 3(37) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act) itself to become an Exchange-eligible employer on behalf of its contributing employers as if it were one employer.

The Commissioner would have the authority to establish rules to deal with special situations with regard to uninsured individuals participating as Exchange-eligible individuals and employers, such as transition periods for individuals and employers who gain, or lose, Exchange-eligible participation status, and to establish grace periods for premium payment.

The Commissioner would be required to provide for periodic surveys of Exchange-eligible individuals and employers concerning their satisfaction with the Exchange and its plans.

The Commissioner would conduct an Exchange Access Study—a study of access to the Health Insurance Exchange for individuals and for employers, including individuals and employers who are not eligible and enrolled in HIE plans. The goal of the study would be to determine if there are significant groups and types of individuals and employers who are not Exchange eligible but who would have improved benefits and affordability if made eligible. The study also would examine the terms, conditions, and affordability of group health coverage offered by employers and QHBP-offering insurers outside of the Exchange compared to Exchange-participating health benefits plans, as well as the affordability-test standard for access of certain employed individuals to coverage in the Health Insurance Exchange. The Commissioner would submit the study to Congress by January 1 of 2015, 2018, and thereafter, and would include in the report recommendations regarding changes in standards for Exchange eligibility for individuals and employers.

This provision would also give the Commissioner authority to define terms such as “employer” and “employee” for purposes of this division. The Commissioner should take care that such definitions minimize incentives to misclassify workers as non-employees. Moreover, the Commissioner should take into consideration any special employer or industry organizational structures such as “employers of record” in the home health industry and hour of service calculations for airline personnel in the airline industry in light of relevant federal rules and industry practices when defining these employment terms.

Sec. 203. Benefits Package Levels

The Commissioner would specify the benefits to be made available under HIE plans during each plan year, consistent with this section and Sections 121–134 above. The Commissioner could not enter into a contract with an entity wanting to offer coverage through the Exchange in a service area(s), unless the following requirements are met:

- The entity offers only one Basic plan in the service area.
- The entity may offer one Enhanced plan in the service area.
- If the entity offers an Enhanced plan in a service area, the entity may offer one Premium plan for the area.
- If the entity offers a Premium plan for a service area, the entity may offer one or more Premium-Plus plans for the area.

All such plans could be offered under a single contract with the Commissioner.

Consistent with the standards in Sections 101–164 above, the Commissioner would also establish the following standards for the three primary levels of Exchange plans—Basic, Enhanced, and Premium—and for additional benefits that may be offered in a Premium-Plus plan. Besides offering the essential benefits package (Section 122 above) for a QHBP, Basic plan benefit packages would be modified to provide for reduced cost-sharing for individuals eligible for the “affordability cost-sharing credit,” described below in Section 244. Excluding the credit, the benefit package of a Basic plan would have an actuarial value representing payment for approximately 70 percent of all the covered items and services in the essential benefits package (Section 122 above). Enhanced plans would have lower cost-sharing than Basic plans, representing approximately 85 percent of the actuarial value of all the covered items and services in the essential benefits package. Premium plans would have lower cost-sharing than Enhanced plans, representing approximately 95 percent of the actuarial value of all the covered items and services in the essential benefits package. Premium-Plus plans would be Premium plans that also provide additional benefits, such as adult oral health and vision care, approved by the Commissioner. The portion of the premium that is attributable to such additional benefits would be separately specified.

The Commissioner would establish a permissible range of variation of cost-sharing for the Basic, Enhanced and Premium plans. Such variation would permit variations up to 10 percent in cost-sharing with respect to several benefit categories (Section 122).

If a state requires health insurers to offer benefits beyond the essential benefits package, such requirements would continue to apply to Exchange plans, but only if the state has entered into an arrangement satisfactory to the Commissioner to reimburse the Commissioner for the amount of any resulting net increase in affordability premium credits (Section 243).

Sec. 204. Contracts for the Offering of Exchange-participating Health Benefits Plans

The Commissioner would establish standards, described below, for Exchange-participating entities and their health benefits plans. The Commissioner would certify entities and plans if the standards are met. The Commissioner would solicit and review bids from QHBP-offering entities for offering Exchange plans, negotiate with the entities, and enter into contracts with the entities for offering plans through the Exchange under terms negotiated between the Exchange and the entities.

The Federal Acquisition Regulation (the principal set of rules that govern the contracting process for the federal government) would not apply to contracts between the Commissioner and QHBP-offering entities for offering Exchange plans.

The standards for Exchange-participating entities would consist of the following requirements:

- The entity must be licensed or otherwise permitted to offer health insurance coverage under state law for each state in which it offers coverage.
- The entity must provide for reporting data/information specified by the Commissioner, including information necessary to administer the risk pooling mechanism in Section 206 and information to address disparities in health and health care.
- The entity must provide for implementation of the affordability credits provided for enrollees (described in Sections 241–246 below).
- The entity must accept all applicable enrollment via the Exchange, subject to such exceptions (such as capacity limitations) in accordance with the federal requirements for QHBPs (discussed under Title I), and would notify the Commissioner if it projects or anticipates reaching a capacity that would result in a limitation in enrollment.
- The entity must participate in the pooling mechanism as established by the Commissioner (described in Section 206 below).
- Regarding the Basic plan offered by the entity, the entity must contract for outpatient services with certain federally supported health care providers. The Commissioner would also specify how this requirement would apply to Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs).
- The entity must provide culturally and linguistically appropriate communication and health services.

- The entity must comply with other applicable requirements of this title specified by the Commissioner, which would include standards regarding billing and collection practices for premiums and grace periods and which may include standards to ensure that the entity does not use coercive practices to force providers not to contract with other entities offering coverage through the Exchange.

For the contracting process, entities' bids would have to contain the information required by the Commissioner. Contracts would last at least one year, but could be automatically renewed in the absence of notice of termination by either party. The contract would provide that if the Commissioner determines that a plan's provider network is not adequate, then the cost-sharing charged to a person who received out-of-network care would be the same as if the care had been provided in-network.

In coordination with state insurance regulators, the Commissioner would establish processes to oversee, monitor, and enforce applicable requirements on Exchange-participating entities and QHBPs, including plan marketing. In conjunction with state insurance regulators, the Commissioner would establish a process for individuals and employers to file complaints concerning violations. The Commissioner could terminate a contract with an entity if it fails to comply with the requirements of this title; the Commissioner could also impose one or more intermediate sanctions.

Any determination by the Commissioner to terminate a contract would be made in accordance with formal investigation and compliance procedures established by the Commissioner under which (a) the Commissioner provides the entity with the reasonable opportunity to develop and implement a corrective action plan to correct the deficiencies that were the basis of the Commissioner's determination; and (b) the Commissioner provides the entity with reasonable notice and opportunity for hearing (including the right to appeal an initial decision) before terminating the contract. However, these procedures need not apply if the Commissioner determined that a delay in termination would pose an imminent and serious risk to the health of individuals enrolled under the plan.

Sec. 205. Outreach and Enrollment of Exchange-eligible Individuals and Employers in Exchange-participating Health Benefits Plan

Outreach. The Commissioner would conduct outreach activities to inform and educate individuals and employers about the Exchange and its participating health plans. Such outreach would include outreach specific to vulnerable populations, such as children, individuals with disabilities, individuals with mental illness, and individuals with other cognitive impairments. The Commissioner's required outreach activities would include the following:

- broadly disseminate information on Exchange-participating plans, provided in a comparative manner and including information on benefits, premiums, cost-sharing, quality, provider networks, and consumer satisfaction;
- provide assistance to Exchange-eligible individuals and employers via a toll-free telephone hotline and an Internet website;
- develop and disseminate information to Exchange-eligible enrollees on their rights and responsibilities;

- assist Exchange-eligible individuals in selecting plans and obtaining benefits; and
- ensure the information is developed using plain language (described in Section 133 above).

Enrollment. The Commissioner would be required to make timely determinations of whether individuals and employers are eligible for Exchange coverage and to establish and carry out an enrollment process, including at community locations. Enrollment would be permitted by mail, telephone, electronically, or in person.

Open enrollment for individuals and employers to enroll in an Exchange plan and affordability credits (described in Sections 241–245 below) would be at least 30 days and would be during September through November of each year before benefits would begin, or such other time that would maximize the timeliness of income verification. However, the Commissioner would also provide for special enrollment periods to take into account special circumstances of individuals and employers, such as an individual who loses acceptable coverage, experiences a change in marital or other dependent status, moves outside the plan’s service area, or experiences a significant change in income. The Commissioner, potentially with other appropriate entities, would be required to broadly disseminate information on the enrollment process, including before each enrollment period.

The Commissioner would establish a process to automatically enroll the following individuals into an appropriate Exchange plan (potentially involving a random assignment or some other form of assignment that takes into account the health care providers used by the individual, or such other relevant factors specified by the Commissioner):

- those who have applied for affordability credits, been determined eligible, have not opted out from receiving such credit, and do not enroll in another Exchange plan; and
- those enrolled in an Exchange plan that is terminated (during or at the end of a plan year) who do not enroll in another Exchange plan.

Under the enrollment process, individuals enrolled in an Exchange plan would pay such plans directly, not through the Commissioner or the Exchange.

Special provisions apply to newborns born in the United States without acceptable coverage at birth. Until other acceptable coverage begins, the child would be considered a non-traditional Medicaid-eligible individual (for whom the state would be paid 100 percent federal reimbursement) and would be deemed as having elected Medicaid coverage. This coverage would end no later than the end of the month 60 days after the child’s birth; at the end of that period, if the child still does not have acceptable coverage, the child is deemed a traditional Medicaid-eligible individual, for whom the state receives the regular Medicaid federal matching rate.

As of the day before the first day of 2013, CHIP-eligible children, including targeted low-income children in a Medicaid-expansion CHIP program, would be deemed to be Exchange eligible. The Commissioner would notify each state in 2013 whether the Exchange could support enrollment of these children.

A “traditional Medicaid eligible individual” is a Medicaid-eligible individual excluding (1) those who are eligible because of the expansion of Medicaid in Section 1701 of this legislation to individuals up to 133 $\frac{1}{3}$ percent FPL and (2) a childless adult who would not otherwise be classified as categorically needy (as per current Medicaid statute, Section 1902(a)(10)(A)) or medically needy (as per current Medicaid statute, Section 1902(a)(10)(C)) as in effect as of the day before the date of enactment of this Act. A “non-traditional Medicaid-eligible individual” is a Medicaid-eligible individual who is not a traditional Medicaid-eligible individual. Section 202 of the legislation includes provisions so that a non-traditional Medicaid eligible individual could be Exchange-eligible if the individual was enrolled in a qualified health benefits plan, grandfathered health insurance coverage, or current group health plan during the six months before the individual became a non-traditional Medicaid eligible individual. Under this section, the Commissioner would provide these individuals with the option to enroll in Medicaid rather than an Exchange plan and to change that election during open enrollment periods described earlier in this section. The Commissioner would provide for a process to automatically enroll these individuals into Medicaid if they have not elected to enroll in any Exchange plan.

An Exchange-eligible individual could apply for a Medicaid-eligibility determination. If the individual is determined to be eligible, the Commissioner would provide for the individual’s enrollment under the state Medicaid plan in accordance with the Medicaid memorandum of understanding. In the case of such an enrollment, the state would provide for the same periodic redetermination of eligibility under Medicaid that would apply if the individual had directly applied to the state Medicaid agency. The legislation would require the Commissioner, in consultation with the HHS Secretary, to enter into a memorandum of understanding with each state with respect to coordinating enrollment of individuals in Exchange plans and under state Medicaid programs, and to otherwise coordinate the implementation of these provisions with respect to the Medicaid program. This memorandum would permit the exchange of information consistent with limitations specified in Medicaid statute with respect to providing safeguards that restrict the use or disclosure of information concerning applicants and recipients to purposes directly connected with the administration of the state Medicaid plan, and at state option, the exchange of information necessary to verify eligibility for other federal programs (e.g., for free and reduced price school lunches). None of these provisions could be construed as permitting such memorandum to modify or vitiate any requirement of a state Medicaid plan.

In carrying out this section, the Commissioner would establish effective methods for communicating in plain language and a culturally and linguistically appropriate manner.

Sec. 206. Other Functions

The Commissioner would be required to coordinate the distribution of affordability premium and cost-sharing credits (described below in Sections 243–244) to the Exchange plans. The Commissioner would also be required to establish a risk-pooling mechanism, to adjust premium payments to Exchange plans to take into account (in a manner specified by the Commissioner) the differences in the risk characteristics of individuals and employers enrolled under the Exchange plans.

An Office of the Special Inspector General for the Exchange would be established, headed by a Special Inspector General appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The Special Inspector General's nomination would be made as soon as practicable after the establishment of the Exchange.

The duties of the Special Inspector General would consist of the following:

- conduct, supervise, and coordinate audits, evaluations and investigations of the Health Insurance Exchange to protect the integrity of the Exchange as well as the health and welfare of participants in the Exchange;
- report both to the Commissioner and to the Congress regarding program and management problems and recommendations to correct them;
- related to the duties above, have other duties described as applying to the Special Inspector General of the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP), per paragraphs (2) and (3) of Section 121 of P.L. 110-343; and
- in carrying out these duties, have the authorities of inspectors general in Section 6 of the Inspector General Act of 1978.

Other provisions of the TARP Special Inspector General would also be applied, regarding the basis of the Special Inspector General's appointment, how s/he might be removed, his/her salary, and available personnel, facilities and other resources.

Not later than one year after the confirmation of the Special Inspector General, and annually thereafter, the Special Inspector General would submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report summarizing the activities of the Special Inspector General during the one year period ending on the date the report is submitted.

The Office of the Special Inspector General would terminate five years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Following an amendment at Committee, this provision would also require the Commissioner, in consultation with the Small Business Administration, to establish and carry out a program to provide health insurance counseling and technical assistance to small employers who provide their employees health care through the HIE.

Sec. 207. Health Insurance Exchange Trust Fund

A "Health Insurance Exchange Trust Fund" would be created within the U.S. Treasury, consisting of such amounts as may be appropriated or credited to the fund. The Commissioner would pay from the Trust Fund amounts as determined necessary to make payments to operate the Exchange, including affordability credits.

Dedicated payments to the Trust Fund would include the following:

- tax on individuals not obtaining acceptable coverage (Section 401);

- tax on employers electing to not provide health benefits (Section 412); and
- tax on employers who fail to satisfy health coverage participation requirements (Section 411).

Such additional sums as necessary would be appropriated. General provisions in the Internal Revenue Code regarding federal government trust funds would apply.

Sec. 208. Optional Operation of State-based Health Insurance Exchanges

If a state (or group of states, subject to the Commissioner's approval) applied to the Commissioner for approval of a state-based Health Insurance Exchange, and if the Commissioner approves such state-based Exchange, then the state-based Exchange would operate instead of the federal Exchange in that state(s).

The Commissioner could not approve a state-based Exchange unless the following requirements were met (and would be required to approve it if the conditions were met):

- The state-based Exchange must demonstrate the capacity to and provide assurances satisfactory to the Commissioner that it could carry out the functions specified for the federal Exchange in the state(s) including:
 - negotiating and contracting with qualified plans;
 - enrolling Exchange-eligible individuals and employers in plans;
 - establishing sufficient local offices to meet the needs of Exchange-eligible individuals and employers;
 - administering premium and cost-sharing credits (described below in Sections 241–246) using the same methodologies, and at least the same income verification methods, as would otherwise apply and at a cost to the federal government that is not greater than what would otherwise apply; and
 - enforcement activities consistent with federal requirements.
- There is no more than one Exchange in operation in any one state.
- The state provides assurances satisfactory to the Commissioner that approval of such an Exchange would not result in any net increase in expenditures to the federal government.
- The State provides for reporting of such information as the Commissioner determines and assurances satisfactory to the Commissioner that it will vigorously enforce violations of applicable requirements.
- Such other requirements as the Commissioner may specify.

A state-based Exchange could, at the option of the state, and only after providing timely and reasonable notice to the Commissioner, cease operation. In this case, the federal Exchange would be operational in the state(s).

The Commissioner could terminate the approval (for some or all functions) of a state-based Exchange if the Commissioner determined that it no longer met the requirements listed above or was no longer capable of carrying out such functions. In lieu of terminating the state-based Exchange's approval, the Commissioner could temporarily assume some or all functions of the state-based Exchange until the Commissioner determined that it met the applicable requirements and was capable of carrying out those functions. The ceasing or termination of a state-based Exchange would be effective in such time and manner as the Commissioner would specify.

Enforcement authorities of the Commissioner would be retained by the Commissioner. The Commissioner could specify functions of the federal Exchange that may not be performed by a state-based Exchange or that could be performed by both the Commissioner and the state-based Exchange.

In the case of a state-based Exchange, except as the Commissioner may otherwise specify, any references to the “Exchange” or to the “Commissioner” in the area in which the state-based Exchange operates would be deemed a reference to the state-based Exchange and the head of that Exchange.

In the case of a state-based Exchange, funding assistance would be provided for its operation in the form of a matching grant, with a state share of expenditures required.

Sec. 209. Participation of Small Employer Benefit Arrangements

This provision would allow the Commissioner to enter into contracts with small business co-ops operating a small business benefit arrangement to facilitate their participation in the HIE.

Subtitle B—Public Health Insurance Option

Sec. 221. Establishment and Administration of a Public Health Insurance Option As An Exchange-Qualified Health Benefits Plan

Current Law

Medicare is an example of a federal public health insurance program for the aged and disabled. Under Medicare, Congress and the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) determine many parameters of the program including eligibility rules, financing (including determination of payroll taxes, and premiums), required benefits, payments to health care providers, and cost sharing amounts.

Proposed Law

The provision would require the Secretary of Health and Human Services (Secretary) to provide for the offering of a public health insurance option through the Exchange starting 2013. The Secretary would be required to ensure that the public option provided choice, competition and stability of affordable, high quality coverage throughout the United States. The Secretary’s primary responsibility would be to create a low-cost plan without compromising quality or access to care.

The public option would only be available through the Health Insurance Exchange. The public option would be required to comply with requirements applicable to Exchange-participating health benefit plans, including requirements related to benefits, benefit levels, provider networks, notices, consumer protections, and cost sharing. The public option would be required to offer basic, enhanced, and premium plans, and would be allowed to offer premium-plus plans.

The Secretary would be allowed to enter into contracts for the administration of the public option in the same manner as the Secretary is allowed to enter into contracts for the administration of the Medicare program. These administrative functions include, subject to restrictions, determination of payment amounts, making payments, beneficiary education and assistance, provider consultative services, communication with providers, and provider education and technical assistance. The Secretary would have the same authority to enter into contracts for the public option, as the Secretary has with respect to the Medicare program. The provision would prohibit contracts that involve the transfer of insurance risk.

The Secretary would be required to establish an office of the ombudsman for the public health insurance option which would have duties similar to those of the Medicare Beneficiary Ombudsman.

The Secretary would be required to collect data necessary to establish premiums and payment rates and for other purposes, including improving quality and reducing disparities in health care based on race, ethnicity, primary language, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, socioeconomic status, rural, urban, or other geographic setting, and any other population or subpopulation as determined appropriate by the Secretary. Such data collection would be on a voluntary basis and consistent with certain privacy standards.

With respect to the public health insurance option, the Secretary would be treated as an entity offering a Quality Health Benefit Plan through the Exchange.

The provisions relating to access to Federal courts for enforcement of rights under Medicare would apply to the public option and individuals enrolled under the public option in the same manner that they apply to Medicare and Medicare beneficiaries.

Sec. 222. Premiums and Financing

Current Law

No current law.

Proposed Law

The Secretary would be required to establish geographically-adjusted premiums for the public option in a manner that complies with the premium rules established by the Commissioner for Exchange-participating health benefit plans and at a level sufficient to fully finance the cost of health benefits and administration for the public option. Premiums would be required to include an appropriate amount for a contingency margin.

The provision would establish an account in the Treasury for receipts and disbursements attributable to the public option, including start-up funding. The start-up funding would be equal to the sum of $2 billion for the establishment of the public option, and such sums as may be necessary to cover 90 days worth of reserves based on projected enrollment. These amounts would be authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary out of any funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. The Secretary would be required to provide for repayment of the start-up funding in an amortized manner over a 10 year period starting in 2013. The provision specifies that nothing in this section could be construed as authorizing any additional appropriations to the account, other than amounts otherwise provided with respect to other Exchange-participating plans. As under the Medicare Advantage program, states would be prohibited from imposing a premium tax or similar tax with respect to the public option.

Sec. 223. Payment Rates for Items and Services

Current Law

No current law.

Proposed Law

The Secretary would be required to establish payment rates for services and health care providers under the public option.

In general, during the first three years of the public option, the Secretary would be required to base payment rates on the rates for similar services and providers under Medicare. For services furnished in 2013, 2014 and 2015, physicians and other health care practitioners who participate in both Medicare and the public option would receive payment rates 5% greater than rates otherwise established by the Secretary for items and professional services. Pediatricians and other practitioners who do not typically participate in Medicare—as determined by the Secretary—would also be eligible for the increased payment rates. Beginning in 2016, the Secretary would be required to continue to use an administrative process to set payment rates to promote payment accuracy, to ensure adequate beneficiary access to providers, and to promote affordability and the efficient delivery of health care. The Secretary would be prohibited from setting rates at levels expected to increase overall medical costs for the public option beyond what would be expected if Medicare rates (plus the 5% addition) were to continue.

The provision specifies that nothing would prevent the use of innovative payment methodologies such as those described in Section 224 in connection with the negotiation of payment rates. As introduced and reported, H.R. 3200 would allow the Secretary discretion to establish a prescription drug formulary, and use other methods, including those used by private sector pharmacy benefit managers, to reduce prescription drug costs under the public health insurance option, and the Committee expects that the Secretary would implement such a formulary.

Health care providers participating in Medicare would be participating providers in the public health insurance option unless they opted out in a process established by the Secretary.

The provision would prohibit administrative or judicial review of a payment rate or methodology established under this section, or Section 224.

Sec. 224. Modernized Payment Initiatives and Delivery System Reform

Current Law

No current law.

Proposed Law

Beginning in the first year of the public option, the Secretary would be given the authority to use innovative payment mechanisms and policies to determine payments for items and services under the public option. The payment mechanisms and policies may include the following: patient-centered medical home, other care management payments, accountable care organizations, value-based purchasing, bundling of services, differential payment rates, performance or utilization based payments, partial capitation, and direct contracting with providers. The Secretary would be required to design and implement the payment mechanisms and policies in a way that promotes care that is integrated, patient-centered, efficient and of quality, and that seeks to either (a) improve health outcomes, (b) reduce health disparities, (c) address geographic variation in the provision of health services, (d) prevent or manage chronic illness, or (e) provide efficient and affordable care. To the extent allowed under the rules for Exchange-participating plans, the provision would allow cost sharing and payment rates under the public option to be modified to encourage the use of services that promote health and value. The provision specifies that nothing in the subtitle would prevent the Secretary from varying payments based on different payment structure models for different geographic areas.

Sec. 225. Provider ParticipationCurrent Law

No current law

Proposed Law

The Secretary would be required to establish conditions of participation for health care providers under the public option. The Secretary would be prohibited from allowing a health care provider to participate unless appropriately licensed or certified under State law. A health care provider that was excluded from participation in a Federal health care program (as defined in Section 1128(f) of the Social Security Act), would be prohibited from participating under the public option.

Annually, the Secretary would be required to provide for physicians to participate in the public plan in one of two classes: (a) preferred physician, or (b) participating, non-preferred physician. A preferred physician would be one who agreed to accept the established rate as payment in full. A participating non-preferred physician would be one who could balance bill-impose charges that exceed the charges that may be imposed for such items and services (in relation to the payment rate for such items and services under Medicare). The participating non-preferred physician would agree not to impose charges that exceed 115 percent of the amount established under Sec. 223 (consisting of the Medicare rate and the 5 percent addition). The Secretary would be required to provide for the participation of non-physician providers. Non-physician providers would only be allowed to participate if they accepted the established rates as payment in full.

Sec. 226. Application of Fraud and Abuse ProvisionsCurrent Law

Title XVIII of the SSA, the Medicare statutes, requires activities that prevent, detect, investigate and prosecute health care fraud and abuse. In general, initiatives designed to fight fraud, waste, and abuse are considered program integrity activities. Program integrity is considered a component of the effective and efficient administration of government programs, which are entrusted with ensuring that taxpayer dollars are spent wisely. Efforts to ensure Medicare program integrity encompass a wide range of activities and require coordination among multiple private and public entities. This includes processes directed at reducing payment errors to Medicare providers, as well as activities to prevent, detect, investigate, and ultimately prosecute health care fraud and abuse.

Proposed Law

The provisions of law (other than criminal law) identified by the Secretary by regulation, in consultation with the Inspector General, that impose sanctions with respect to waste, fraud, and abuse under Medicare would also apply to the public health insurance option.

Sec. 227. Sense of the House Regarding Enrollment of Members in the Public Option

This provision would create a Sense of the House of Representatives that any members who vote in support of the public health insurance option are urged to forgo their right to participate in the FEHBP and enroll under the public option.

Subtitle C—Individual Affordability Credits

Sec. 241. Availability Through Health Insurance ExchangeCurrent Law

None.

Proposed Law

This provision would provide premium and cost-sharing credits to “affordable credit eligible individuals” (defined in Section 242) for certain individuals enrolled in coverage through the Exchange. The Commissioner would pay each QHBP participating in the Exchange the aggregate amount of credits for all eligible individuals enrolled in that plan.

An Exchange-eligible individual could apply to the Commissioner, through the Exchange or another entity under an arrangement made with the Commissioner, in a form and manner specified by the Commissioner. The Commissioner, through the Health Insurance Exchange or through another public entity under an arrangement made with the Commissioner, would make a determination as to eligibility of an individual for affordability credits. The Commissioner would establish a process whereby, on the basis of information otherwise available, individuals may be deemed eligible for credits. The Commissioner would also establish effective methods that ensure that individuals with limited English proficiency are able to apply for affordability credits.

If the Commissioner determines that a state Medicaid agency has the capacity to make a determination of eligibility for affordability credits under the same standards as used by the Commissioner, under the Medicaid memorandum of understanding (described above in Section 205), the state Medicaid agency is authorized to conduct such determinations for any Exchange-eligible individual who requests such a determination, and the Commissioner would reimburse the state Medicaid agency for the costs of conducting such determinations.

In addition, there would be a Medicaid screen-and-enroll obligation, that when individuals apply for affordability credits, a determination would be made as to whether they are eligible for Medicaid. If they are determined eligible for Medicaid, the Commissioner, through the Medicaid memorandum of understanding, would provide for their enrollment under the state Medicaid plan, and the state would provide for the same periodic redetermination of eligibility under Medicaid as would otherwise apply.

During the first two years of implementation, credits would be allowed for coverage under a Basic plan only. Beginning in the third year, credits would be allowed for coverage under Enhanced or Premium plans by a process established by the Commissioner. The individual would be responsible for any difference between the premium for an Enhanced or Premium plan and the credit amount based on a Basic plan applicable to that enrollee.

The Commissioner would be authorized to request from the Treasury Secretary information that may be required to carry out this subtitle (regarding individual affordability credits), consistent with existing rules regarding confidentiality and disclosure of tax return information. Individuals who are eligible to receive credits would not receive them in the form of cash payments.

Sec. 242. Affordable Credit Eligible Individual

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

This provision would define an “affordable credit eligible individual” as an individual who (1) is lawfully present in a state in the United States (other than those lawfully present as non-immigrants, with some exceptions), (2) is enrolled in an Exchange plan and is not enrolled through an employer plan that meets the employer responsibility to contribute toward employee and dependent coverage (described below in Section 312), (3) has family income below 400 percent FPL, and (4) who is not a Medicaid-eligible individual (other than some exceptions described above in Section 202). Family members who are eligible for credits will be treated as a single affordable credit eligible individual.

Credits would not be available to full-time employees of an employer offering coverage consistent with the employer contribution rules described in Section 312. The Commissioner would make exceptions to this rule for divorced or separated individuals, or dependents of employees who would otherwise be eligible for credits. Exceptions would also be made, beginning in 2014, for full-time employees whose premium and cost sharing costs under a group health plan exceed 11 percent of family income.

Income would be defined as “modified adjusted gross income” (MAGI), per the new 59B of the Internal Revenue Code, added in Sec. 401. The Commissioner would conduct a study to examine the application of income disregards for the purposes of the affordability credits. The Commissioner would submit a report to Congress of such a study, including recommendations as the Commissioner determines appropriate. Affordability credits would not be treated as a federal means-tested public benefit for eligibility purposes for qualified aliens under the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996.

Sec. 243. Affordable Premium Credit

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

This section would establish the rules for determining the amount of the premium credit provided to eligible individuals enrolled in an Exchange plan. The “affordability premium credit” would be an amount equal to the lesser of (1) the amount by which the enrollee’s premium exceeds a specified level that is considered affordable (“affordable premium amount”), or (2) the amount by which the “reference premium” (the average premium of the three least expensive Basic plans in the individual’s premium rating area) exceeds the “affordable premium amount.” In calculating the reference premium, the Commissioner may exclude plans with extremely limited enrollments.

The affordable premium credit amount would be calculated on a monthly basis, based on the following table, to limit individuals’ premium payments to a percentage of family income (MAGI) relative to the poverty level, as specified in the table below.

Federal poverty level (FPL)	Premium payment limit, as a percent of income
133% or less	1.5%
150%	3%
200%	5%
250%	7%
300%	9%
350%	10%
400%	11%

The Commissioner would establish premium percentage limits so that for individuals whose family income is between the income tiers specified in the table, the percentage limits would increase on a linear sliding scale.

Sec. 244. Affordability Cost-Sharing Credit

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

The affordability cost-sharing credit under this section would be available to those enrolled in an Exchange plan whose income is less than 400 percent FPL. The Commissioner would specify reductions in cost-sharing amounts and the annual limitation (out-of-pocket maximum) on cost-sharing under a Basic plan so that the average percentage of covered benefits paid by the plan (as estimated by the Commissioner) is equal to the percentages (actuarial values) in the table for each income tier.

Federal poverty level (FPL)	Actuarial value percentage
150% or less	97%
200%	93%
250%	85%
300%	78%
350%	72%
400%	70%

The Commissioner would provide payments to QHBP-offering entities in an amount equivalent to the increased actuarial value of benefits resulting from the cost-sharing reductions.

Sec. 245. Income Determinations

Current Law

None.

Proposed Law

This provision would use an individual’s adjusted gross income in the most recent taxable year for determination of a credit under this Subtitle. The Commissioner would take steps as may be appropriate to ensure the accuracy of determinations and redeterminations under this subtitle. The Commissioner would request information from the Treasury Secretary as may be permitted to verify income information submitted in applications for credits. The Commissioner would establish procedures for verification of income if no tax return is available for the most recent completed tax year. The Commissioner would establish special rules for cases when an individual’s income is expected (in a manner specified by the Commissioner) to be significantly different from the income submitted for application for and determination of a credit. The Commissioner would establish rules under which an individual would be required to inform the Commissioner when there is a significant change in income. Such mechanism would provide for guidelines that specify the circumstances that qualify as a significant change, the verifiable information required to document such a change, and the process for submission of such information. If the Commissioner receives new information from an individual regarding the family income of the individual, the Commissioner would provide for a redetermination of the individual’s eligibility to be an affordable credit eligible individual.

For a CHIP-eligible child deemed to be eligible for coverage through the Exchange, during the first year of implementation the Commissioner would establish rules under which family income of the child is deemed to be no greater than the family income of that child as most recently determined by the State under CHIP. The Commissioner would examine the feasibility and implication of adjusting the application of the federal poverty level in this Subtitle to take into account geographic differences, in order to reflect cost-of-living variations across the country. The Commissioner would submit a report to Congress, no later than the first day of the second year of implementation, on such a study and make recommendations as appropriate. An individual who intentionally misrepresents family income or fails to disclose to the Commissioner a significant change in family income would be liable for repayment of any improperly received credit and, in the case of intentional misrepresentation, may be required to pay an additional penalty as imposed by the Commissioner.

Sec. 246. No Federal Payment for Undocumented Aliens

Current Law

None

Proposed Law

No credits would be given to individuals who are not lawfully present in the country.

Subtitle D—State Innovation

Sec. 251. Waiver of ERISA Limitation; Application Instead of State Single Payer System

Added by an amendment at Committee, this provision would create an ERISA waiver to permit States to enact single payer laws. The Department of Labor would determine whether the State plan meets certain requirements to obtain the waiver. With such a waiver, a state single payer system would operate in lieu of the HIE in such state.

The Committee did not exercise jurisdiction over this section.

Subtitle B—Employer Responsibility

Sec. 311. Health Coverage Participation Requirements,

Sec. 312. Employer Responsibility to Contribute Towards Employee and Dependent Coverage,

Sec. 313. Employer Contributions in Lieu of Coverage,

Sec. 314. Authority Related to Improper Steering,

Sec. 321. Satisfaction of Health Coverage Participation Requirements under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974,

Sec. 322. Satisfaction of Health Coverage Participation Requirements under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986,

Sec. 323. Satisfaction of Health Coverage Participation Requirements under the Public Health Service Act, and

Sec. 324. Additional rules relating to health coverage participation requirements

Current Law

There is no federal requirement that employers offer health insurance coverage to employees or their families. As with other compensation, the cost of employer-provided health coverage is a deductible business expense under section 162 of the Code. In addition, employer-provided health insurance coverage is generally not included in an employee's gross income.

ERISA¹²⁴ preempts state law relating to certain employer-sponsored health plans. While ERISA specifically provides that its preemption rule does not exempt or relieve any person from any State law which regulates insurance, ERISA also provides that an employee benefit plan is not deemed to be engaged in the business of insurance for purposes of any State law regulating insurance companies or insurance contracts. As a result of this ERISA preemption, the courts have held that self-insured employer-sponsored health plans cannot be regulated under State insurance law.

While ERISA does not require an employer to offer health benefits, it does require compliance with a few limited standards if an employer chooses to offer health benefits, mainly compliance with plan fiduciary standards, reporting and disclosure requirements, and procedures for appealing denied benefit claims. ERISA was amended (as well as the Public Health Service Act and the Internal Revenue Code) in the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (COBRA)¹²⁵ and the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 ("HIPAA")¹²⁶, adding other Federal requirements for health plans, including rules for health care continuation coverage, limitations on exclusions from coverage based on preexisting conditions, and a few benefit requirements such as minimum hospital stay requirements for mothers following the birth of a child.

Section 311. Health Coverage Participation Requirements

Section 311 of the bill sets forth the basic requirement for an employer to offer individual and family health care coverage, to make timely contributions to such coverage when accepted by the employee, and to make contributions to the HIE in lieu of such coverage when the employee declines the coverage but obtains coverage from an HIE plan.

Additionally, employers that meet certain economic hardship qualifications could apply for a two-year employer hardship exemption that waives an employer's obligation to provide coverage required by this bill. The Secretary shall develop rules on the form and manner of such exemption applications and should take a robust approach to collecting information from an employer applicant and determining how significant and unavoidable such claimed hardship is. For example, employers should not be allowed to game or abuse this exemption through timed outlays, like executive bonuses, in order to create a balance sheet designed to demonstrate hardship when it comes to complying with health coverage requirements. The Committee expects the Secretary to require adequate documentation of the employer's financial circumstances to demonstrate whether it qualifies for this exemption.

Section 312. Employer Responsibility to Contribute towards Employee and Dependent Coverage

Section 312 specifies the minimum contribution amounts an employer must make to satisfy the coverage requirements for full-time and non-full-time employees. An employer may not satisfy the minimum contribution requirement through a salary reduction arrangement with the employee. This section also provides rules for the automatic enrollment of employees into employer plans and how employees may opt out of such automatic enrollment.

Employers offering health benefit plans would be required to offer individual and family coverage under a qualified health benefits plan (or certain grandfathered health insurance plans)¹²⁷ and to make contributions to help discharge the coverage costs of employees enrolled in the employer-provided plan. For full time employees, the employer would be required to contribute at least 72.5 percent of the lowest cost plan offered by the employer which meets the requirements of the essential benefits package¹²⁸ (65 percent for eligible employees electing family coverage). For part time employees, the contribution amount from the employer would be a fraction of the minimum contributions made for full time employees, with such fraction being equal to a ratio of the average weekly hours worked by the employee compared to the minimum weekly hours specified by the Health Choices Commissioner. Employers would be required to provide information to the Secretaries of Labor, Health and Human Services, and the Treasury, to assist the Secretaries with ascertaining compliance with the proposal's requirements.

¹²⁸ The essential benefits package would include certain specified limits on required cost sharing, would ban annual or lifetime limit on covered health care items or services and certain specified minimum services, and would impose certain requirements as to network adequacy as determined by the Health Choices Commissioner.

Sec. 313. Employer Contributions in Lieu of Coverage

Employers that elect not to provide eligible health benefit plans to their employees would be subject to a contribution to the Health Insurance Exchange Trust Fund equal to 8 percent of wages (as defined in section 3121 for purposes of FICA). There is a special rule for an employer who is considered a small employer, defined as any employer with an annual payroll for the preceding calendar year which does not exceed $400,000.

Employers with payrolls that do not exceed $250,000 would be exempt. Employers with payrolls that exceed $250,000 but do not exceed $300,000 would be subject to a contribution equal to 2 percent of wages; employers with payrolls that exceed $300,000 but do not exceed $350,000 would be subject to a contribution of 4 percent of wages; and employers with an annual payroll that exceeds $350,000 but do not exceed $400,000 would be subject to a contribution of 6 percent of wages.

Related employers and predecessors would be treated as a single employer for purposes of determining whether an employer qualifies for the special rule for small employers.

Section 314. Authority related to improper steering

The Health Choices Commissioner (in coordination with the Secretaries of Labor, Health and Human Services, and the Treasury) would have the authority to set standards for determining whether employers were undertaking any actions to affect the risk pool within the Health Insurance exchange by inducing employees to enroll in Exchange-participating health plans rather than in employer-provided plans. An employer found to be violating these standards would be treated as not meeting the coverage requirements.

Section 321. Satisfaction of Health Coverage Participation Requirements under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974

Section 321 amends ERISA and sets forth the requirements for an employer to satisfy the health coverage participation requirements under the bill.

Elections

Under the proposal, employers would be required to make an affirmative election regarding whether to offer health benefit plans to employees. Those employers electing to offer health benefit plans would be required to have their plans meet certain minimum coverage requirements. Employers choosing not to offer health benefit plans, or that offered plans that did not meet the proposal's qualification requirements, would be subject to additional taxes or penalties. Employers with payrolls of $250,000 or less would be exempt from the pay or play requirements.

The Secretaries of Labor, Health and Human Services, and the Treasury, would prescribe coordinated rules for employer elections regarding coverage, including rules for the time, manner and form of elections, and the treatment of affiliated groups of employers, separate lines of business, and full versus part time employees.¹²⁹ Subject to Section 151, employers electing to offer health benefit plans would be treated as having established and maintained a group health plan for purposes of ERISA and the Public Health Service Act (“PHSA”),¹³⁰ and the proposal’s health coverage participation requirements would be deemed to be part of the terms and conditions of the employer-provided plan.

Employers would be required to provide verification of their compliance with the proposal’s health coverage participation requirement to the Health Choices Commissioner and to the Secretaries of Labor, Health and Human Services, and the Treasury.

Aggregation Rules

For affiliated groups of employers, the identity of the employer would generally be determined by applying the employer aggregation rules in section 414(b), (c), (m), and (o).¹³¹ The same election would apply to all employers in the aggregated group. Employers would be able to make separate elections for employees in separate lines of business, or for full time employees and part time employees.

Noncompliance with Coverage Requirements

Employers who elected to provide coverage but whose health benefit plans failed to meet the proposal’s minimum health coverage participation requirements would be subject to penalties of $100 per day for each employee to whom the failure applied.¹³² The penalties would not apply to (1) periods during which an employer used reasonable diligence but did not discover any failures, and (2) failures that were corrected within 30 days of discovery (but only if such failures were due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect). Penalties imposed on employers for unintentional failures (i.e., due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect) would be limited to the lesser of: 10 percent of the aggregate amount paid or incurred by the employer during the preceding taxable year for group health plans, or $500,000.

The Secretaries would also be able to terminate an employer’s election (and thus subject them to the required contribution im-

¹²⁹The Commissioner and Secretaries would also be required to issue regulations applying the proposal’s requirements to multiemployer plans (as defined in section 3(37) of ERISA).

¹³⁰42, U.S.C. 6A.

¹³¹Section 414(b) provides that, for specified employee benefit purposes, all employees of all corporations which are members of a controlled group of corporations are treated as employed by a single employer. There is a similar rule in section 414(c) under which all employees of trades or businesses (whether or not incorporated) which are under common control are treated under regulations as employed by a single employer, and, in section 414(m), under which employees of an affiliated service group (as defined in that section) are treated as employed by a single employer. Section 414(o) authorizes the Treasury to issue regulations to prevent avoidance of the certain requirements under section 414(m).

¹³²The proposal would permit the penalties to be assessed through an excise tax or a civil penalty under ERISA or PHSA. Penalties for any particular failure would not be duplicated, however. The Secretary of Labor or Health and Human Services, as appropriate, would be required to give advance written notification of failure to employers prior to the assessment of a penalty. The Secretary of Health and Human Services would be able to bring civil actions in Federal court to collect civil penalties assessed under PHSA.

posed on employers that do not offer coverage) if it was determined that the employer was substantially noncompliant with health coverage participation requirements.

The Secretary of Labor would be required to conduct periodic audits of employers in order to discover noncompliance with health coverage participation requirements. The Secretary of the Treasury and the Health Choices Commissioner would be informed of audit results.

To facilitate such audits, especially with respect to the problem of employers misclassifying employees as independent contractors, the Secretary of Labor would be authorized to issue regulations that would require employers to keep records on both employees and certain claimed independent contractors. The Secretary should craft such recordkeeping requirements to assist in uncovering and remedying any misclassification of workers.

Division B—Medicare and Medicaid Improvements

The Committee does not have jurisdiction over Division B.

Division C—Public Health and Workforce Development

The Committee has jurisdiction over certain provisions in Division C, summarized below.

Sec. 2502. Establishment of Grant Program

Current Law

PHSA Section 831 establishes a Nurse Education, Practice, and Retention Grants program. Under this program, the Secretary may award grants or enter into contracts with a school of nursing, health care facility, or a partnership of the two, to respond to the nursing shortage and increase the number of registered nurses in specific priority areas, as described. Funds may be used to promote career advancement for nurses. Appropriations authority for this grant program expired at the end of FY2007.

Proposed Law

This provision would establish a new partnership grant program, administered by the Secretary of Labor, to provide matching grants for nursing training programs that aim to increase the number and skill levels of nurses, and expand nurse training capacity, in order to address projected nursing shortages. The Secretary of Labor would be required to establish this partnership grant program within six months of enactment.

Eligible entities would be: (1) a health care entity that is jointly administered by a health care employer and a labor union representing that organization's health care employees, and that carries out activities using training funds as provided under Section 302(c)(6) of the Labor Management Relations Act (relating to funds paid by an employer to a trust fund established by a union to provide specified benefits or defray the costs of apprenticeship or training programs); (2) an entity that operates a training program jointly administered by one or more health care providers, facilities, or a trade association of health care providers; and by organizations that represent the interests of direct care health care workers or staff nurses, and include their leadership input; or (3) a State training partnership program that consists of non-profit organizations that have equal participation from industry (including both public and private employers) and labor organizations (including joint labor-management training programs), which may include representatives from local governments, worker investment agency one-stop career centers, community-based organizations, community colleges, and accredited schools of nursing. Eligible entities would be required to submit an appropriate application to the Secretary of Labor.

An eligible entity that is a health care employer would also be required to demonstrate that it: (1) has an established nursing retention program; (2) provides nursing wages and benefits that are competitive for its market or that have been collectively bargained with a labor organization; and (3) provides support for employees participating in the training program through one or more specified means, including paid leave time, or contributions to a training fund, among others.

The Secretary of Labor would be prohibited from awarding grants unless the applicant agrees to provide non-Federal matching funds that are equal to or no less than one dollar for each Federal dollar received. Matching funds could be secured from donations or provided through the cash equivalent of paid release time provided to incumbent worker students participating in educational programs. In addition, eligible entities would be required to demonstrate collaboration with accredited schools of nursing.

Awardees would be required to use funds to create training programs to allow incumbent health care workers to become nurses, to provide for the advanced training of nurses, or both. In each case, a number of specified program components would be required.

In making awards, the Secretary of Labor would be required to give preference to programs that improve nurse retention; that improve the diversity of nursing graduates; that improve the quality of nursing education; that have demonstrated success for transitioning health care workers into nursing or have established pilot programs to increase nurse faculty; or that are modeled after or affiliated with established transitioning and pilot programs mentioned above.

Awardees would be required annually to submit an evaluation to the Secretary of Labor, which must include a description of the grantee's activities and an evaluation of program outcomes. Several outcomes that may be reported are specified.

The Secretary of Labor would be required, within two years of enactment and annually thereafter, to report to Congress on the overall effectiveness of the grant programs carried out under this provision. This provision would authorize to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the partnership grant program.

Subtitle F—Standards for Accessibility to Medical Equipment for Individuals with Disabilities

Sec. 2541. Access for Individuals with Disabilities

This provision would require the development of standards for accessible equipment, and require relevant agencies to ensure that all entities covered by the legislation meet the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act.

Subtitle G—Other Grant Programs

Sec. 2551. Reducing Student-to-School Nurse Ratios

This provision would make available demonstration grants to eligible local education agencies with the purpose to reduce the student-to-school nurse ratio in public elementary and secondary schools with special consideration given to high-need local educational agencies who demonstrate the greatest need for new or additional nursing services by providing information on the current ratios of students to school nurses.

Sec. 2552. Wellness Program Grants

This provision would authorize the Secretary of Labor to offer incentives to employers who establish qualified wellness programs for their employees. Participating employers must offer the programs to all employees and cannot mandate participation nor use participation as a condition to receive any financial incentive. The Committee recognizes the success of workplace wellness programs in promoting health and well-being and in reducing medical expenditures. The Committee urges the Secretary to promote both public and private workplace wellness programs.

Sec. 2553. Health Professions Training for Diversity Programs

This provision would authorize the Secretary of Labor to make grants to certain health care workforce development programs, particularly those focused on low-income persons, veterans, or rural or urban underserved populations.

Subtitle H—Long-Term Care and Family Caregiver Support

Sec. 2561. Long-Term Care and Family Caregiver Support

This provision would establish an advisory panel and a pilot program focused on improving the working conditions and training for the long-term care workforce.

Subtitle I—Online Resources

Sec. 2571. Web Site on Health Care Labor Market and Related Educational and Training Opportunities

This provision would require the Secretary of Labor to establish a web site that would serve as a clearinghouse of information on the health care labor market, including educational and training opportunities and financial aid information.

Sec. 2572. Online Health Workforce Training Programs

This provision would establish a grant program with the Secretary of Labor to award grants to qualifying entities providing health care workers with online training.

VI. EXPLANATION OF AMENDMENTS

The Amendment in the Nature of a Substitute and amendments thereof are explained in the body of this report.

VII. APPLICATION OF LAW TO THE LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

Section 102(b)(3) of Public Law 104–1, the Congressional Accountability Act, requires a description of the application of this bill to the legislative branch. The Committee has determined that the bill would apply to the legislative branch and its employees in the same way it would apply to employers and employees in the private sector.

VIII. REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT

The Committee has determined that H.R. 3200 provides for a new Health Insurance Exchange, in which participation is voluntary, and that such Exchange will be governed by a new Health Choices Administration which will establish, among other things, standards for what constitutes a qualified health benefit plan. With several exceptions for other acceptable coverage, employers and individuals will be required to maintain coverage via a qualified health benefit plan or pay a fee for not doing so. This new health care policy infrastructure will have the impact of ensuring that 97% of Americans have meaningful health insurance coverage and reduce the cost of providing such coverage for both employers and individuals.

IX. UNFUNDED MANDATE STATEMENT

Section 423 of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act (as amended by Section 101(a)(2) of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act, P.L. 104–4) requires a statement of whether the provisions of the reported bill include unfunded mandates. The Committee anticipates that this issue will be addressed in a CBO cost estimate letter for the bill when it proceeds to consideration on the House floor, following the merger of the three versions of the bill reported by the three committees of jurisdiction.

X. EARMARK STATEMENT

H.R. 3200 does not contain any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clause 9(d), 9(e) or 9(f) of rule XXI.

XII. STATEMENT OF OVERSIGHT FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COMMITTEE

In compliance with clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII and clause 2(b)(1) of rule X of the rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee's oversight findings and recommendations are reflected in the body of this report.

XIII. NEW BUDGET AUTHORITY AND CBO COST ESTIMATE

With respect to the requirements of clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and with respect to requirements of 3(c)(3) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives and section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee anticipates that a CBO cost estimate letter on H.R. 3200 will address these issues when the bill proceeds to consideration on the House floor. CBO is unable to provide a cost estimate prior to the reconciliation of the versions of the bill as amended and reported by the three committees of jurisdiction.

XIV. STATEMENT OF GENERAL PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

In accordance with clause 3(c) of House rule XIII, the goal of H.R. 3200 is to increase access to affordable quality health coverage and contain costs.

XV. CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY STATEMENT

Under clause 3(d)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee must include a statement citing the specific powers granted to Congress in the Constitution to enact the law proposed by H.R. 3200. The amendments and new law made by this bill are within Congress' authority under Article I, Section 8, Clauses 1, 3, and 18 of the Constitution.

XVI. COMMITTEE ESTIMATE

Clause 3(d)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison of the costs that would be incurred in carrying out H.R. 3200.

The Committee anticipates that, as noted earlier, a CBO cost estimate will address these issues when the bill proceeds to consideration on the House floor.

XVII. CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

SEC. 715. PROTECTION AGAINST POST-RETIREMENT REDUCTION OF RETIREE HEALTH BENEFITS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Every group health plan shall contain a provision which expressly bars the plan, or any fiduciary of the plan, from reducing the benefits provided under the plan to a retired participant, or beneficiary of such participant, if such reduction affects the benefits provided to the participant or beneficiary as of the date the participant retired for purposes of the plan and such reduction occurs after the participant's retirement unless such reduction is also made with respect to active participants.

(b) NO REDUCTION.—Notwithstanding that a group health plan described in subsection (a) may contain a provision reserving the general power to amend or terminate the plan or a provision specifically authorizing the plan to make post-retirement reductions in retiree health benefits, it shall be prohibited for any group health plan, whether through amendment or otherwise, to reduce the benefits provided to a retired participant or his or her beneficiary under the terms of the plan if such reduction of benefits occurs after the

SEC. 802. TREATMENT OF COVERAGE RESULTING FROM ELECTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—If an employer makes an election to the Secretary under section 801—

(1) such election shall be treated as the establishment and maintenance of a group health plan (as defined in section 733(a)) for purposes of this title, subject to section 151 of the America's Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009, and

(2) the health coverage participation requirements shall be deemed to be included as terms and conditions of such plan.

(b) PERIODIC INVESTIGATIONS TO DISCOVER NONCOMPLIANCE.—The Secretary shall regularly audit a representative sampling of employers and group health plans and conduct investigations and other activities under section 504 with respect to such sampling of plans so as to discover noncompliance with the health coverage participation requirements in connection with such plans. The Secretary shall communicate findings of noncompliance made by the Secretary under this subsection to the Secretary of the Treasury and the Health Choices Commissioner. The Secretary shall take such timely enforcement action as appropriate to achieve compliance.

(c) RECORDKEEPING.—To facilitate the audits described in subsection (b), the Secretary shall promulgate recordkeeping requirements for employers to account for both employees of the employer and individuals whom the employer has not treated as employees of the employer but with whom the employer, in the course of the trade or business in which the employer is engaged, has engaged for the performance of labor or services.

SEC. 803. HEALTH COVERAGE PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS.

For purposes of this part, the term “health coverage participation requirements” means the requirements of part 1 of subtitle B of title III of division A of America's Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009 (as in effect on the date of the enactment of such Act).

SEC. 804. RULES FOR APPLYING REQUIREMENTS.

(a) AFFILIATED GROUPS.—In the case of any employer which is part of a group of employers who are treated as a single employer under subsection (b), (c), (m), or (o) of section 414 of the Internal

(b) SEPARATE ELECTIONS.—Under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, separate elections may be made under section 801 with respect to—

- (1) separate lines of business, and
- (2) full-time employees and employees who are not full-time employees.

SEC. 805. TERMINATION OF ELECTION IN CASES OF SUBSTANTIAL NONCOMPLIANCE.

The Secretary may terminate the election of any employer under section 801 if the Secretary (in coordination with the Health Choices Commissioner) determines that such employer is in substantial non-compliance with the health coverage participation requirements and shall refer any such determination to the Secretary of the Treasury as appropriate.

SEC. 806. REGULATIONS.

The Secretary may promulgate such regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this part, in accordance with section 324(a) of the America’s Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009. MINORITY VIEWS

Introduction

Committee Republicans agree that health care reform legislation should make health care more affordable, improve quality, and reduce the number of uninsured Americans. As policymakers, we should be doing all that we can to make positive reforms to the health care system that would use private markets to lower the cost of health care insurance; improve affordability and accessibility for both employers and employees; give employers and employees the tools they need to encourage healthier behavior; change health care provider reimbursement structures to reward high-quality results; and address the long-term solvency of existing entitlement programs, like Medicare and Medicaid.

Considering that the majority of Americans obtain health insurance coverage through their employers, the employment-based system plays a central role in the delivery of health care. Recognizing the importance of employment-based health coverage, Committee Republicans have led efforts in recent years to lower the cost and increase the affordability of employment-based health coverage. Committee Republicans continue to support efforts to assist employers and employees in obtaining cost-effective, high quality coverage.

In assessing health care reform legislation, Committee Republicans bear in mind a number of important principles. Foremost, reform efforts should allow individuals who are satisfied with their current coverage to keep it, and give Americans the freedom to choose the health plans and medical providers that best fit their needs. Second, reforms should make quality health care coverage affordable and accessible for every American, regardless of pre-existing health conditions. Third, we must guard against a new government-run health care plan that would eliminate the health coverage that more than 100 million Americans currently receive through their job, or limit their choice of doctors and medical treatment options. Fourth, reform efforts must ensure that medical decisions are made by patients and doctors, not government bureaucrats. Finally, reforms must improve Americans' lives through effective prevention, wellness, and disease management programs, while developing new treatments and cures for life-threatening diseases.

Measured against these principles, H.R. 3200, as reported from the Committee on Education and Labor, wholly fails to meet the mark. For these reasons, and as set forth more fully below, Committee Republicans oppose the bill.

H.R. 3200, Procedural History

On the afternoon of Friday, June 19, 2009, House Democrats circulated the “TriCommittee Draft Proposal for Health Care Reform,” an 852-page health care plan crafted behind closed doors by the Democrat Chairmen of three House committees with jurisdiction over health care issues. The draft proposal was not formally introduced or assigned a legislative bill number. There were vast shortcomings and gaps in the draft proposal, including the lack of a cost estimate and the absence of several key provisions, including specific financing mechanisms. House Republicans were denied the opportunity to provide meaningful input on the “draft proposal,” and met for the first time with Committee Democrats only two days before the proposal was publicly circulated.

On Tuesday, June 23, 2009, the Committee on Education and Labor held a hearing on the draft proposal. Although Committee Republicans and invited witnesses provided valuable commentary, the short time frame for review and the significant gaps in the draft proposal hindered the ability to comprehensively analyze the Democrat health care reform plan prior to the hearing on June 23.

Thereafter, on July 14, 2009, House Democrat Leaders formally introduced their health care reform bill, H.R. 3200, the “America’s Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009.” The introduced bill totaled 1,017 pages (an increase of 165 pages) and contained numerous technical and substantive changes. No formal estimate of the cost of H.R. 3200 has been provided; rather, prior to the Committee’s consideration of the bill a “preliminary,” incomplete score of H.R. 3200 prepared by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) was provided. This “preliminary” analysis was not based on H.R. 3200, but rather on “technical specifications” of the June 19 TriCommittee draft proposal that were provided to CBO by House Democrats.

On the afternoon of July 15, 2009, the full Committee on Education and Labor commenced its markup of H.R. 3200 with Member opening statements. Late on that same afternoon, Committee Republicans were provided with the Chairman’s Amendment in the Nature of a Substitute, which totaled 1,040 pages (adding another 23 pages) and contained further substantive changes to H.R. 3200. Not one hearing was held on the Democrat-generated health care reform provisions of H.R. 3200, or on the Chairman’s Amendment in the Nature of a Substitute. On the morning of July 17, 2009, after consideration of 42 amendments, the Committee completed its consideration of H.R. 3200, and the bill was ordered favorably reported to the House of Representatives by a vote of 26–22. Three Democrats joined with all Committee Republicans in opposing the bill.

General Concerns Regarding H.R. 3200

Committee Republicans are concerned about the inexplicable rush to legislate on this important issue. The changes contemplated by H.R. 3200 will significantly impact more than one-sixth of the American economy, yet House Democrats drafted the partisan bill behind closed doors and without any meaningful participation by Republicans and even many Democrats. Committee Republicans have not been provided with an adequate amount of time to fully analyze the complex provisions of H.R. 3200. Further, we expect that the bill will change yet again following consideration by the three House Committees of jurisdiction, and prior to consideration by the full House, if it should occur. However, our review to date reveals numerous and significant policy concerns.

In general, Committee Republicans are concerned that H.R. 3200 fails to address the problems in the U.S. health care system, and in fact will only serve to exacerbate these problems through the adoption of misguided and historically ineffective policies. Moreover, the bill's true cost is unknown, but will likely be excessive. The cost will likely exceed $1.3 trillion over ten years, and the latest CBO estimate indicates that the bill will add more than $239 billion to the federal deficit over a ten-year period. More troubling is the fact that under H.R. 3200, the federal government starts collecting new taxes and revenues within a year or two of enactment, but implementation of many of the programs (i.e., the creation of a new federal bureaucracy and insurance coverage subsidies) is delayed, which artificially lowers the "cost" of the legislation under consideration by CBO. Further, in the later years of the CBO ten-year estimate, the costs of the program significantly outstrip new revenues, meaning the true costs of the Democrat legislation are much higher over the long term (i.e., beyond CBO's limited ten-year period). This is a cost the country cannot afford to bear.

The specific problems of the bill are numerous. For instance, Democrats attempt to pay for some of the cost through significantly higher taxes on individuals and businesses, with small business owners (those who create the majority of American jobs) appearing to shoulder a disproportionate share of the burden. It creates a massive new federal bureaucracy with unprecedented powers to determine "acceptable" health care coverage, and tax those who fail to comply with the bill's numerous legal mandates. The bill essentially eliminates current state-based private markets for health insurance. H.R. 3200 creates a "public health insurance option" (i.e., government-run health insurance plan) controlled by the new federal bureaucracy that is based on the flawed Medicare payment structure, and will undermine the private health insurance coverage currently enjoyed by millions of Americans. H.R. 3200 does little, if anything, to change the flawed health care delivery and payment structure, which is critical to control health care costs, increase affordability, and make coverage more accessible to Americans. The goal of H.R. 3200 appears to be nothing less than centralization of the country's health care sector in the federal government. It should be rejected.

Concerns Relating to ERISA Group Health Plans

The 1,040-page bill is divided into three separate Divisions: Division A, entitled "Affordable Health Care Choices"; Division B, "Medicare and Medicaid Improvements"; and Division C, "Public Health and Workforce Development". The Committee on Education and Labor maintains jurisdiction over much of Division A, and a portion of Division C. Considering this Committee's jurisdiction over the Employee Retirement Income and Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) and the provision of employer-sponsored group health coverage, this Committee's consideration of H.R. 3200 focused primarily on Division A.

Division A of H.R. 3200 contains several controversial Democrat proposals, including the establishment of a new federal bureaucracy which would be charged with defining “acceptable” health benefits, creating and regulating a new national health insurance exchange, distributing massive new federal subsidies for low and middle-income individuals to purchase “acceptable” health insurance through the exchange, and regulating the provision of insurance nationally. Also, Division A contains a provision creating a new government-run health insurance plan option, which would be a federally-created and administered government-run insurance plan based on Medicare, allegedly designed to “compete” with private insurance plans.

Democrats attempt to pay for this new bureaucracy through a number of new tax provisions that affect all Americans. For instance, H.R. 3200 institutes a new mandate on every individual to obtain “acceptable” coverage or pay a 2.5 percent tax. It creates a “pay or play” mandate on virtually all employers to provide “acceptable” insurance coverage or pay a new 8 percent payroll tax to the federal government. The introduced bill also provides some details left out of the June 19 Tri-Committee draft proposal, such as a provision exempting only the very smallest businesses, and new tax increases that are intended to pay for this massive new federal entitlement program. Many of the new taxes set forth in H.R. 3200 disproportionately impact small businesses and small business owners. Even so, Democrats’ attempt to pay for the cost of this legislation falls far short as the bill’s costs increase substantially over time and will likely result in at least a $239 billion increase in the federal deficit.¹ The overwhelming cost of the Democrat bill, and its bevy of new taxes, has raised significant concerns among many Americans. Committee Republicans believe that the bill creates a massive new federal bureaucracy and places significant new liabilities and tax burdens on all Americans and virtually all American employers, even those that are not profitable, which will likely have a negative impact on future economic growth.

Employer “Pay or Play” Mandate

Over 160 million people, or about 62 percent of the population under age 65, obtain health care insurance from their employers. Despite rising costs, this number has remained relatively consistent over the past decade, and most employees are happy with the coverage they receive from their employers. One of the primary reasons for the success of the employer-sponsored system is the ERISA-based regulatory structure that generally allows multi-state employers to voluntarily offer uniform health benefits to their employees, irrespective of location, by freeing the employer-sponsored plan from regulation by the states. Under the current ERISA structure, many employers gain administrative efficiencies and voluntarily design health plans tailored to the needs of their employees and families. This has permitted the private sector to develop innovative benefit designs and payment policies to control health care costs and improve quality.

As reported, H.R. 3200 imposes an unprecedented new tax on virtually all employers. Specifically, Title III, Subtitle B, “Employer Responsibility,” mandates that all employers offer “acceptable” coverage under a “qualified health benefits plan” to each of their employees, or pay an 8 percent payroll tax to the federal government.² The “acceptable” coverage will be designed and determined by the new Health Benefits Advisory Committee and the Health Choices Commissioner. Section 312 provides that for full-time employees, employers have to contribute at least 72.5 percent of the applicable premium of the lowest cost plan for individuals, and 65 percent of the applicable premium of the lowest cost plan for family coverage. The mandate is also extended to part-time employees, but the bill fails to specify who is a part-time employee and leaves it to the federal government to define this term and create new employer contribution rules for such employees. In a provision only trial lawyers could like, the bill subjects ERISA group health plans to state court lawsuits. Finally, under Section 321, employers will be subjected to fines of up to $500,000 in the event they are found to be in non-compliance with the Act’s onerous new mandates.

The new taxes on employers pose multiple problems, and have been the subject of much commentary from the representatives of those employers who will be directly impacted by the Democrats’ new tax plan. For example, in a letter dated July 9, 2009 to Chairman Miller and Ranking Member Kline, Steve Pfister, the Senior Vice President of the National Retail Federation stated:

Employer mandates of any kind amount to a tax on jobs. We can think of few more dangerous steps to take in the middle of a recession. We need to add new jobs, not exacerbate the near double-digit unemployment numbers. We cannot afford to have new and existing jobs priced out of our collective reach because of mandated health coverage.

In a July 15, 2009 general letter, Susan Eckerly, Senior Vice President of Public Policy for the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), stated that the NFIB, the nation’s leading small business advocacy organization, opposed H.R. 3200 because of the inclusion of an employer mandate. Ms. Eckerly stated, in part:

Research shows an employer mandate could cost 1.6 million jobs with more than 1 million of those jobs lost in the small business sector. The approach fails to increase affordability and, instead, devastates the economy—with the greatest impact being levied on the low-income community who will pay through depressed wages and lost jobs. . . . As if the mandate alone isn’t destructive enough, the legislation uses perhaps the most egregious penalty of all—a payroll tax—as the penalty for those who cannot meet the obligations laid out in the bill. A payroll tax is particularly regressive because employers pay it regardless of whether or not their business is profitable. . . . The legislation even punishes employers who are currently providing insurance to their employees, but don't meet the premium contribution requirements in the bill (72.5% for individuals and 65% for family plans).

In a letter dated July 15, 2009 to Chairman Miller and Ranking Member Kline, R. Bruce Josten, Executive Vice President, Government Affairs for the United States Chamber of Commerce, expressed opposition to the employer mandate. Mr. Josten stated:

the bill contains a job-killing employer mandate and accompanying 8 percent payroll tax. Attempts to carve out some small businesses will not prevent the adverse economic consequences of this provision.

The Majority claims that H.R. 3200 will save money and create new jobs. These assertions ignore the analysis of CBO which indicates that the pending legislation adds at least $239 billion to the federal deficit over ten years, with that number likely to grow substantially in the following decade. Further, CBO has not found that H.R. 3200 controls or reduces underlying systemic health care costs, which is essential to making care and coverage more affordable. Finally, as reflected in the comments above, the new taxes on all employers will slow economic growth and stunt new job creation, particularly among those employers who struggle to reach or maintain profitability.

Finally, some Committee and House Democrats have expressed serious reservations regarding the onerous requirements on employers. For example, in a letter dated July 9, 2009 from the fiscally conservative Blue Dog Coalition to Speaker Nancy Pelosi and Majority Leader Steny Hoyer, forty “Blue Dog” Democrats stated that “any additional requirements for employers must be carefully considered and done so within the context of what is currently offered. Small business owners and their employees lack coverage because of high and unstable costs—not because of an unwillingness to provide or purchase it. We cannot support a bill that further exacerbates the challenges faced by small businesses.”³

Committee Republicans believe that the employer “pay or play” mandate is simply flawed policy that will destroy the voluntary, employer-sponsored ERISA health benefits structure, limit future flexibility to design affordable health plans, increase costs and cause significant job losses, and depress wage growth, especially for low-income Americans. This mandate would be especially hard on smaller or mid-sized firms that may not be eligible for an exemption, and who may struggle to reach and maintain profitability.

³See, letter from “Democratic Blue Dog Coalition” to The Honorable Nancy Pelosi, Speaker, and The Honorable Steny Hoyer, Majority Leader, dated July 9, 2009. The letter, signed by forty Democrat Members of Congress, stated their belief that the tri-committee health care reform proposal “lacks a number of elements essential to preserving what works and fixing what is broken” in the health care system, and that legislation must include provisions to ensure deficit neutrality, delivery system reform, small business protections, rural health equity, and bipartisanship.

Further, the proposed tax penalty percentage (eight percent for most employers) could increase in the future at the whim of Congress, especially if the federal government needs additional revenues to cover shortfalls in this massive new entitlement program, potentially increasing the burdens on employers.

In addition, numerous structural components of the proposed mandate are problematic for employers and the current ERISA structure. In the fifth year of the exchange, employers whose workers choose coverage through an exchange will be forced to pay the eight percent tax to finance their workers' exchange policy, even if they provide coverage to their employees. This will certainly place increasing pressure on employer group health plans in the form of adverse risk selection, since employees could leave the group health plan for the exchange and shrink the size of the group plan's pool of participants. Many employers may simply choose to drop coverage and pay the tax, rather than administer and pay for an increasingly inefficient group health plan.

Further, under the Democrat bill, there is no way of knowing whether the coverage currently enjoyed by tens of millions of employees and their families, including health savings accounts used in conjunction with high deductible health plans (HSA/HDHP), will meet the future "acceptable" benefit and employer contribution requirements. For example, an HSA/HDHP individual plan with an actuarial value of 69 percent will not meet the requirements of this bill. Employers would have to change this benefit to comply with the new mandates, or the individual employee could face the individual tax for non-compliance.⁴ Also, employers who contribute less than the statutory amounts (72.5 percent and 65 percent for individual and family coverage, respectively) will have to change or be subjected to a new tax. This could cause some employers to drop coverage altogether.

Clearly, the employer "pay or play" provisions are designed to make it more difficult for employers to offer ERISA-based group health plan coverage, and direct more employees and their families to the new federal health insurance exchange and its government plan, Medicare-based, option. Contrary to Democrat political rhetoric, there is a substantial likelihood that employees who like their current coverage will not be able to keep it.

For these reasons, Committee Republicans object to the employer "pay or play" mandate in H.R. 3200.

Impact on ERISA Preemption and Remedies

Under current law, the ERISA regulatory structure preempts employers and group health plans from liability under state law. This has resulted in significant administrative savings and contributes to the ability of employers and group health plans to offer high quality, affordable health insurance coverage to more than 130 million Americans.

The Tri-Committee bill raises serious questions and concerns regarding the continued viability of the current ERISA regulatory structure, and whether H.R. 3200 exposes employers and group health plans to new liabilities for claim decisions. Under current law, group health plans are required to comply with the requirements of ERISA, and any disputes are governed and resolved under its provisions. This ensures that employers, who may provide health insurance coverage for workers in all 50 states, must comply with the federal law only, which permits the delivery of uniform benefits and saves administrative costs. They cannot be sued in state courts, under different laws.

The bill appears to change this by creating two different penalty regimes inside the new insurance exchanges; for group health plans and their beneficiaries, there would be varied and unlimited penalties set forth under 50 different state laws. To the extent that group health plans are permitted to purchase through the insurance exchanges, they will be subjected to potentially expansive new state court liabilities.

At the same time that they are subjecting private plans to a patchwork of state laws, Democrats chose to apply a uniform federal scheme similar to Medicare to the government-run health insurance plan. This would provide an unfair financial advantage to the government-run health plan since, unlike ERISA group health plans, the government-run plan would not have to face lawsuits and comply with up to 50 different sets of state laws.

Two groups appear to benefit from this proposed structure: trial lawyers and the government bureaucrats running the government-run health plan. Further, ERISA group health plans would face significant new liabilities and costs which would likely cause them to drop coverage altogether, accelerating the movement from private, employer-sponsored health insurance to a government-run plan.

For these reasons, Committee Republicans object to new liabilities imposed on ERISA employers and group health plans in H.R. 3200.

The New Federal Bureaucracy and the Government-Run Health Plan

Committee Republicans are concerned that H.R. 3200 creates a massive new federal health insurance bureaucracy, the "Health Choices Administration," that would create a "one-size-fits-all" standard for health coverage and vest unprecedented control with one individual, the new "Health Choices Commissioner." This new Commissioner would be charged with governing the national exchange, enforcing insurance plan standards, distributing taxpayer subsidies, and fining non-compliant individuals, plans and employers. This structure would restrict the sale of insurance outside of the exchange, and ultimately would eviscerate private insurance markets over time.

Under H.R. 3200, the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) will be charged with creating a public health insurance option that would only be available in a national health insurance exchange. Although the plan would have to comply with requirements on private, exchange-available plans, the exchange would have no power under the bill to reject, sanction or terminate the government option run by HHS. Further, the government plan would be subject to lawsuit only in federal courts; this differs substantially from private plans, including employer-sponsored group health plans currently regulated under the federal ERISA law, which would be subject to state court lawsuits (raising the costs for private plans).

With respect to government-plan funding, “start-up” funds in the amount of $2 billion in taxpayer money would be provided from the Treasury. Although the plan’s premium rates would be required to cover the cost of the benefits and administration, going forward there is no requirement that the government plan maintain a certain “reserve” level, similar to those required of state-based private insurance companies. This could give the government plan a potentially significant competitive advantage over private insurers.

Importantly, the government plan would be based on the failed Medicare payment structure. Specifically, the plan would pay Medicare rates for at least the first three years, with Medicare-participating physicians getting a five percent bonus for the first three years. The problems with this structure are numerous. First, Medicare pays on a fee-for-service basis, which rewards those providers that increase the volume of medical services, as opposed to those providers that limit utilization and provide high quality care. The Medicare reimbursement structure is historically inflexible when it comes to designing and implementing more innovative policies and reimbursement structures. Private innovations, like paying for health care provider performance, and the adoption of prevention and wellness programs, are exceedingly difficult to duplicate in the Medicare structure given that it is a government-administered program which is highly resistant to change.

Second, government health entitlement programs, like Medicare and Medicaid, routinely underpay health care providers, resulting in a cost-shift to private plans and private payers. This was confirmed in the testimony of a New Jersey hospital executive at a hearing before the Subcommittee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions in March 2009. Reliance on existing Medicare payment rates, with minor adjustments, will, according to an estimate by The Lewin Group, an independent consulting company, significantly underpay health care providers, compensating them at rates 20–30 percent below what private plans pay for the same services. Even if adjustments are made to lower the underpayment rates, by design, the government-run plan will underpay providers to reduce premium costs, in order to increase enrollment and crowd-out private insurers. This inherent cost advantage built into the government plan created by H.R. 3200 will result in a government plan with artificially low premiums, which will likely have a negative impact on health care quality.

These concerns were expressed in a letter from 13 health care providers and associations, including the Mayo Clinic, in a letter dated July 16, 2009 to Representative Ron Kind (D-WI). Specifically, these groups expressed concern that:

. . . a public plan option with rates based on Medicare rates will have a severe negative impact on our facilities. Today, many providers suffer great financial losses associated with treating Medicare patients. For example, several of the systems that have signed onto this letter lost hundreds of millions of dollars under Medicare last year.

These rates are making it increasingly difficult for us to continue to treat Medicare patients. The implementation of a public plan with similar rates will create a financial result that will be unsustainable for even the nation's most efficient, high quality providers, eventually driving them out of the market. In addition, should a public plan with inadequate rates be enacted, we will be forced to shift additional costs to private payers, which will ultimately lead to increased costs for employers who maintain insurance for their employees. We believe all Americans must have guaranteed portable health insurance, but it is critical that we not lose sight of the need to ensure adequate and equitable reimbursement.

The results of a government-run health insurance plan are undeniable. Although Democrats argue the purpose of the government plan is to increase competition, it will have the exact opposite effect. Considering that the government plan will possess certain advantages (discussed above) it will not, by design, compete fairly with private insurance and group health plans. Studies of the effect of a government plan option indicate that there will be movement from private insurance coverage to a government-run plan which would concentrate control of health care with the government, which already controls almost half of the country's health care spending. For example, CBO analyses provided to the Committee on July 14 and July 17 indicate movement of individuals from private coverage to the government plan. In a June 2009 study, The Lewin Group found that a government plan open to all, and based on Medicare-level reimbursement rates, would result in almost 114 million Americans losing their current private insurance coverage because of movement toward an artificially cheaper, benefit-rich government plan.⁵ Simply put, the availability of a government plan will create a cycle of increasing costs for those with private plans, forcing employers to drop coverage and pushing more workers into the government plan.

The new federal health care bureaucracy, with its myriad rules for private plans and government-run insurance option, will ultimately decrease the competitiveness of private insurance and group health plans, essentially resulting in a government takeover of the health care system. The government's track record on health care is not one to be duplicated; the Medicaid program does not pay for the full cost of medical care, is routinely underfunded, and places a substantial burden on states. The Democrat answer in H.R. 3200 is to increase Medicaid eligibility to 133 percent of the federal poverty level, which would exacerbate health care provider underpayments, create a new entitlement mentality, and substantially increase the federal government's Medicaid payments in perpetuity. Medicare underpays health care providers, is an outdated and inflexible benefit design, and has unfunded obligations totaling $37.8 trillion. The House Democrat answer is not to first fix Medicare but to create a new federal entitlement program for those under 65 based on Medicare, spend more than $1.3 trillion, and raise taxes on Americans. These policies do nothing to control existing health care costs, and only serve to worsen the nation's long-term fiscal outlook while removing decisions from the hands of doctors and patients and placing them in the hands of Washington bureaucrats.

Clearly, if Americans like their current coverage and the quality of their health care, it will be in jeopardy under the Democrats' plan as set forth in H.R. 3200.

Republican Alternative

Committee Republicans agree that the health care system is in dire need of reform and stand ready to work with Committee Democrats to forge a truly bipartisan compromise. However, Committee Republicans believe the policies contained in H.R. 3200, which seek to expand health care insurance coverage at great cost without first addressing and controlling underlying health care costs and provider shortages, are doomed to fail.

Republicans agree with Democrats that the problem of the uninsured must be addressed. The Majority notes that 47 million individuals are uninsured; however, this population is not homogenous. According to a report released by the Congressional Research Service on September 14, 2009, approximately 20 percent of the uninsured are non-citizens. Further, approximately 10 million more individuals may already be eligible for existing government insurance programs, but are not enrolled, and many millions more are young or voluntarily choose to go without coverage. Rather than creating a massive new federal entitlement program, Republicans believe underlying costs must be addressed in order to make coverage more affordable and accessible, with implementation of targeted approaches to address the specific characteristics of the uninsured population.

The first step to lower health care costs is to address overspending in the current system.⁶ To lower costs, Committee Republicans would consider: changes to the tax code to permit individuals to share some of the same advantages as those with employer-sponsored coverage; promote incentives to save for future health care costs; promote meaningful medical liability reforms to reduce costly and unnecessary defensive medicine practices; provide existing government programs with additional authority and resources to stop fraud and abuse; and permit small business to band together to offer health insurance at lower costs.

Republicans and Democrats agree that small businesses face unique and difficult challenges in securing affordable health insurance coverage. Yet the Democrat response to this challenge is to construct an elaborate new federal bureaucracy and entitlement program, with the imposition of massive new taxes, administrative requirements and penalties on all but the very smallest employers, Republicans have tirelessly advocated for targeted, less costly measures to address the specific problems confronting small businesses—small business, or association, health plans constitutes one such measure that can be enacted immediately and would permit small businesses to band together to pool their purchasing power and enjoy the same benefits as larger employers.

Additionally, Committee Republicans support policies that would provide employers with greater flexibility to promote prevention and wellness programs, and financially reward employees who seek to achieve or maintain a healthy weight, quit smoking, and better manage chronic diseases like diabetes. Changing payment structures to reward high quality care, rather than volume of medical services, and increasing care coordination, can also help control health care costs. Further, before creating another federal entitlement program and adding to the federal deficit, Committee Republicans believe it is necessary to address the long-term fiscal solvency of existing federal entitlement programs.

Committee Republicans would also seek to expand access by strengthening employer-sponsored coverage to millions of people who are already eligible, encourage states to create or modify programs to guarantee all Americans have access to affordable coverage regardless of pre-existing medical conditions, promote policies to increase portability of coverage regardless of employment status, and help employers offer coverage by reducing administrative costs through a small business tax credit.

In short, Committee Republicans support policies that promote individual behavior and responsibility for health care and coverage decisions, and maintain the doctor-patient relationship, while keeping the federal government out of the business of dictating health care coverage requirements or favoring a government-insurance model over private coverage. Committee Republicans remain willing to work with Democrats in developing a compromise bipartisan health care reform bill.

Republican Amendments

Committee Republicans offered twenty-six amendments during the Committee's consideration of H.R. 3200 on July 16 and 17. Republican amendments attempted to highlight significant concerns with H.R. 3200 and improve some of the more troubling provisions of the bill. In general, Committee Republicans offered solutions to the health care crisis, and expressed significant concerns regarding: the significant cost of H.R. 3200; the adverse impact on the economy, workers, families and small businesses; the government takeover of the health care system; the fact that under H.R. 3200 those who like their coverage won't be able to keep it; preservation of the doctor-patient relationship; and opposition to likely rationing of medical care under the Democrat proposal.

Specifically, Committee Republicans offered amendments intended to:

- Strike provisions creating the new "Health Choices Administration;"
- Strike provisions creating the national health insurance exchange;
- Strike the employer "pay or play" mandate;
- Strike the government-run insurance plan;
- Ensure that the coverage provided by ERISA group health plans, now and in the future, would be preserved under the plan;

- Ensure deficit neutrality;
- Suspend the bill where the national unemployment rate exceeded 8% in two consecutive months;
- Preserve the protective remedies of ERISA for ERISA-governed plans;
- Prevent mandated coverage of abortion services;
- Prohibit federal funding for abortion services under the bill;
- Prohibit any tax increase on American families with annual incomes under $250,000;
- Provide employers and employees with greater flexibility to promote prevention and wellness programs, which are proven to increase personal responsibility and lower health care costs;⁷
- Permit consumer-directed health plans to remain viable options;⁸ and
- Permit small businesses to pool together to purchase health insurance through Association Health Plans.

Each of these amendments was rejected, by and large on a party-line basis.

Although some amendments were adopted in an attempt to improve the legislation,⁹ many attempts to amend and improve a flawed bill were rejected. Committee Republicans are concerned that the bill remains fundamentally flawed; nevertheless, Committee Republicans continue to stand ready to work with Committee Democrats to draft and enact bipartisan health care reform legislation.

Conclusion

Committee Republicans support the voluntary, private health care system and meaningful reforms to that structure, while opposing measures that would serve to increase federal government control over the health care system. Committee Republicans are also committed to ensuring that the costs of health care reform efforts do not add to the federal deficit or result in higher taxes, which will have the effect of restricting American economic growth. The goal of controlling health care spending is not accomplished by adding more than $1.3 trillion in new spending to America's health care bill. While perhaps well-intentioned, H.R. 3200 is not an acceptable health care reform bill. For all of the foregoing reasons, ⁷Specifically, Republicans offered an amendment to permit employers to vary employees' health insurance premiums by up to 50 percent to encourage participation in health promotion and disease prevention programs. Current law already permits variations up to 20 percent. Employer-based prevention and wellness programs have a proven-track record of improving employee health and lowering health care expenses and insurance coverage premiums. See, Paul Speranza, Jr., Testimony before the Committee on Education and Labor, "The Tri-Committee Draft for Health Care Reform" (June 23, 2009) at 3-4. This amendment was voluntarily withdrawn in the hope that the Majority would work with Republicans to adopt this common-sense provision; Republicans continue to urge that this provision be included in any reform legislation.

⁸During this Committee's consideration of H.R. 3200, Republicans introduced an amendment to permanently grandfather consumer-directed health plans and arrangements, so that millions of individuals could continue to save for future health care needs and benefit from this coverage. The Majority rejected this amendment, which highlights the fact that if you like your current coverage, you will not be able to keep it under H.R. 3200.

⁹A limited number of amendments were adopted. For example, the Committee accepted language to exclude TRICARE (the Department of Defense's civilian healthcare program for active and retired military personnel) from the provisions of the bill; to express the sense of Congress that Members who vote for the bill enroll in the new government-run plan; to ensure non-discrimination for spiritual care; and to maintain the private right to contract for medical services.

SUPPLEMENTAL VIEWS OF THE HONORABLE TOM PRICE

Over the course of nearly a quarter century as a physician, I cared for thousands of patients. And caring for each and every one of them was a privilege. So when I left the practice of medicine to shape public policy and the health care delivery system of this nation, I did so clinging to a steadfast aspiration to achieve full access to affordable, quality health care for all Americans, while preserving the patient-doctor relationship without governmental interference.

Relying on my experiences as a physician, I can attest to how current federal laws and incentives retard access to health care and often put a bureaucrat in between a patient, his family, and their doctor. The tax code institutes a third-party health care model making it difficult for those to gain coverage outside of an employer or government entity. And the federal health care programs that do exist dictate to patients which doctors they may see and how frequently, and which procedures or tests doctors may or may not order or provide.

H.R. 3200, America's Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009, marks the latest attempt to fundamentally alter our health care financing and delivery structure. This measure, however, is a transformational piece of legislation intended to erode personal and private decision-making while further institutionalizing the very errors of current federal health care laws and programs. The end result will be a system built on penalties, mandates, rationing, and bureaucracy—all of which are fundamental threats to quality care. For example:

- Sec. 102 of H.R. 3200 grandfathers out health insurance coverage on the individual market. Issuers of existing coverage may not enroll new individuals, alter benefits and cost-sharing, and increase premiums. These plans will no longer be available.
- Sec. 123 of H.R. 3200 creates the Health Benefits Advisory Committee, a new panel to recommend covered benefit standards, including treatments, items and services, and cost-sharing. The Committee is comprised primarily of either political appointees or federal bureaucrats, and these are the folks who will be making these critical decisions.
- Sec. 141 of H.R. 3200 creates the Health Choices Administration, a new federal agency charged with establishing the Health Insurance Exchange. The Administration is the final arbitrator of what is a qualified health benefits plan (i.e. "acceptable") under the exchange and is charged with enforcement.
- Sec. 301 and Sec. 401 of H.R. 3200 impose a "personal responsibility" on every American to obtain "acceptable" health insurance coverage or face a tax of 2.5 percent on gross income.
- Sec. 313 and Sec. 412 of H.R. 3200 impose a tax of eight percent of average wages paid on employers. Providing health care to employees is no longer a voluntary benefit and only the smallest businesses are exempt.

- Sec. 221 of H.R. 3200 creates a public health insurance option, available through the Health Insurance Exchange, to “compete” against privately run health insurance coverage. Independent analysis by both the Congressional Budget Office and the Lewin Group has concluded that millions of Americans would lose their existing coverage as a result of this government-run plan.

Certainly, the status quo is unacceptable. Yet, a true health care reform package empowers patients first; it builds on what is working and fixes what is flawed without disrupting or destroying quality care; it does not ingrain what is broken and scraps what works.

Before consideration of H.R. 3200, a bipartisan, fundamental rethinking of this nation’s health care delivery system could have been possible if reform focused on a patient-centered approach and championed personal ownership and coverage over government control. Further, any effort needed to embrace the same health care principles most Americans embrace: accessibility, affordability, choices, innovation, quality and responsiveness.

As the leader of a group of conservative Republicans in the House of Representatives faithfully committed to these principles and the implementation of reform, I introduced H.R. 3400, the Empowering Patients First Act. It represents the possibility of a new patient-centered era in American health care without putting the government in charge.

For starters, the measure ensures all Americans have access to affordable coverage through a series of tax credits, deductions, and tax equity. It makes it feasible for individuals to pick any health care plan, not just what is offered by the government or at work, meaning that no matter who is paying the bill, patients own and control their own health plan. This puts Americans in a position whereby insurance companies are responsive to them rather than a third-party.

There is portability to maintain coverage if someone changes jobs or moves across state lines. To establish a viable marketplace, barriers are knocked down so coverage can be purchased across state lines.

And since one cannot be serious about reform without addressing the medical liability crisis, the Empowering Patients First Act provides for the creation of specialized health care courts relying on the expertise of medical specialty societies to relieve upward pressure on medical costs.

This same commitment to principles and reform by dedicated Republicans inspired my personal efforts during the mark up of the America’s Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009 before the Committee on Education and Labor. Yet every attempt to offer common sense amendments was defeated by Committee Democrats on near party line votes. For example:

- An amendment to ensure current coverage provided by employer-sponsored group plans would be considered a qualified health benefits plan. Rejecting the amendment flies in the face of “If you like what you have, you can keep it,” and restricts access to existing, affordable plans. (Amendment #11, defeated 18–29).

- An amendment to permit states a waiver out of Division A of the Act, which contains the new health care bureaucracies, the individual and employer mandates, and the public health insurance option. Various states have already taken innovative steps to adopt comprehensive health care reform. (Amendment #29, defeated 19–28)

- An amendment to enable employers to contribute to a worker's account and permit that worker to purchase insurance coverage of his choice. (Amendment #40, defeated 19–29)

- An amendment to eliminate the “tiered” payment structure for “preferred” and “non-preferred” physicians who participate in the public health insurance option. Without it, the existing provision forces health care providers to accept payments mandated by the federal government which are well below the actual cost and would likely result in the deterioration of quality care. (Amendment #41, defeated 19–29)

In the end, the America's Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009 rejects the health care principles most Americans embrace and embodies the go-it-alone attitude that House Democrats embarked on from the beginning. House Republicans were never consulted or brought into the process. In fact, more than 70 percent of amendments offered by Republicans for final consideration in the markup of the Committee on Education and Labor were defeated on near party line votes.

It is why the end product is so terribly flawed and, if adopted, Congress will end up revisiting soon thereafter to correct many of its faults. It is with the sentiments outlined here that I oppose this legislation, and ask all House Republicans to do the same.

“(e) FEDERAL PELL GRANT AND DEGREE RECIPIENT AMOUNT.—For purposes of subsection (b)(1)(C), the Secretary shall determine the Federal Pell Grant and degree recipient amount for each participating institution for each award year, by calculating for each such institution the ratio of—

III. SUMMARY OF THE BILL

PURPOSE

The purpose of H.R. 3221, the Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 2009, is to provide for reconciliation pursuant to S. Con. Res. 13, the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2010, to invest in students and families; increase college access and completion rates; invest in elementary and secondary school and community college modernization, renovation and repair projects; and invest early learning.

Increased funding for Pell grant scholarships

The Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 2009 will provide mandatory funds to reach the President's goal of a maximum Pell Grant award of $5,550 in 2010. In future years, the maximum award would automatically increase by an amount equivalent to the Consumer Price Index (CPI) plus 1%. At this rate, the Pell maximum is estimated to increase to $6,900 by 2019. This legislation will build on the mandatory investment in Pell enacted as in the College Cost Reduction and Access Act of 2007 and set the maximum awards on an increasing trajectory.

Increasing College Access and Completion

In addition to increasing funding for Pell Grant scholarships, this legislation establishes the College Access & Completion Innovation Fund. The purpose of this fund is to: (a) continue college access activities that are currently funded through College Access Challenge Grant (or Section 781 of the Higher Education Act of 1965) and from student loan proceeds to state agencies and nonprofit organizations; (b) promote state higher education planning, innovation, and systems of data and accountability; (c) support innovation through national activities to expand college access and increase degrees and certificate completion rates; and (d) conduct rigorous evaluation of the funded programs.

Additionally, the Fund will provide competitive grants to States to establish programs that increase financial literacy and encourage college completion. Funding under this program can be used to develop state-wide access and completion plans and statewide data systems. Priority will be given to States partnering with philanthropic organizations or state and non-profit guaranty agencies to carry out grant activities. Additionally, 1/3 of the state funds must be used for activities that benefit students enrolled at junior or community colleges, two-year public institutions, or two-year programs of instruction at four-year public institutions.

The Access and Completion Innovation Fund would also provide funding directly from the Secretary to institutions and organizations working toward closing gaps in attainment and completion, as well as provide the opportunity to develop two-year programs providing supplemental financial aid in a way that would improve student outcomes while not reducing other available aid. Priorities for these grants will go towards entities or consortia with proven experience in serving populations traditionally underrepresented in higher education or those that have this goal as a primary purpose, to those public institutions that do not predominantly award bachelor's degrees, and to those that include activities aimed at increasing STEM degree or certificate production. Also, the Secretary shall give priority to partnerships between institutions with high-degree production rates and those with low-degree production rates, in order to facilitate the transfer of best practices for increasing completion.

Each entity receiving a grant under this section will be required to provide an annual report assessing their measurable progress in reaching the completion goals outlined in their initial grant plan submitted to the Secretary. The Secretary may also require additional evaluation standards as he determines are necessary. Furthermore, the Director of the Institute for Education Sciences will conduct a rigorous evaluation of all projects funded under this section in order to learn from these innovation projects in a tangible way that is useful for all entities engaged in this work.

Investing in Historically Black Colleges and Universities and Minority-Serving Institutions

H.R. 3221 invests in Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), Hispanic Serving Institutions (HSIs), Predominately Black Institutions (PBIs), Tribal Colleges and Universities (TCUs), Alaska Native and Native Hawaiian Institutions, institutions serving Asian American and Pacific Islanders and Native American non tribal serving institutions to ensure that students attending these institutions will not only enter college, but remain and graduate.

Student financial aid form simplification

This legislation further simplifies the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by reducing the number of questions that a family must answer to determine a student's financial aid eligibility. H.R. 3221 builds on the important work of the Congress in the Higher Education Opportunity Act, Pub.L. No. 110-315, by taking FAFSA simplification to the next important step: eliminating from the needs analysis the financial data not available from the applicant's tax form. The goal of FAFSA simplification is to make it possible to complete the financial aid application with nothing more than a copy of IRS Form 1040 or through importing data from the IRS. Under this legislation, the only applicants who would need to provide additional financial information are those who choose to do so to reduce their reported income in certain circumstances.

H.R. 3221 would allow the Department to replace the six current asset questions with a single "yes/no" question that most applicants will be able to answer easily. Additionally, H.R. 3221 eliminates several items that applicants are asked to add to their income, such as child support payments received, military and clergy living allowances, and untaxed disability support. The only items remaining that are not on the tax form are items that applicants are allowed to subtract from their incomes. These include combat pay, child support payments made, and scholarship aid that had been included as income on the tax form.

Stafford loan reform

This legislation will move all institutions of higher education in the country to the Direct Lending program by 2010, saving the federal government and taxpayers $87 billion dollars over the next 10 years. These savings will be used to reinvest in expanding educational opportunities for students and families and paying down the federal deficit. While the legislation directs the government to originate all student loans, it also ensures that there is a role for private industry in providing loan servicing. Moreover, it will ensure that State and local non-profit agencies, that meet quality and pricing standards, will participate in servicing through a minimum volume allocation of the loans of 100,000 borrowers. These reforms mean that student borrowers will have a reliable stream of funding to finance their college education, and can rely on quality loan servicing during repayment.

Student loan interest rates

This legislation will make interest rates on subsidized student loans for undergraduate borrowers variable with a cap of 6.8 percent, beginning in 2012. The variable interest rate will be based on the 91-day T-bill plus 2.5 percent. This change will continue Congress's investment in keeping interest rates low for needy students and families by ensuring that students and families benefit from low market interest rates and protecting them during periods of high market interest rates. At current CBO estimates for interest rates on the 91-day T-bill, the interest rate for federal subsidized Stafford loans would be 6.3 percent through 2015.

Revised special allowance calculation on existing federal loans

Under current law, the government pays private sector lenders a subsidy known as the Special Allowance Payment (SAP), which is calculated based on a lender's cost of borrowing money. The index used as a proxy for the lender's cost of money is the 90-Day Commercial Paper rate (CP), which Congress intended to serve as a market-based measure. Credit market dislocations and the Federal Reserve's intervention in the capital markets has had a significant and unintended effect on CP rates. This title provides lenders the option of having their SAP payments calculated based on the 1-Month LIBOR rate, rather than the 90-Day Commercial Paper rate. Such a change will provide lenders with greater predictability in the underlying index, as well as ensure that the index reflects a market-based rate as Congress had intended.

Perkins reform

H.R. 3221 reforms the Perkins loan program by providing participating schools an allotment of lending authority to make Perkins loans to students on their campuses. The funding for loans will be provided through the Direct Loan program, rather than through revolving loan funds at each school. This legislation maintains key features of the current Perkins program, including the discretion afforded financial aid officers in targeting Perkins loans to financially-needy students. It will greatly increase the number of campuses participating in the program and ensure that students' loans will retain the current interest rate of 5 percent. Six billion dollars in lending authority will be allocated to schools that wish to participate in the new Perkins Program: half of the funds will be allocated to institutions based on the unmet financial need among an institution's students, while the other half will be allocated to institutions based on the extent to which institutions provide low tuition or high levels of non-Federal aid, as well as on the number of Pell grant recipients that graduate from the institution. As current Perkins Loan borrowers repay their loans, schools would remit the Federal share of those payments to the Department of Education. Schools would retain their own share of the revolving funds, as well as amounts sufficient to cover the costs of the various Perkins Loan forgiveness provisions.

Modernization, renovation, and repair of elementary and secondary education public school facilities

This legislation provides $4.1 billion to elementary and secondary schools over the next two fiscal years for modernization, renovation, and repair projects that create healthier, safer, and more energy-efficient teaching and learning climates. Title III, chapter 1 of H.R. 3221 appropriates $2.02 billion for fiscal years 2010 and 2011 for school facilities. The bill ensures that school districts around the country will receive funds for much needed public school modernization, renovation, and repair projects to improve the teaching and learning climate, student and staff health, and safety, energy efficiency, and the environment. The bill directs the Secretary to reserve two percent of funds appropriated for chapter 1 for each fiscal year for assistance to the outlying areas and for payments to the Secretary of the Interior for assistance to Bureau-funded schools. The bill further directs the Secretary to reserve five percent of funds appropriated for chapter 1 for each fiscal year for assistance to local educational agencies serving geographic areas with significant economic distress and those recovering from a natural disaster.

H.R. 3221 allocates to each State the same percentage of funds that the State receives under Title I, Part A of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and allocates within States the same percentage to each school district that the school district receives under such part (except that no such school district will receive less than $5,000).

The bill allows States to reserve one percent of their chapter 1 allocation for technical assistance and to develop a plan to create an online, publicly searchable statewide database of public school facility design, condition, modernization, renovation and repair needs, usage, utilization, energy use, and carbon footprint, and create voluntary guidelines for high-performing public school buildings.

Funds under chapter 1 may be used for public school modernization, renovation, and repair, including repair to roofs, electrical, plumbing, sewage, stormwater runoff and lighting systems, heating, ventilation, and air-conditioning systems, windows, floors, ceilings, doors, including insulation and indoor air quality assessments. Funds may also be used to bring schools into compliance with fire, health, seismic and safety codes, including modernizations, renovations, and repairs that ensure that schools are prepared for emergencies. Funds may be used to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Additional uses include abatement, removal, or interim controls of asbestos, polychlorinated biphenyls, mold, or mildew; reduction of human exposure to lead-based hazards; reduction of classroom noise and environmental noise pollution; modernization, renovation, or repair to reduce the consumption of coal, electricity, land, natural gas, oil, or water; upgrading or installing educational technology infrastructure; modernization, renovation, or repairs of laboratory facilities, libraries, and career and technical education facilities; renewable energy generation and energy audits; other modernizations, renovations, or repairs that improve the teaching and learning climate, ensure the health and safety of students and staff, or make schools more energy efficient; or reduce class size; and required environmental remediation related to modernizations, renovations, or repairs described above.

H.R. 3221 requires that funds be used for projects that meet one of four widely recognized green standards (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Green Building Rating System, Energy Star, Collaborative for High Performance Schools, or Green Globes) or an equivalent State or local standard, which must include a verifiable method to demonstrate compliance. School districts must use the green requirement for a percentage of the funds (fifty percent in 2010 and seventy-five percent in 2011) for projects that meet one of the green standards described above.

In chapter 2, the bill provides $30 million for each of fiscal years 2010 and 2011 for public schools in the Gulf region in response to damages from Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita. These funds are to be used for the same purposes as chapter 1 funds, but also may be used for new construction.

The bill includes provisions to require local educational agencies to ensure that the bid process for any projects carried out through a contract ensures the maximum number of qualified bidders, including local, small, minority, women- and veteran-owned businesses, through full and open competition. Also, Davis-Bacon labor law protections apply to all funds received under this subtitle.

The bill requires school districts to report publicly on educational, energy, and environmental benefits of projects, compliance with the green requirement, and the percentage of funds used for projects at low-income, charter and rural schools. States must compile these reports and submit them to the Secretary who shall, in turn, report to the House Committee on Education and Labor and the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

The legislation requires the Secretary of Education, in consultation with the Secretary of Energy and Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, to disseminate best practices in school modernization, renovation, repair and construction of school facilities and to provide technical assistance to States and school districts concerning such best practices.

The bill encourages the Secretary of Education, in consultation with the Secretary of Labor, to promote appropriate opportunities for participants in YouthBuild, Job Corps, junior or community college degree, or pre-apprenticeship programs.

H.R. 3221 establishes the Advisory Council on Green, High-Performing Public School Facilities to advise the Secretary on the impact of green, high-performing schools on teaching and learning, health, energy costs, environmental impact, and other areas. Finally, the bill allows local educational agencies to encourage schools where modernization, renovation, or repair projects are undertaken to educate students about the project, including, as appropriate, the functioning of the project and its environmental, energy, sustainability, and other benefits.

Community college modernization and construction

This legislation will authorize the Secretary to award grants to States to leverage and provide funds for the construction of new community college facilities, and the modernization, renovation, and repair of existing community college facilities necessary to improve instruction and better meet employer needs. Federal funds may be used to reduce the financing costs of construction projects (such as through the purchase of bond insurance or buying down interest rates on loans), providing matching funds to attract private donations of funds as part of a capital fundraising campaign, or capitalizing a revolving loan fund that a state could use, in turn, to make loans to community colleges to finance new construction or modernization projects. The legislation ensures that funding is used for facilities that are primarily used for instruction, research, or student housing and requires half of the funds be used for projects that meet green building standards.

Early Learning Challenge Fund

The purpose of Title IV of H.R. 3221 is to fund competitive grants to states that will leverage standards reform and fund quality initiatives that will increase the number of disadvantaged children in high quality early learning programs and ensure more children reach kindergarten with the skills they need to succeed in school and in life.

Funds are reserved for the joint administration of this title by the Secretary of Education and the Secretary of Health and Human Services. The Secretary of Education shall bear responsibility for obligating and disbursing funds and ensuring compliance with applicable law and administrative requirements, subject to an inter-agency agreement set forth by the secretaries that shall make clear the specific nature of this joint administration.

This legislation provides $1 billion in each fiscal year from 2010 through 2017 for the Early Learning Challenge Fund. Up to 2 percent is reserved for Federal administration of the Fund and up to 3 percent is reserved for the national research activities described in section 405. One-quarter of one percent is reserved for a competitive grant program for Indian tribes to develop and implement school readiness plans. Of the remainder, the Secretary shall reserve up to 65% for Quality Pathway Grants in fiscal years 2010 through 2012, and the Secretary shall reserve up to 85 percent for Quality Pathway Grants in subsequent fiscal years. The remainder shall be allocated for Development Grants. For fiscal year 2013 and subsequent fiscal years, the Secretary has discretion to reallocate funds allocated for Development Grants to Quality Pathway Grants if needed based on the number and quality of applicants. Aggregate expenditures by the State and its political subdivisions on early learning programs and services may not be less than the level of expenditures for such programs and services for fiscal year 2006.

Quality Pathways Grants

In awarding grants, the Secretary shall give priority to States that will use some or all of the funds allocated to them under the quality set-aside of the Child Care and Development Block Grant for the activities described in this Title. Priority is also provided for States that will commit to dedicating significant increases in coming years in State expenditures on early learning programs and services and to states that demonstrate efforts to build public-private partnerships that are designed to accomplish the purposes of this title.

To be considered for a Quality Pathways Grant a State must submit an application to the Secretary that includes specific criteria. Among these criteria includes a description of the goals and benchmarks, including a baseline, the State will establish to lead to a greater percentage of disadvantaged children participating in higher quality early learning programs. In addition, States must include a description of how their system of early learning programs and services will include the following key components: not later than 12 months after receiving notice of an award of a grant, early learning and development standards that are developmentally appropriate for children birth through age 5, and include social, emotional, cognitive, and psychical development, and approaches to learning; a process to ensure State early learning and development standards are integrated into the instructional and programmatic practices of early learning programs and services; a program rating system; an oversight system for the program rating system; a process to support early learning programs integrating instructional and programmatic practices that include ongoing classroom based instructional assessments and are aligned with the curricula and early learning and development standards; a comprehensive plan for professional development of an effective and well-compensated early learning workforce; outreach strategy to parents and families;

a coordinated system to facilitate screening, referral, and provision of services related to health, mental health, disability, and family support; a process for evaluating school readiness in children used to guide practice and improve programs, and a coordinated data infrastructure.

The Secretary shall evaluate applications for Quality Pathways Grants based on the quality of the application, the priority factors, evidence of significant progress in establishing a system of early learning that includes the described key components, and the State's capacity to fully implement such a system.

States awarded a Quality Pathways Grant must use at least 65 percent of the grant for two or more of the following activities in order to improve the quality of early learning programs serving disadvantaged children: initiatives that improve the credentials and compensation of early learning providers; initiatives that help early learning programs meet and sustain higher program quality standards; implementing classroom observation assessments and data-driven decisions tied to activities that improve programmatic practices; financial incentives to early learning programs for undertaking and maintaining quality improvements; integrating State early learning and development standards into instructional and programmatic practices; providing high quality, sustained, intensive, and classroom-focused professional development; building the capacity of early learning programs and communities to promote the understanding by parents and families of their children's learning and development and of the State's early learning system; building the capacity of early learning programs and communities to facilitate screening, referral, and provision of services related to health, mental health, disability, and family support; and other innovative activities approved in advance by the Secretary. The remainder of the grant may be used for one or more of the following: implementation or enhancement of the state's data system; enhancement of the state's oversight system; and development and implementation of measures of school readiness that inform the quality improvement process. States must use the grant such that they prioritize improving the quality of early learning programs serving children from low-income families.

A State awarded a Quality Pathways Grants that has made sufficient progress implementing the requirements of the grant, may apply to the Secretary to reserve up to 25 percent of the grant to directly expand access for children from low-income families to the highest quality early learning programs that offer full-day services. States must contribute a 20 percent match for these funds, one half of which may be provided by a private entity. The Secretary may waive or reduce the State match if the State demonstrates a need due to extreme financial hardship.

States awarded a Quality Pathways Grant must contribute matching funds in the amount of 10 percent in each of the first two fiscal years, 15 percent in the third fiscal year, and 20 percent in subsequent fiscal years. Private contributions made as part of a public-private partnership designed to increase the number of low-income children in high-quality programs may be considered in meeting the state match. In addition, in-kind contributions for the acquisition, construction, or improvement of early learning program facilities serving disadvantaged children may be used to satisfy the State match. The Secretary may waive or reduce the State match if the State demonstrates a need due to extreme financial hardship.

Development Grants

To be considered for a Development Grant, a State must submit an application that designates a State-level entity for administration of the grant, coordinate proposed activities with the State Advisory Council on Early Childhood Education and Care (created under the Head Start Act), and provide other information as required by the Secretary. Grants shall be awarded on a competitive basis to States that demonstrate a commitment to establishing a system of early learning that will include the key component described in the legislation. A State may receive a Development Grant for 3 years but the grant is not renewable.

The Secretary shall give priority to States who will use some or all of the funds allocated to them under the quality set-aside of the Child Care and Development Block Grant for the activities described in this Title. Priority is also given to states that will commit to dedicating significant increases in coming years in State expenditures on early learning programs and services and to states that demonstrate efforts to build public-private partnerships that are designed to accomplish the purposes of this title. States receiving a Development Grant shall use the award to undertake activities to develop the early learning system components described in the legislation and that will allow a State to become eligible and competitive for a Quality Pathways Grant. States must use the grant such that they prioritize improving the quality of early learning programs serving children from low-income families.

States awarded a Development Grant must contribute matching funds in the amount of 20 percent in the first fiscal year, 25 percent in the second fiscal year, and 30 percent in the third. Private contributions made as part of a public-private partnership designed to increase the number of low-income children in high-quality programs may be considered in meeting the state match. In addition, in-kind contributions for the acquisition, construction, or improvement of early learning program facilities serving disadvantaged children may be used to satisfy the State match. The Secretary may waive or reduce the State match if the State demonstrates a need due to extreme financial hardship.

Research and evaluation

The Secretary of Education and the Secretary of Health and Human Services are required to carry out four research and evaluation activities: (1) establish a national commission to review early learning program quality standards and early learning and development standards and recommend benchmarks within 2 years; (2) conduct a national evaluation of the grants made under this title; (3) support a research collaborative that supports research on early learning and informs improved child outcomes; and (4) review the strategic reports of the State Advisory Councils on Early Care and Education and report and disseminate on barriers to improving access to high quality early learning programs.

Reporting requirements

The legislation requires the Secretary to provide annual reports to the Committee on Education and Labor of the U.S. House of Representatives and the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee of the Senate regarding the activities carried out under this title. The legislation also requires States receiving grants under this Title to submit annual reports to the Secretary on the activities carried out by the State and includes a list of information that must be included in the reports.

Prohibitions and special rules

This legislation clarifies that all references to early learning programs in the Title reflect voluntary participation by a child in an early learning program. No provision may be construed to be requiring mandatory participation by a child in an early learning program. It additionally clarifies that no provision in this Title should be construed to deny entry to kindergarten for a child who is legally eligible as defined by State or local law. The legislation also includes rules regarding how funds provided under this Title may be used for assessment and evaluation.

Leading the world in graduation by 2020 through investing in community college education and workforce training

This legislation establishes the Community College Challenge Grant Program, which was recently proposed by President Obama. The legislation authorizes grants to support innovative pilot programs and policies that will increase the number of associate degree, certificate, and industry-recognized credentials, including activities that promote the transfer of credits from 2-year to 4-year institutions.

The first phase of the program will provide competitive grants to institutions and states proposing to implement comprehensive reforms within the community college system to promote job readiness, academic success and degree completion, and strengthen ties to employers. This will facilitate access to and enable success in community colleges, especially for adult learners seeking to build the skills needed to secure a good job in a high-growth sector of the economy.

The second phase of the program will look to states to draw on lessons learned from the first phase and to systematize and sustain the reforms in the community colleges in their states. In order to compete for these reform dollars, states must have an education plan to increase persistence and completion of postsecondary education as well as a statewide longitudinal data system that includes all segments of education, including community colleges.

Online courses provide flexibility important to students and workers who may juggle multiple commitments, including family and work or those who live in rural areas without access to traditional systems of higher education. This legislation provides competitive grants to develop high quality, rigorously evaluated, open web-based high school and college-level courses, which would be available for free, on an open-source basis, to students, teachers, schools, and companies to help students gain knowledge, skills, and credentials.

H.R. 3221 provides grants to States for the development of common data systems to help students, institutions, and states make well-informed decisions to achieve their educational and employment goals.

Privacy provision

This legislation includes a privacy provision that limits the use of information in the statewide data systems to use by governmental agencies in the state and for those education and workforce activities authorized by this bill or otherwise permitted by federal or state law.

IV. COMMITTEE VIEWS

The Committee believes that H.R. 3221, The Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act represents a historic investment in higher education and expands high-quality educational opportunities to all Americans. This legislation will give the Congress the opportunity to create the kind of country and the kind of future that we all envision for our children.

In his first address to Congress on February 24, 2009, President Obama set a laudable goal for this nation, by saying:

. . . And so tonight, I ask every American to commit to at least one year or more of higher education or career training. This can be community college or a four-year school; vocational training or an apprenticeship. But whatever the training may be, every American will need to get more than a high school diploma. And dropping out of high school is no longer an option. It's not just quitting on yourself, it's quitting on your country—and this country needs and values the talents of every American. That is why we will provide the support necessary for you to complete college and meet a new goal: by 2020, America will once again have the highest proportion of college graduates in the world.²

The Committee agrees, and H.R. 3221 will help us reach this goal by making college more affordable and accessible.

The Committee believes that this legislation makes critical investments in our nation's postsecondary education students. It will invest in the Pell Grant scholarship award, simplify the FAFSA form to make it easier to apply for federal student aid, and build on the Congress' efforts to make interest rates on loans affordable. Further, the legislation will provide more students with access to low-cost Perkins loans by expanding the program to many more campuses and strengthen minority-serving institutions and programs that will help retain and graduate students.

Further, the legislation makes an unprecedented $10 billion investment in our community colleges. The Committee believes that our nation's community colleges are essential to driving economic recovery and that they provide an important low-cost option for postsecondary education for many individuals. This legislation will address our nation's economic crisis by ensuring that there is adequate support and training to build a 21st century workforce by strengthening partnerships among community colleges, businesses and job training programs that will align community college curricula with the needs of high-wage, high-demand industries.

H.R. 3221 will also ensure that every student can learn in a safe, energy-efficient and modern environment by renovating and repairing our nation's schools—a measure that this Committee and the House have already supported.

The legislation provides important investments in our children by providing $1 billion per year to help ensure that the next generation of children can enter kindergarten with the skills they need to succeed in school. It will transform early learning programs and improve the school readiness outcomes of children by insisting upon real change in state standards and practices. And, it will support states that are ready to expect more from their early learning programs than just basic health and safety and are looking to undertake major reform and demand results. It will build an effective and well-compensated early childhood workforce, integrate key quality standards, improve instructional practices, and better support parents in the early education of their children.

The Committee believes that these important reforms should be paid for without increasing our nation's deficit. This legislation is completely paid for by making necessary changes to the federal student loan programs. The Committee strongly believes that the reforms in this legislation will result in a stronger, more reliable, and more efficient student loan system. H.R. 3221 proposes to convert all new federal student loans to the Direct Loan program starting in July 2010. Students will have access to the low-cost loans they need, in any economy. H.R. 3221 will also upgrade the customer service borrowers receive when repaying their loans. Rather than force private industry out of the system, the legislation will maintain jobs and a role for lenders and non-profits by allowing them to compete for contracts to service these loans. This simple change will save $87 billion over the next ten years.

Finally, as part of the Committee's efforts to secure a stronger future for our children and the country they will inherit, this legislation will direct $10 billion of these savings to pay down the country's deficit.

INVESTING IN STUDENTS AND FAMILIES

Significantly increasing the pell grant award

The Committee believes boosting the nation's investment in the Pell Grant program is essential to ensuring access and making college more affordable for students and families. Since its inception in 1972, the Pell Grant scholarship has opened the door to postsecondary education for millions of low- and moderate-income students. However, over the last several years, the purchasing power of the Pell Grant has declined. Today, the maximum Pell Grant covers only one third of the average price of attendance at a public four-year institution compared to more than two-thirds in 1980.

In the last three years, the Congress has renewed its commitment to the purchasing power of the Pell Grant award. Both this Committee and the Committee on Appropriations have made significant investments in increasing the maximum award; increasing the award by 32 percent since 2006.

The Committee believes that a continued investment in the Pell program is paramount to ensuring that all students who choose to attend postsecondary education, regardless of income, are able to pursue their academic goals. This legislation builds on the recent investments by ensuring that the maximum Pell grant award continues to increase with the cost of living and setting increases in the maximum award to the Consumer Price Index plus 1 percentage point. Under this bill, the maximum award is estimated to rise from $5,350 in the 2010–2011 academic year to $6,900 in the 2019–2020 academic year.

This change will not only dramatically increase the maximum Pell award, but will put the Pell grant on a trajectory that students and families can count on. The Committee believes that Federal programs should ensure that students and families can begin to plan for college, including how to pay for college costs, years before entering into college. By indexing the maximum award to the cost of living, students and families will be able to project an estimated Pell grant award years prior to entering college- and important planning tool.

Finally, this investment will not only ensure that eligible students receive a higher grant award, but that more students will be eligible for the grant. Coupled with recent changes in the needs analysis formula passed by the Congress in the College Cost Reduction and Access Act and the Higher Education Opportunity Act, the increased award provided for in this legislation will ensure that more students will have access to postsecondary education.

Increasing postsecondary access and completion

The United States has long been a global leader in postsecondary education, but recently our advantage has slipped. According to the OECD, while the U.S. ranks 7th in terms of the percentage of 18–24 year olds enrolled in college, we rank 15th in terms of the number of certificates and degrees awarded. Further, only about half of all college students graduate within six years; for low-income students, the completion rate is closer to 25 percent. These facts are especially troubling considering the economic returns of having a college education have increased dramatically over the last 30 years. In 1973, a college graduate with no further schooling earned 46 percent more per hour than a high school graduate. In 2007, the differential was 77 percent. According to a recent report by the Council of Economic Advisors, the jobs of tomorrow will require at least some postsecondary training. The Committee believes that there is a great need to prepare, encourage, and support our nation's students in their pursuit of a higher education to ensure that they not only have the access to postsecondary education, but that they enroll in and complete their programs of study.

The Committee believes that states, institutions of higher education, non-profit philanthropic organizations, and other organizations with experience in college access and completion are critical partners in ensuring that students have access to high-quality and affordable higher education and that they succeed and complete their education. This legislation actively engages these partners by encouraging innovative efforts at the state and local levels to ensure that President Obama's goal of greatly increasing our nation's college graduates is realized.

This legislation seeks to increase postsecondary access and success for all students, but especially for underserved populations. The Committee encourages States to focus efforts on students from groups that are underrepresented in higher education to address the inequities between groups of students and ensure that all Americans, regardless of race or income, have the opportunity to succeed. References in the legislation to "students from groups that are under-represented in postsecondary education" and "high-need populations" includes, but is not limited to, nontraditional students (as defined in the Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008), students from groups defined as special populations under the Carl D. Perkins Career and Technical Education Act of 2006, and groups underrepresented both in postsecondary education overall and in certain degree, certificate or credential programs. All outcome reporting should be disaggregated by gender, race, ethnicity, age and special population category.

It is the intent of the Committee that the states receiving grants under the State Innovation and Completion Fund may distribute those funds to entities that work with borrowers to avoid delinquency and default, provide assistance with entrance and exit student loan counseling to borrowers and assistance to borrowers in selecting a loan repayment plan and in applying for any loan cancellation, forgiveness, deferment or forbearance to which the borrower may be eligible.

A number of states have already begun initiatives to implement new practices aimed at increasing degree and certificate production; this funding would further support such innovation, allowing states to capitalize on other funding in collaboration with federal funds. It is the intent of the Committee that states may not, however, use this funding to decrease or otherwise supplant other funding dedicated to postsecondary education.

The Committee encourages the Secretary of Education to prioritize under the Innovation in College Access and Completion National Activities program, program approaches that advance knowledge about, and adoption of, policies and practices that increase the number of students prepared to successfully pursue, enter and successfully complete postsecondary degrees or certificates as described in sections 801 and 403 of the Higher Education Act.

Continuing historic investments in Historically Black Colleges and Universities, and Hispanic-Serving Institutions, Tribal Colleges, Alaska Native and Native-Hawaiian serving institutions, Predominately Black Institutions, and Asian American and Pacific Islander serving intuitions, and Native American serving institutions

Historically Black Colleges and Universities, Hispanic-Serving Institutions, Tribal Colleges, Alaska and Hawaiian Native, Predominately Black Institutions, institutions serving Asian American and Pacific Islanders, and institutions serving Native Americans are critical to the nation's economic and social well-being. As the growth in the nation's population increasingly reflects the diversity of the students at these institutions, the Committee believes that this mandatory funding is an investment in our future. By educating the nation's emerging majority populations, these institutions represent the vanguard of the country's potential and promise and should be appropriately supported.

This Committee first recognized the need for significant investment in these institutions with the passage of the College Cost Reduction and Access Act two years ago. This legislation continues this important investment for the next ten years; recognizing the continued critical role that these institutions have to serve.

The importance of these unique institutions is underscored by the fact that they provide postsecondary educational opportunities specifically tailored to students who traditionally have been denied access to adequately funded elementary and secondary schools, especially low-income, educationally disadvantaged students. Additionally, a high proportion of students attending these institutions are the first in their family to attend college.

FAFSA simplification

The Committee believes the current application for federal student aid is complicated and burdensome, asking students and their families to answer as many as 153 questions, many of which have little or no impact on the amount of financial aid that students receive. The length and difficulty of the application process can undermine efforts to increase college enrollment with student aid. The implications of this lengthy and difficult application process on current and potential students can be profound. One analysis by the American Council on Education found that there are 1.5 million enrolled students who are likely eligible for Pell grants (and other federal student aid) but fail to apply, due in part to the complicated aid application.

The Committee recognizes recent work by the Department of Education, the Internal Revenue Service, and others in the Administration. With the authority provided by Congress in the Higher Education and Opportunity Act, the Secretary Duncan has already announced some significant steps to improve the web-based application process for many students through improved use of skip logic. In addition, the Education and Treasury Departments have announced that they will give those who apply during the relevant academic year to import data from their income tax filings from the IRS, further simplifying the process.

With these changes, every applicant will find the process substantially easier to navigate and complete, a small number will find their financial aid awards increased, and no one will see aid reductions. The Committee encourages the Department of Education to make use of its authority to start the FAFSA process earlier, so that students can apply at the beginning of their senior year in high school. Having early, real information about financial aid can affect low income students' college plans. As it stands, students receive financial aid information after they apply to and are accepted to college, too late for many students and families to make changes to their enrollment plans. Earlier, more accurate information will help students and families plan for affordable college options, helping to reduce student debt in the long term. This strategy is only effective if it starts no later than the fall of the senior year of high school.

STUDENT LOAN REFORM

Students and families have become increasingly reliant on the federal student loan programs to help finance their postsecondary education. As a result, the Committee is committed to ensuring that every eligible student and family can access these loans so critical toward helping pay today's college costs. The turmoil in the U.S. credit markets has shown, however, that the federally guaranteed student loan program is an unreliable source of funds for students and families. Over the past year, this program has become dependent not only on the Federal guarantee of borrower repayment and taxpayer subsidies paid to financial institutions, but also dependent on the Federal Government for the very loan capital provided to borrowers. On the other hand, despite the stresses in the credit markets, students and families continued to access Federal student loans under the Direct Loan Program with no interruptions. Moreover, costs to the taxpayers of the Direct Loan Program are significantly less than those of the federally guaranteed program. The Committee believes that prudence dictates the time has come to end the entitlements for financial institutions that lend to students and instead take full advantage of the Direct Loan Program's low-cost and stable source of capital so students are ensured access to loans. By relying on competitive, private-sector entities to service loans, students and families can be provided with high-quality services. This new approach, consistent with the President's vision, will save $87 billion over the next 10 years. In addition to this reform, the Committee believes it is also time to modernize and expand the Perkins Loan Program so that more colleges can participate and more students can receive access to greater aid.

Instability of the Federal Family Education Loan Program

The federally guaranteed loan program, known as the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP), has become unstable and unreliable and can no longer be depended upon to ensure students' and families' access to Federal student loans. Over the past year, turmoil in the U.S. credit markets has made it impossible for many lenders, and difficult for others, to secure private capital with which to make student loans. As a result, many lenders that once participated in the FFELP have pulled out of the program and are no longer making loans.

In April 2008, the Committee passed the Ensuring Continued Access to Student Loans Act of 2008, which was enacted into law the following month (Public Law No: 110-227). The Act provided the Secretary of Education with the authority to help fund the Federal student loans made by financial institutions to students and families, or to buy Federal student loans from financial institutions, upon a determination that there was an inadequate availability of loan capital to meet the demand for loans. The Act further required that any purchase by the Secretary be revenue-neutral or beneficial to the Federal Government.

Throughout 2008 and 2009, the Department of Education established several support programs to provide FFELP lenders with capital, who in turn used the capital to make loans to students and families. The reliance by FFELP lenders on the Department's support programs has been startling. As of July 22, 2009, the Department has purchased over $14.6 billion in Federal student loans put up for sale by FFELP lenders. Moreover, the Department has funded an additional $31.2 billion of the loans made by FFELP lenders during the 2008–2009 school year.

Clearly, the FFELP has become dependent on taxpayer funds to make loans to students and families. Overall, the Department of Education has financed over 60 percent of the 2008–2009 FFELP loan volume to date. When combined with Direct Loans, Education has financed over 70 percent of all Federal student loans made during the 2008–2009 school year.

William D. Ford Direct Loan Program

Established in 1993, the Direct Loan Program provides loans directly to students, through the student's school, with loan capital secured from the U.S. Treasury. As a result, the Direct Loan Program has been insulated from the turmoil in the credit markets, and loans to students and families have flowed without interruptions or the need for any back-stop measures similar to what was required for the FFELP.

Over the course of the last year, the growth in the Direct Loan Program has increased significantly. The number of schools that have moved to the Direct Loan Program has increased by over 45 percent, from 1,186 in school year 2007–2008 to over 1,700 in 2008–2009. Over the same time period, the number of loans disbursed under the Direct Loan Program increased by 66 percent, from 3.2 million to 5.3 million; and the overall amount of loans made under the program increased by 60 percent, from $13.8 billion to over $22 billion.

To participate in the Direct Loan Program, all schools must first be eligible and certified by the Department of Education. Once eligible and certified for the Direct Loan Program, the school must send an e-mail request to the Department to actively participate in the Direct Loan Program. Once approved and in order to begin processing Direct Loans and transmit and receive Direct Loan data electronically, the school must set up an electronic email account to exchange information with the Department as well as a bank account with the Department to receive the federal funding that is used to provide Direct Loan proceeds to borrowers. To a large degree, many schools, in particular those that disburse Pell Grants to students, are already familiar with the Department's information technology systems that are used to provide Direct Loans to students. The Department's "Common Origination and Disbursement (COD)" system is used to deliver both Pell Grant funds and Direct Loan funds to schools.

Schools that have recently transitioned to the Direct Loan Program have reported high levels of satisfaction with the program. In a June 2009 survey of schools that recently transitioned, the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators found that 80 percent of the schools surveyed found making the switch to the Direct Loan Program was easy. In addition, 84 percent of the schools reported that the Department of Education was helpful in providing assistance for the conversion. Moreover, 80 percent of the schools reported that they were able to convert to the Direct Loan Program within four months.

Providing for a stable, reliable, and efficient student loan program

Now more than ever, Americans need affordable, quality education opportunities to help make our economy strong and competitive again. The Committee believes this can be accomplished, in part, by implementing the President's proposal to move all schools in the country to the Direct Loan program by 2010, thereby saving the federal government and taxpayers $87 billion dollars over the next 10 years. While the legislation directs the Government to originate all student loans, it also ensures that there is a role for private industry in providing loan servicing. Moreover, it will ensure that state and local non-profit agencies, that meet quality and pricing standards, will participate in servicing student loans through a minimum volume allocation of the loans of 100,000 borrowers. These reforms mean that student borrowers will have a reliable stream of funding to finance their college education, and can rely on quality loan servicing during repayment. The legislation does not force private industry out of the system. Rather, the legislation will maintain the jobs of, and a role for, lenders and non-profits by allowing them to compete for contracts that service student loans on an expanded basis. For example, the Department of Education has already let major contracts to four large FFELP industry participants to help service those loans that FFELP lenders found necessary to sell to the government as a result of the problems in the credit markets.

Reforming and reinvigorating the Perkins Loan Program

The Committee believes the Perkins Loan Program should be reformed so that more loans can be made available to students on more campuses across the country. Currently, Perkins loans are awarded to students by schools from institutional revolving funds, which are comprised of Federal capital contributions, institutional matching funds, and student repayments on outstanding loans. However, no new Federal capital contributions have been appropriated since 2004, leaving many schools and their students without access to low-interest loans. The legislation will modernize and expand the Perkins Loan program so more colleges can participate and more students can receive access to low-cost loans to help pay postsecondary expenses.

MODERNIZATION, RENOVATION, AND REPAIR

The Committee believes that Title III of H.R. 3221 addresses a number of important issues—the quality of our nation's public school facilities, student achievement, the state of the economy, and the state of the environment. The Committee believes that these issues are interrelated and that each represents a critical national concern.

President Obama and Congress have already endorsed these principles by making green school modernization, renovation and repair part of an allowable use of funds under the state fiscal stabilization fund in H.R. 1, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. The Committee believes H.R. 3221 is a critical next step in this effort because it is important to provide funds specifically dedicated to this purpose. Prior to ARRA, and with the exception of funding through the Impact Aid program and through the Department of the Interior for Indian schools, direct federal support for school construction has been virtually non-existent since fiscal year 2001 when Congress appropriated $1.2 billion primarily for emergency school repair and renovation.

The demand for new and renovated public school facilities is unprecedented in our nation's history.³ A briefing paper delivered at an Economic Policy Institute forum, Investing in U.S. Infrastructure, in April 2009, called for $140 billion in federal funds for capital outlays for low-income school districts and an ongoing federal role in such funding comparable to the current federal share of education operations funding (approximately 10 percent) in order to bring these districts up to parity with the highest income districts. The paper argued that such funding is necessary to ensure that "the nation's public schools are healthy, safe, environmentally sound, and built . . . to support a high-quality education."⁴

Need and disparity

The most recent comprehensive estimates of the national need for school construction and renovation were made in 1995 ($112 billion, U.S. General Accounting Office⁵ (GAO)⁶), 2000 ($127 billion, National Center for Education Statistics⁷ (NCES)), 2001 ($322 billion, National Education Association⁸ (NEA)), and 2008 ($254.6 billion, American Federation of Teachers (AFT))⁹.

Several studies highlight the inadequacy of school facilities. In 2009, the American Society of Civil Engineers, on its national infrastructure report card, gave America's public schools a D.¹⁰ A 2005 survey of school principals by NCES found that fifty-two percent of schools had no science laboratories, thirty percent had no art rooms, nineteen percent had no music rooms, and seventeen percent had no gymnasium.¹¹ A 2004 NCES report found that one school in three had temporary buildings as the primary learning space for at least 160 students, and that in one in five schools, teachers routinely had to use a building's common areas for instructional purposes.¹²

Disparities in the condition of our schools are also well-documented. In 1996, GAO reported, in a follow-up to an earlier study, that on every measure—inadequate buildings or building features, unsatisfactory environmental conditions, etc.—the same subgroups—schools in central cities, western states, and schools serving higher percentages of minority or low-income students—reported having more significant problems.¹³

In 2006, a report by Building Educational Success Together (BEST) concluded that the GAO and NEA estimates “grossly underestimated” the need for school improvements, and concurred with the 1996 GAO finding that facilities in low-income and minority-serving areas tended to be in significantly worse condition. The report also concluded that despite significant State and local expenditures on school construction and renovation from 1996–2004, “there continue to be millions of students in substandard and crowded school conditions.”¹⁴

It is the Committee's intent that funds authorized by this bill be used to ensure that all children have access to a high-quality public school facility. The Committee recognizes that facility quality disparity is most likely to occur in low-income areas. Accordingly, the Committee encourages local educational agencies to take care to ensure that the needs of low-income and rural schools are addressed by giving priority to schools where modernization, renovation, and repair will most benefit students, teachers, and other staff and ensuring that the schools are safe, healthy, conducive to teaching and learning, energy efficient, and environmentally sound.

Green Schools

A 2006 report concludes that a green school (1) uses one-third percent less energy than a conventional school; (2) reduces harmful carbon dioxide emissions by forty percent, which helps reduce global climate change; (3) uses thirty percent less water; (4) has better lighting and temperature controls, which promotes higher student achievement; and (5) has a more comfortable indoor environment, improved ventilation and indoor air quality, which result in short-term ($96,760 per year) and long-term savings as a result of green building.¹⁵ The average national school construction cost is $150 per square foot; building green adds only $3 per square foot. According to the study, the long-term savings from green buildings are $70 per square foot.¹⁶

The Committee believes that green building can serve a number of purposes. Such building will directly benefit both the larger environment and the indoor environment. The Committee further believes that green building will improve the ability of teachers to teach and students to learn as well as the health of students, teachers, and other school staff.

The Committee believes that a critical component of the success of this bill will be local educational agencies' knowledge of best practices in school construction, modernization, renovation, and repair as they relate to green building.

The bill directs States to develop state-level voluntary guidelines for high-performing school buildings. The Committee encourages States, in developing the energy efficiency components of such guidelines, to look for direction to the definition of such plans in H.R. 579, the School Building Enhancement Act, introduced by Representative Rush Holt. That bill defines such plans as including standards for school building design, construction, and renovation; and proposals for the systematic improvement (including benchmarks and timelines) of environmental conditions in and around schools throughout the State. H.R. 579 also encourages purchasing environmentally preferable products for instruction and maintenance, increasing the use of alternative energy fuels in school buses, and maximizing transportation choices for students, staff, and other members of the community.

In addition to the voluntary state guidelines for high-performing school buildings required in the bill, the Committee encourages states to establish voluntary guidelines concerning performance monitoring, use of Energy Star equipment, alternative fuels buses, anti-idling measures, and other measures the state believes will contribute to high-performing schools.

The Committee encourages the Secretary, in carrying out the Department's technical assistance responsibilities under H.R. 3221, as amended, to examine the Illinois Resource Guide for Healthy, High-Performing School Buildings. The recommendations and information in the guide are intended to provide school administrators, school boards and other community members with guidance to make informed decisions about health and energy efficiency issues important to schools. The guide's objective is to promote long-term thinking and to ensure that school buildings are compatible with the goals of improving learning environments, reducing operating costs, supporting health and safety, and protecting our natural environment.¹⁷

Impact on teaching and learning

The Committee believes that while equity alone justifies federal support for local educational agencies to ensure that every child has access to a high-quality public school facility, such support also is essential to closing the achievement gap. The Committee believes that the relationship between the quality of school facilities and student achievement and teacher performance and retention are positively intertwined.¹⁸ Research demonstrates that better school facilities result in improved student achievement and teacher recruitment and retention. The physical condition of schools also affects student and teacher health.

According to a 2004 report by the 21st Century School Fund, inadequate school facilities can result in alienated students, low staff morale, high teacher attrition, the inability to provide specialized curricula, reduced learning time, distractions from learning, reduced ability to meet special needs, lack of technological proficiency, health problems for students and staff, safety hazards, and less supervision of student behavior.¹⁹

It is the Committee's intent that local educational agencies use funds provided under this subtitle for the installation or upgrading of educational technology infrastructure such as wiring and other projects, including energy efficient improvements, to bring school facilities technologically up-to-date.

In its 2005 survey, NCEES noted that a key reason for school construction and renovation is student and teacher safety, but that building quality also affects the context for learning, such that lighting, noise reduction, air quality and other factors can affect student achievement and behavior. NCEES further noted that building quality affects teacher retention—forty percent of teachers who transferred schools and thirty-nine percent who left teaching cited the need for significant school repairs as a source of their dissatisfaction.²⁰ NCEES found that one-third of school principals cited at least one environmental factor²¹ as interfering with their ability to deliver instruction.

The Committee encourages school districts that undertake projects to reduce or eliminate human exposure to classroom noise and environmental noise pollution, and the Secretary, in providing technical assistance concerning reducing background noise and reverberation in classrooms, to consider the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) approved Standard S12.60–2002, [Acoustical Performance Criteria, Design Requirements, and Guidelines for School].

Impact on health

A 2004 study mandated by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as amended by the No Child Left Behind Act, and funded by the Department of Education found that “overall evidence suggests that poor environments in schools, due primarily to the effects of indoor pollutants, adversely affect the health, performance, and attendance of students.” Specifically, the study found that indoor environmental quality can influence health outcomes, which may, in turn, influence student and teacher performance directly and indirectly.²² The study cites the 1995 GAO finding that thirty percent of schools reported unsatisfactory ventilation.

The Centers for Disease Control advises that asthma accounts for more than fourteen million missed school days per year.²³ A 2006 report by the American Federation of Teachers concludes that “[p]oor air quality in schools contributes to students’ asthma, absences due to illness, difficulty concentrating, and lower achievement.”²⁴

The Committee further recognizes that although lead solder with more than 0.2 percent lead and plumbing fixtures with more than eight percent lead were banned in 1987, such products remain in schools across the country. The Environmental Protection Agency and the Centers for Disease Control both have concluded that there is no safe level of exposure to lead. Exposure to lead early in life has been linked to cognitive deficits, attention deficits, and extremely aggressive behavior.

Impact on community

According to the 2006 BEST study, the difference between good and poor quality facilities also affects the communities in which they are located. School quality has a direct, positive impact on residential property values and can improve a community’s ability to attract businesses and workers.²⁵ This point also is supported by Representative Bob Etheridge’s testimony at the February 13, 2008, Committee hearing on this issue.²⁶

The BEST study also concluded that investments in school facilities bring money into local economies through job creation and supply purchases and can help revitalize distressed neighborhoods. The Committee is persuaded by these findings and expects that this bill will produce positive results in our communities.

Impact on economy

Direct federal investment in school construction and renovation could provide an immediate boost to our economy and generate jobs. Federal funding for the modernization, renovation, or repair of school facilities could be spent quickly and efficiently to address the loss of 1.3 million jobs in the construction industry over the last year and a half.²⁷ construction need, including as a result of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita. Prior to Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, the Recovery School District of Louisiana (RSD) already had a deferred maintenance infrastructure deficit of approximately $1 billion. The hurricanes caused an additional $800 million in damage to the district's schools. The funding from this bill will help the district, and others in the Gulf region, meet these important and timely needs as they continue to recover from the hurricanes.²⁸

Davis-Bacon

Under the bill, the construction, modernization, repair, and renovation projects paid for, in whole or in part, with the grants made available by this legislation are subject to Davis-Bacon prevailing wage requirements. Davis-Bacon prevailing wage rules ensure that taxpayer dollars are not used to undercut local wage rates. These rules require contractors to pay the local prevailing wage to their employees.

Davis-Bacon requirements will help control costs, ensure higher quality work, and improve safety. Studies have shown that, where prevailing wages are not required, contractors compete on the basis of labor costs, frequently resulting in poor construction quality as well as substantial cost and time overruns due to cheaper workers' lower levels of skill, productivity, and training.²⁹ Where prevailing wages are paid, higher rates of productivity, safety, and building quality more than offset the cost of higher wages. For example, one study by the Mechanical Electrical Sheet Metal Alliance, focusing on highway and bridge construction, found that workers who were paid more than double the wage of low-wage workers were able to build 74.4 more miles of highway and 32.8 more miles of bridges for $557 million less.

Davis-Bacon requirements help save federal, State, and local revenue. By creating family supporting jobs in local communities that do not drive workers' wages down, these requirements ease the burden on public programs and provide support for more economic activity. Studies have found that repeal of local prevailing wage laws results in lower incomes, loss of sales tax revenues, and a general loss of economic activity.³⁰ These are precisely the types of effects the Committee intends to avoid by providing federal assistance to local communities consistent with Davis-Bacon.

For the reasons stated above, the Committee believes passage of this bill will provide significant educational benefits for our nation's students, health benefits for students, teachers, and others who work in our schools, financial benefits for schools resulting from energy savings, economic benefits for hundreds of thousands of American workers and their families, and environmental benefits.

EARLY LEARNING CHALLENGE FUND (TITLE IV)

Over the past several decades, research on the brain and on child development has established that learning begins at birth and that the first five years of life have a lasting effect on children's learning, health, and behavior. During the first three years of life alone, the brain goes through its most dramatic development: children learn to walk, speak, reason, talk, learn, trust, and to interact with others.³¹ This developmental period is enormously consequential, laying the foundation for a child's cognitive, social, emotional, and physical development.³² It can be a time when a child experiences supportive and consistent relationships with parents and other caregivers that fosters healthy development and teaches children to trust others and their own abilities, or it can be a time when children fail to receive the supportive relationships and early learning opportunities their growing brains need, setting a course that can take years to remediate.

As a result, the early years present an important opportunity for policymakers. By investing in programs that support families in their efforts to get their children off to a good start, we can prevent problems from developing that are more difficult and costly to address later in life. The Committee strongly believes that improving access to high-quality early learning programs is an integral component of comprehensive school reform and is essential to ensuring America can compete in the global economy in the decades to come. The Early Learning Challenge Fund capitalizes on the importance of these early years by creating an investment that will leverage standards reform and fund initiatives that together will increase the availability of high-quality early learning programs for disadvantaged children from birth through age 5 so that all children can fulfill their potential. The Committee appreciates President Obama's recognition of the importance of early childhood to lifelong success and looks forward to working with the President to ensure that all children receive the early learning opportunities they need to thrive.

Nearly 12 million children under age 5, including 6 million children under age 3 are regularly cared for by someone other than their parents.³³ Child care is usually a family's highest or second highest budget item. Many families struggle to find and afford high quality early learning programs for young children. Unfortunately, the quality of early learning settings varies greatly, and despite some progress, early learning programs are held to inconsistent standards among and within states. Large national evaluations of child care find the average quality to be mediocre.³⁴ and child care costs are frequently a family's highest expense or second highest family expense after housing.³⁵ Center-based child care for one child costs between $3,000 and $13,000 per year, putting it out of reach for many working families.³⁶ Therefore, it can be very difficult for families to find the kind of high quality early learning programs that appropriately support their child's development or that have the standards needed to help close the achievement gap.³⁷ The Committee believes that without significant new public investment in the quality of early learning programs, many children will be unable to attain the benefit from early learning programs that would otherwise help them arrive at kindergarten ready to succeed.

The long-lasting benefits of high quality early learning programs are well documented, and these programs are of particular benefit to disadvantaged children. High quality programs improve academic achievement, reduce the need for special education, increase employment and earnings, lower rates of teen pregnancy, reduce crime and delinquency, and ultimately increase our global competitiveness.³⁸ Yet despite our understanding of the importance of quality early learning environments and the benefits that accrue when we provide children with high quality early learning opportunities, far too many of our children spend their time in settings that do not adequately support their development. The early childhood system has inconsistent standards among and within States, which often lack adequate resources to ensure that programs are of high quality and that children enter kindergarten ready to succeed. Fewer than half of States require centers to encourage parent involvement and thirteen State pre-kindergarten programs do not require any site visits to monitor compliance with standards. Additionally, twenty States do not require child care providers to have even a high school degree. Currently, no single State implements all the quality components of a model early learning system, though States and programs have made significant progress over the last twenty years in improving their early childhood systems.

The Committee contends that given the importance of the first five years of life, substantially more investment in early childhood is necessary for all of America's children to have the opportunity to succeed and if America is to compete in the global economy. The graph below reflects the striking mismatch between the importance of investing early and the level of public investment in early childhood.³⁹

Brain Growth Compared with Public Expenditures on Children

The Early Learning Challenge Fund is a bold and wise investment that recognizes the importance of quality and will support and advance State reforms that improve the quality of early learning programs across all settings for all children from birth through age 5, and particularly for low-income children. This landmark initiative will challenge States to develop effective, innovative models that promote high standards of quality. The Fund will also increase the transparency of what early learning programs are providing and how children are doing so that parents can hold states accountable for their choices and so parents can expect more for their children. High quality comprehensive early learning systems, starting at birth, will go a long way toward eliminating achievement gaps and providing children with the resources, skills, and tools they need to arrive at school ready for success. The years prior to kindergarten are about the most significant in shaping a child's foundation for learning and school success—and the Early Learning Challenge Fund will ensure that our investments reflect the importance of those early years.

The achievement gap

The achievement gap that exists in elementary school and beyond begins before children enter kindergarten.^{40 41} For example, the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study (ECLS) conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics found 4 year olds from families living below the poverty line are already 18 months behind their peers.⁴² Moreover, of 4 year old children from families in the lowest 20 percent of socioeconomic status, 40.1 percent were proficient in numbers and shapes, of children from families in the middle 60 percent of socioeconomic status, 65.3 percent were proficient in numbers and shapes, and of children from families in the highest 20 percent socioeconomic status group, 87.1 percent were proficient in numbers and shapes.⁴³ The achievement gap at kindergarten entry between students from more affluent families and those from middle and lower income families is also abundantly clear in this graph using additional data from the ECLS study.⁴⁴

Achievement Gap as Children Begin Kindergarten

Unfortunately, children who enter kindergarten behind their peers have a difficult time catching up.⁴⁵ The Committee strongly believes that effective investments to minimize the achievement gap prior to school entry benefits children, schools, and our nation, and that high quality state-funded preschool has significant potential to help accomplish this goal.

Cost effectiveness of high quality early learning programs

The Committee believes that the cost-benefits of Title IV of H.R. 3221 make it a sound public investment. Acclaimed economists like Art Rolnick of the Minneapolis Federal Reserve and Nobel Laureate and University of Chicago professor James Heckman, conclude that early childhood interventions are among the best investments we can make for ensuring that all children become productive citizens and securing our long-term economic prosperity. “Ability gaps between disadvantaged and other children open up early and children who start ahead keep accelerating past their peers, widening the gap,” wrote James Heckman and Dimitriy Masterov in The Productivity Argument for Investing in Young Children. “[Early learning] programs are likely to generate substantial savings to society and to promote higher economic growth by improving the skills of the workforce.” Nobel Laureate James Heckman points out that “skill begets skill” and concludes the longer we wait to intervene in a child’s life, the more difficult it is to be effective and the more costly it is for society.⁴⁶ By reducing the need for grade retention, reducing the need for special education services, increasing academic success, reducing juvenile crime, and creating a more qualified and competitive workforce, high quality early learning programs will ultimately save more in public funding than they cost to support.

The Early Learning Challenge Fund

The Early Learning Challenge Funds challenges Governors to develop new approaches to raising the bar across State early learning settings. It will promote standards reform of State early learning programs serving children from birth through age 5 in order to support healthy development and improve the school readiness outcomes of young children. By leveraging standards reform and funding quality initiatives, it will ensure more disadvantaged children participate in high-quality early learning programs that meet their developmental needs and help them arrive at kindergarten ready to succeed.

The Early Learning Challenge Fund creates an incentive for States to develop an early learning system that integrate 8 key components:

- Early Learning and Development Standards that lead to school readiness and are integrated with programmatic and instructional practices.
- Quality Rating System that is evidence-based and structured with progressive levels of quality that target funds and provide transparent goals for program improvement.
- Program review and oversight that is applied across all programs and settings and is focused on components of quality related to school readiness.
- Comprehensive professional development system that can prepare an effective and well-qualified workforce of early educators, including supporting appropriate levels of training, education, credentials, and compensation.
- Support to parents and families so they are engaged and supported in their child’s early learning.
- Coordinated systems to facilitate screening and referrals for health, mental health, disability and family support.
- A coordinated data infrastructure to collect essential information on where young children spend their time and the quality of the programs that serve them.
- An age- and developmentally-appropriate curriculum and assessment system for early learning programs that is used to support best practices, improve school readiness.

Quality Pathways grants will be awarded to high-capacity States pursuing models of reform and excellence in early learning settings for children from birth through age 5. Innovative plans that already reflect significant progress toward establishing the core eight elements needed to improve quality and learning outcomes for children will be rewarded. States must develop data systems that will provide transparency on the number of children in high quality settings and require States to make progress increasing the number of children, in each age group, in The Committee emphasizes that state applications must demonstrate that improvements to the early learning system must address settings for infants, toddlers, and preschoolers. A state whose primary or sole focus is on improving the quality of early learning settings for 4-year-olds would not be meeting the expectations of this grant. Moreover, in reviewing applications, the Committee intends the Secretary to recognize that states need to strive to support high quality full-day early learning programs because of their importance in meeting the needs of working families as well as meeting the needs of children. In addition, though the allowable use of funds in the legislation

Development grants will be awarded to States that show promise for strengthening and expanding their early learning system but who need additional assistance to launch a comprehensive standards-based system. Development grants are not renewable because the Committee believes that if States implement them effectively, States will have positioned themselves to be competitive for a Quality Pathways Grant after three years.

The Committee believes the Early Learning Challenge Grants will transform early learning programs and practices and become an integral part of a larger effort to reform education in this country.

Early Learning and Development Standards

The Committee believes Early Learning and Development Standards reform is essential to the effort to improve early learning program quality and child outcomes. Accordingly, States receiving a Quality Pathway grant have 12 months to complete early learning and development standards that are developmentally, culturally, and linguistically appropriate for all children from until kindergarten entry. To adequately support child development and school readiness, these standards must address all domains of children's development and learning, including social, emotional, cognitive, and physical development and approaches to learning. States with standards that do not cover all these domains appropriate for infants, toddlers, and preschoolers must revise their standards accordingly. In addition, States receiving Quality Pathways grants have 18 months to conduct an analysis of alignment between their early learning and development standards with their program quality standards and with their kindergarten-grade 3 academic content standards. It is critical that this alignment reflect the development progression of how children learn and develop the requisite skills as they move forward through the early grades. It is important this analysis ensure the breadth (language, literacy, math, social, emotional, approaches to learning, science, creative arts, and physical development) and depth (emphasis within each standard). The Committee believes it is then critical for states to support the integration of these standards into early learning program practices.

Children with disabilities

Over the past decade, the number of identified children with disabilities and developmental delays under the age of five has grown substantially, represented by a 70 percent increase in infants and toddlers with disabilities and a 45 percent increase in preschool children with disabilities. Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, young children with disabilities are to be supported in natural settings (the least restrictive environment), including provision of specialized services in childcare programs, Head Start Centers, preschools, pre-K classrooms and other early learning settings. The Department of Education reports that a majority of states are making progress in serving children with disabilities in inclusive programs, with 36 states and territories serving 50 percent or more of their preschoolers with disabilities in these general early learning programs.

The Early Learning Challenge Fund requires states to address the needs of young children with disabilities as part of their broader early learning system and quality improvement activities. The Committee intends for States to develop early learning and development standards appropriate for all children, including children with disabilities. The Committee encourages states to consider the principles of Universal Design for Learning in developing such standards in order to meet this requirement. States should also address, as part of their plans to improve the capacity of the early learning workforce, how professional development activities will prepare all teachers to work with young children with disabilities. The Committee notes the legislation intends to hold states accountable for including the needs of young children with disabilities in their comprehensive plans as well as in improving the school readiness outcomes of these children.

Children with limited English proficiency

Children with limited English proficiency account for a growing and significant share of children enrolled in schools and early learning programs. In some parts of the county, more than 50 percent of the preschool population comes from non-English speaking homes.⁴⁷ As a group, these students lag behind their peers in educational attainment and achievement. It is estimated that children with limited English proficiency entering kindergarten know 5,000 fewer words than their English speaking peers.⁴⁸ As these students progress through the elementary grades, challenges with English proficiency and these vocabulary gaps will impact their ability to master higher order literacy skills, such as reading comprehension and writing, and challenging academic content. Therefore, there is an urgent need to design and implement early learning programs that provide these children with experiences that prepare them to achieve at high levels and become fluent in English. The Committee contends these efforts must be driven by empirical findings rather than ideology and language politics. In the last decade, advances in research regarding how young children with limited

English proficiency acquire a second language provide useful guidance for policy development and the implementation of effective classroom practices for these children.⁴⁹

The Early Learning Challenge Fund requires states to address the needs of young children with limited English proficiency as part of their broader quality improvement activities. States should address, as part of their plans to improve the capacity of the early learning teacher workforce, how professional development activities will prepare all teachers to work with young children with limited English proficiency. The Committee urges the research activities carried out under this Title to adequately examine how the school readiness outcomes of this population can be adequately addressed and improved. The Committee notes the legislation intends to hold states accountable for including the needs of young children with limited English proficiency in their comprehensive plans as well as in improving the school readiness outcomes of these children.

Facilities

The Committee notes that the supply of suitable spaces to house early childhood programs has not kept pace with the growth of the sector, and the shortage is especially severe in low-income communities—both urban and rural. For example, according to a 2007 report by the Advancement Project, California’s Preschool Space Challenge, California currently lacks preschool-suitable spaces for approximately 117,000 or 21 percent of its four year olds, with most of the deficit occurring in low-income communities. Because the Committee acknowledges the need for high-quality early learning program facilities to support the ultimate goal of preparing children to be ready to learn when they enter kindergarten. The bill provides that in-kind contributions for facilities development, including technical assistance, may be counted toward the State match. In-kind contributions that could be used for this purpose include the provision of lien-free land, structures or leased space, no-interest loans, revolving lines of credit, construction materials, and labor, in accordance with the Department of Education regulations at 34 CFR 74.23.

Child care licensing

States cannot improve early childhood education for all ages without addressing basic health and safety requirements in child care programs. This should include minimum health and safety standards, pre-requisite training related to these health and safety standards and child development, and regular monitoring and inspections. The Committee expects to address these and other key licensing issues in the reauthorization of the Child Care and Development Block Grant so that states will receive further support and guidance to improve upon these areas and that children can be safe and healthy when out of their parents' care.

AMERICAN GRADUATION INITIATIVE

The Committee believes that community colleges are the backbone of our Nation's educational and workforce systems, providing post-secondary education and job training to millions of Americans and serving as the critical pipeline to postsecondary education, job training, and economic vitality.

Nearly 12 million students are enrolled at the more than 1,000 community colleges across the country. These include students who are taking for-credit classes as well as those pursuing apprenticeships, taking developmental courses or career-prep courses, or taking basic core vocational education or general education courses necessary to further their education and achieve their career goals. Community colleges are essential to strengthening the middle class and providing the skilled workers necessary to meet our nation's economic and social challenges. For future workers, community colleges will be vital—the Bureau of Labor Statistics projects that occupations requiring an associate's degree or postsecondary vocational credentials will experience faster growth than those requiring a bachelor's degree. For dislocated workers, community colleges are similarly critical—research indicates that displaced workers who attend a community college substantially increase their long-term earnings, particularly if the classes are related to high-growth industries. These successes are in part due to the flexible nature of community colleges. They are able to work with employers and the private sector to address workforce shortages and create tailored training, partnerships, and apprentice programs for specific occupations. Community colleges lead the way in preparing graduates in the fields of green technology, healthcare, teaching, information technology and clean energy technology—some of the fastest growing fields in America—and the world. Yet they are bursting at the seams, heavily under-resourced, and lack incentives to innovate.

The Committee believes that America's ability to remain true to our highest ideals—and to maintain our leadership in the global economy—depends on our ability to transform our higher education system to provide the relevant knowledge and skills necessary to compete in a new and changing world. Economic progress and educational achievement go hand in hand. And in today's economy, access to higher education institutions and success in post-secondary education is no longer just a pathway to opportunity—it is a prerequisite.

To address these and other overarching concerns, H.R. 3221 includes provisions to increase innovation at community colleges, encourage states to be active participants in systematic community college reform, develop and make available free high-quality online education and training courses, and ensure that educational and employment outcomes are measured and shared within and among states and with the public.

Further, it is the intent of the Committee that the states and entities receiving grants under the American Graduation Initiative should be encouraged to find innovative ways to address the needs of students and workers. This can include, but is not limited to the following: adapting college offerings to the schedules and needs of working students, such as creating evening, weekend, modular, compressed, or distance learning formats; augmenting programs and services, including providing specialized assessments and learning tools, streamlined registration processes, and specialized job placement counseling, for vulnerable populations, including disabled veterans and ex-offenders; enrolling students in learning communities; and other relevant innovations. The Committee encourages the design and implementation of innovative ways to improve retention in and completion of developmental education courses, including but not limited to enrolling students in cohorts; accelerating course content; integrating remediation and college-level curricula and instruction; dual enrolling students in remediation and college-level courses; tutoring; providing counseling and other supportive services; and giving small, material incentives for attendance and performance.

This section establishes an annual Direct Perkins loan authority for the annual issuance of up to $6 billion from funds under Part D beginning with the 2010–2011 award year. For each award year, 50% of funds are allocated to institutions on the basis of the adjusted self-help need amount of the institution. The adjusted self-help need amount is determined by each eligible undergraduate student's average cost of attendance less each undergraduate student's expected family contribution, plus each eligible graduate or professional student's average cost of attendance less each graduate or professional student's expected family contribution. For undergraduate students the amount of self-help need cannot exceed 25% of the average cost of attendance or $5,500 and for graduate and professional students it cannot exceed $8,000.

Of the remaining 50% of funds: 25% of the funds are awarded on the basis of a low tuition incentive, and 25% of the funds are allocated to institutions based on the number of students that graduate who are federal Pell Grant recipients. The calculation of the low tuition incentive is based on the amount by which the institution's tuition and fees is below the average tuition and fees for its sector, plus the amount by which the non Federal grant aid provided by the institution to needy students drives them below the average tuition and fees for the institution's sector. The calculation of the Pell Grant incentive is determined by the ratio of Pell grant recipients to Pell grant recipients who complete a postsecondary degree.

If the institution's base self-help need amount exceeds 50% of the loan authority under this section, the base amounts of the eligible institutions is ratably reduced. There is also a corresponding ratable reduction that applies to the low tuition incentive and the Pell Grant incentive.

Participants of the current Perkins loan program are guaranteed to receive no less than the average of the institution's total principal amount of loans for each of the five most recent award years.

Section 225. Agreements with institutions of higher education

Requires eligible entities receiving a grant to develop and annually measure and report quantifiable benchmarks approved by the Secretary on the following indicators as applicable: closing gaps in enrollment and completion rates; addressing local and regional workforce needs; and improving educational and employment outcomes for education and training programs.

States must submit an annual report to the Secretary of Education and the Secretary of Labor detailing the description and outcome of the systematic reform carried out under the grant.

The Secretary is required to submit a report not later than six months following the end of the grant period.

Section 505. National activities

This section authorizes the Secretary to make competitive grants or contract with institutions of higher education, philanthropic organizations, or other appropriate entities to develop, evaluate, and disseminate freely-available high-quality online training, high school courses, and postsecondary education courses.

This section also authorizes the Director of the Institute of Education Sciences to award a grant or contract with an organization with demonstrated expertise in research and evaluation of community colleges to establish and operate a Learning and Earning Center. The grant or contract is authorized for four years. Creates an advisory board appointed by the Secretary. Authorized activities for the center include: the development of common education and training metrics and creating standardized data elements and data-sharing protocol.

Authorizes the Secretary to award grant to States and consortia of States to establish cooperative agreements to develop, implement, and expand interoperable statewide longitudinal data systems.

Requires compliance with defined privacy and access to data provisions made applicable to the entire Act.

The Secretary is required to annually submit a report to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate and Labor and the Senate and the Committee on Education and Labor of the House of Representatives detailing the amounts awarded to entities and activities carried out pursuant to such grants or contracts.

VI. EXPLANATION OF AMENDMENTS

The Committee considered and adopted the following amendments:

- Chairman Miller (D–CA) offered an amendment in the nature of a substitute which is explained in the body of this report.
- Representative Lynn Woolsey (D–CA) offered an amendment that requires the Secretary to give priority to grant applications for the Community College Initiative that focus on serving low-income, non-traditional students. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.
- Representative Susan Davis (D–CA) offered an amendment to provide loan forgiveness for loans incurred during the academic term in which a service member is activated. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.
- Representative Howard “Buck” McKeon (R–CA) offered an amendment that requires the Secretary, in coordination with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, to provide supplemental grants to eligible veterans whose educational costs are not covered by the G.I. bill. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.
- Representative Rubén Hinojosa (D–TX) offered an amendment to extend mandatory funding to Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) and Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs) for programs to provide training in the areas of science, technology, engineering and mathematics through 2019. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.
- Representatives Dennis Kucinich (D–OH) and Phil Hare (D–IL) offered an amendment that requires States to report to the Secretary on barriers to expanding access to early learning programs to disadvantaged children. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.
- Representatives David Loeb sack (D–IA) and Marcia Fudge (D–OH) offered an amendment to encourage greater connections among States, community colleges, and industry/sector partnerships to strengthen core industries, create jobs, and train the workforce to fulfill those jobs. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.
- Representative Mazie Hirono (D–HI) offered an amendment to require state applications for Quality Pathway grants to address quality and effective inclusion of children with disabilities in early learning settings in state program rating systems. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.

- Representative Hare offered an amendment to clarify that States may use Early Learning Challenge grants to implement prevention strategies designed to build social competence and prevent challenging behaviors as an allowable use of funds. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.

- Representative Joe Courtney (D-CT) offered an amendment that it is a sense of the Congress that State grantees in the American Graduation Initiative distribute resources for community colleges across the State. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.

- Representative Jared Polis (D-CO) offered an amendment to allow eligible community colleges to use American Graduation Initiative grants to redesign and create new programs that address emerging needs of the workplace. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.

- Representatives Polis and Paul Tonko (D-NY) offered an amendment to add grants designed to increase certificate completion in the STEM fields for women and other disadvantaged group as a priority for the Secretary in issuing Innovation Grants. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.

- Representatives Polis and Hirono offered an amendment to require the research collaborative established under title IV of the bill to evaluate barriers to improving the quality of early learning programs for disadvantaged children. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.

- Representative Tonko offered two amendments:

- The first amendment adds water efficiency as an allowable use of funds for K-12 modernization, renovation, and repair, and provides that federal funding for community college modernization and construction supplement, and not supplant, other funding for those purposes.

- The second amendment establishes a competitive grant program for eligible institutions of higher education to hire a Veterans Resource Officer to increase college completion rates for veterans.

Both amendments were adopted by voice vote.

- Representative Robert Andrews offered an amendment to amend the 90-10 rule to provide temporary relief to proprietary institutions by: extending the number of consecutive years an institution may fail to meet the 90-10 requirement from two to three, before becoming ineligible to participate in Title IV programs; extending the period of time during which an institution may count the increase in student loan limits as non-title IV revenue; and exempting Federal Direct Perkins Loans made between July 1, 2010 through July 1, 2010 from the 90-10 revenue calculation. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 42 to 5.

- Representatives Pedro Pierluisi (D-PR) and Gregorio Sablan (D-MP) offered an amendment to ensure that Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia, Guam, American Samoa, the United States Virgin Islands, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana, and the Freely Associated States are eligible, on the same terms as the states, for modernization and construction grants for community colleges under the American Graduation Initiative. The amendment was adopted by voice vote.

VII. APPLICATION OF LAW TO THE LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

Section 102(b)(3) of Public Law 104–1, the Congressional Accountability Act, requires a description of the application of this bill to the legislative branch. H.R. 3221, as amended, will reform the federal student loan program, provide for modernization, renovation and repair of public school facilities, enhance early learning, and strengthen community colleges. The bill does not prevent legislative branch employees' coverage under this legislation.

VIII. UNFUNDED MANDATE STATEMENT

Section 423 of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act (as amended by Section 101(a)(2) of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act, P.L. 104–4) requires a statement of whether the provisions of the reported bill include unfunded mandates. H.R. 3221 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined by the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA).

IX. EARMARK STATEMENT

H.R. 3221 does not contain any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clauses 9(d), 9(e) or 9(f) of rule XXI of the House of Representatives.

OF THE COMMITTEE

In compliance with clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII and clause 2(b)(1) of rule X of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee's oversight findings and recommendations are reflected in the body of this report.

XII. NEW BUDGET AUTHORITY AND CBO COST ESTIMATE

With respect to the requirements of clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and with respect to requirements of 3(c)(3) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives and section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee expects to receive an estimate for H.R. 3221 from the Director of the Congressional Budget Office:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE
Washington, DC, January 24, 2009.

Hon. GEORGE MILLER,
Chairman, Committee on Education and Labor, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 3221, the Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 2009.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contacts are Deborah Kalcevic and Justin Humphrey.

Sincerely,

DOUGLAS W. ELMENDORF, Director.

Enclosure.

H.R. 3221—Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 2009

Summary: H.R. 3221 would amend the Higher Education Act of 1965, which authorizes most federal postsecondary education programs. It would prohibit new federally guaranteed loans from being made under the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program and would increase direct spending for the Federal Pell Grant Program and other programs.

The elimination of guaranteed student loans would lead to a comparable increase in direct lending by the government. The estimated subsidy cost shown in the budget is lower for the direct student loan program than for the FFEL program. Thus, enacting the bill would yield net budgetary savings for shifting new lending from the guaranteed loan program to the direct loan program.

On balance, CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 3221 would reduce direct spending by $13.3 billion over the 2009–2013 period and $7.8 billion over the 2009–2019 period. Assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts, implementing the bill would increase discretionary spending by at least $13.5 billion over the 2009–2019 period. (That estimate reflects the bulk of the likely discretionary costs under H.R. 3221; but CBO has not completed a comprehensive estimate of all effects that would be subject to appropriation action.) Enacting H.R. 3221 would not affect revenues.

H.R. 3221 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA).

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated impact of H.R. 3221 on spending is shown in Table 1. The costs of this legislation fall within budget functions 500 (education, training, employment, and social services) and 700 (veterans benefits and services).

^a Including the Federal Perkins Loan Program.
^b CBO has not completed an estimate of all discretionary spending under H.R. 3221; the estimates shown here represent the bulk of the bill's discretionary costs.
 Notes: Components may not add to totals because of rounding; * = less than $50 million.

Basis of estimate: As required under the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 (FCRA), most of the costs of the federal student loan programs are estimated on a net-present-value basis. Under credit reform, the present value of all loan-related cash flows is calculated by discounting those expected cash flows to the year of disbursement, using the rates for comparable maturities on U.S. Treasury borrowing. (For example, the cash flow for a one-year loan is discounted using the Treasury rate for a one-year zero-coupon note.) The costs for the federal administration of student loans are estimated on a cash basis. For this estimate, CBO assumes the bill will be enacted by October 1, 2009, and that the necessary funds will be appropriated for all discretionary programs.

Direct spending

H.R. 3221 would amend the federal student loan programs (including the Federal Perkins Loan Program) and the Federal Pell Grant Program and would amend or create several other programs. Those changes would decrease net direct spending by $13.3 billion over the 2009–2014 period and $7.8 billion over the 2009–2019 period.

Federal Student Loan Programs. H.R. 3221 would make several changes to the federal student loan programs, including the Federal Perkins Loan Program. As shown in Table 2, CBO estimates that, on net, those changes would reduce federal costs by $40.7 billion over five years and $74.8 billion over 10 years. The major changes that affect direct spending include:

- Eliminating new guaranteed student loans under the FFEL program and thus shifting those loans to the William D. Ford Federal Direct Student Loan program—saving an estimated $86.8 billion over the 2010–2019 period;
- Reducing interest rates on subsidized student loans to undergraduate borrowers—at a cost of $3.2 billion over the 2012–2019 period;
- Interactions between the FFEL and direct loan program and various other program changes—resulting in a net cost of $7.5 billion over the 2009–2019 period; and
- Speeding up the phase-out of the current Perkins loan program and establishing a new Perkins loan program in its place—for a net cost of $1.3 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

Notes: Components may not add to totals because of rounding; * between -$50 million and $50 million.

Eliminate new lending in the FFEL Program. Under current law, the federal government provides federal loans to borrowers through two separate programs. In the FFEL Program (guaranteed loans), private lenders originate loans to postsecondary students and the federal government makes payments to these lenders, guarantees them against significant loss in the case of default, and provides funds to guaranty agencies to help administer those loans. In the direct loan program, the federal government serves as the lender.

Beginning in July 2010, the bill would prohibit new guaranteed loans under the FFEL Program; which under current law, CBO estimates will account for about $705 billion in loans—70 percent of all loan volume—over the next 10 years. Under the prohibition in the bill, CBO expects that volume would shift to the direct loan program. CBO estimates that the subsidy rates for direct loans are, on average, about 10 to 20 percentage points lower than for guaranteed loans. (The subsidy rate reflects the present value cost for each dollar the government loans or guarantees.) Because of that difference in subsidy rates, CBO estimates that prohibiting new guaranteed loans—with the replacement of those loans by direct student loans—would lower federal budget costs by $41.8 billion over 2010–2014 period and by $86.8 billion over the 2010–2019 period. Consistent with the accounting required under FCRA, most of those estimated savings represent the changes in present-value estimates for the switch from guarantees to direct loans for each year over that period.

About $7 billion of the projected savings over the 2010–2019 period reflect forgone administrative costs in the FFEL Program. The increased loan volume in the direct loan program would require additional funds for administering and servicing those loans, but those costs are classified as discretionary spending and discussed below under the heading “Spending Subject to Appropriation.”

Reduce Borrower Interest Rates. The bill would change the interest rate on subsidized loans for undergraduate borrowers beginning in July 2012. Under current law, the borrower rate on those student loans is scheduled to increase from 3.4 percent to 6.8 percent on July 1, 2012. Under the bill, the borrower rate would switch to a variable-rate formula. The rate charged would be equal to the 91-day Treasury bill rate (calculated as if it were equivalent to a bond) plus 2.5 percentage points, and would be adjusted annually each July. Because the rate would be capped at 6.8 percent, borrowers would never pay an interest rate higher than the 6.8 percent they would pay under current law, but would have some probability of paying a lower interest rate, depending on future Treasury rates.

Taking into account the one-sided aspect of the new interest rate calculation and the historical volatility of rates on short-term Treasury borrowing, CBO estimates that changing the interest rate to a capped variable rate would cost $0.8 billion over the 2010–2014 period and $3.2 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

Interactions and Other Changes. Other changes to the student loan programs and interactions between different sections of the bill would reduce net savings by $7.5 billion over the 2009–2019 period. Those changes are detailed below:

- CBO estimated the effects of each section of the bill independently of all other sections and then calculated the interaction between provisions for the bill as a whole. For H.R. 3221, CBO estimates that the interactive effects would reduce net savings by $7.6 billion over the 2009–2019 period.

- Beginning July 1, 2010, borrowers who currently have a guaranteed consolidation loan but do not also have a direct consolidation loan would be able to refinance their guaranteed consolidation loan into a direct loan. Under current law, consolidation loans are not permitted to be refinanced. Because of the difference in subsidy rates, CBO estimates this change would lower direct spending by an estimated $250 million in 2009.

- Beginning in July 2011, the bill would:

1. Exclude the assets and most untaxed income of both students and parents currently included in calculating eligibility for need-based aid. CBO estimates this would cost $120 million over the 2011–2019 period; and

2. Allow student who have been convicted of possession of illegal drug while receiving financial aid to receive student aid. CBO estimates this would cost $24 million over the 2011–2019 period. Both of these provisions would also affect the Pell grant program, and those costs are discussed below.

- H.R. 3221 would forgive federal loans for members of the uniformed services who do not receive academic credit because they must withdraw from school for reasons of military service. CBO estimates this provision would increase direct spending by $21 million over the 2010–2019 period.

- In October 2009, for loans first originated in January 2000 and after, the bill would allow lenders to make a one-time, permanent choice to change the underlying rate on which the yields are based for both outstanding and new guaranteed student loans. Under current law, the yield rates are based on the bond equivalency rate of the three-month Commercial Paper rate with various add-ons depending on the type of loan and the loan status. The bill would allow lenders, within a specified period of time, to change that rate to the one-month London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR), calculated as if it were equivalent to a bond. CBO estimates that this change would have a negligible impact on spending.

Perkins Loan Program. H.R. 3221 also would amend the current Federal Perkins Loan Program, under which some 1,700 colleges and universities use revolving funds to make student loans. (Schools loan about $1 billion a year to students from those revolving funds.) Over 80 percent of the capital in those revolving funds came from the federal government. Under current law in October 2012, schools must begin returning the government’s share of those funds to the Treasury. Under H.R. 3221, schools would begin the return of federal capital in July 2010. The bill would allow schools to retain amounts for administrative expenses and other fees, thus slightly reducing expected receipts.

The bill would establish a new Federal Perkins Loan Program in July 2010; the interest rate would be 5 percent and students would face the same terms and conditions as with unsubsidized direct loans under the direct loan program. (Borrowing limits would be similar to the existing Perkins Loan Program.) The new loans would be disbursed through school financial aid offices to borrowers who met the new financial need requirements. A maximum of $6 billion in new loans could be made each year.

CBO estimates that, on net, these changes to the Perkins Loan Program would reduce direct spending by $1.6 billion over the 2010–2014 and increase direct spending by $1.3 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

Federal Pell Grant Program. H.R. 3221 also would amend the current structure of the Federal Pell Grant Program and formulas for determining eligibility under that program. As shown in Table 3, CBO estimates these changes would increase direct spending by $10.4 billion over the 2010–2014 period and by $39.4 billion over the 2010–2019 period. (Some of these changes also would affect discretionary spending in the Pell grant program. Those changes are discussed below under “Spending Subject to Appropriation.”)

Mandatory Spending for Pell grants. Under current law, the Pell grant program is funded from both discretionary and mandatory sources. An annual appropriation sets the maximum award level for which students are eligible and a mandatory account provides additional funding to students eligible for the discretionary program. The amount of the additional mandatory award is determined by the amount of budget authority directly appropriated in the Higher Education Act. In 2009, CBO estimates that discretionary costs for the Pell grant program will be $22.8 billion with additional mandatory spending equal to $2.7 billion.

H.R. 3221 would permanently amend the calculation of mandatory funding for Pell grants beginning in fiscal year 2011. For each year, the bill would appropriate such sums as may be necessary to increase the mandatory award from the previous year. The increase in the mandatory award would be determined by inflating the previous year's total award level by the change in the Consumer Price Index plus one percentage point and then subtracting out the previous year's discretionary award level or $4,860 (whichever is greater). The base level of the award would continue to be set in an annual appropriations act. For 2010, the mandatory award level is set at $690.

As shown in Table 4, starting with the most recent appropriations act (for the 2009–2010 academic year) which specifies an award level of $4,860, CBO estimates the mandatory award would grow from $690 in 2010 to $2,040 in 2019. If an appropriations act were to set the discretionary maximum award at a level greater than $4,860, it would raise the amount of the mandatory award in each successive year, and increase overall costs.

Other Changes to Pell grants. In addition, CBO estimates that changes to the eligibility and needs analysis formulas (described above) and to programs whose funding is tied to Pell grants would, on net, increase direct spending by $0.7 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

Other Federal Programs. H.R. 3221 would amend or create several mandatory grant programs that would provide education-related funding to a wide variety of entities. As shown in Table 5, CBO estimates that these programs would increase direct spending by $16.9 billion over the 2010–2014 period and by $27.6 billion over the 2010–2019 period. In particular:

- H.R. 3221 would appropriate $8.0 billion for the Early Learning Challenge Fund—$1.0 billion a year for 2010 through 2017. Based on the spending patterns of similar programs, CBO estimates this provision would increase direct spending by $7.9 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

- For fiscal years 2010 through 2019, H.R. 3221 would appropriate a total of $7.0 billion for grants to states and institutions of higher education to undertake systemic reform of community colleges. CBO estimates this provision would increase direct spending by $6.1 billion over the next 10 years.

- The bill would appropriate $2.5 billion in 2011 to renovate and modernize facilities for community colleges. Based on the spending patterns of similar programs, CBO estimates this provision would increase direct spending by $2.5 billion over the 2011–2019 period.

- The bill would appropriate $2.1 billion in 2010 and 2011 to renovate and modernize facilities for elementary and secondary schools (K–12). Based on the spending patterns of similar programs, CBO estimates this provision would increase direct spending by $4.1 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

- The bill would appropriate $3.0 billion for the College Access and Completion Innovation Fund. Based on the spending patterns of similar programs, CBO estimates these provisions would increase direct spending by $3.0 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

- H.R. 3221 would extend through 2019 the current direct appropriation of $255 million per year for grants to Historically Black Colleges and Universities and Minority Serving Institutions that expires in 2009 under current law. CBO estimates this provision would increase direct spending by $2.2 billion over the next 10 years.

In addition, the bill would amend an existing program for providing education benefits to veterans (as described below).

Supplemental Education Grants for Veterans. Section 106 would require the Department of Education to create a supplemental grant program for certain veterans who are eligible for education benefits under the Post-9/11 GI Bill. Under the new GI Bill, the highest amount of in-state tuition charged at a public institution in a given state constitutes the maximum tuition benefit that the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) can pay in that state. In addition, VA will pay for student fees up to the highest amount charged in that state. Under the proposed grant program, supplemental funding would be available to veterans attending private colleges and universities in states where the benefit amount for tuition is low compared to other states. The dollar amount of each grant would equal the difference between the highest fees charged at a public institution in the state where the individual is attending school and the fees charged at the private institution the individual is attending.

Based on information from VA, CBO estimates that approximately 25,000 veterans would be eligible for those grants each year and that the average value of the grants would grow from about $9,000 in 2010 to $14,000 in 2019. Thus, CBO estimates that the grant program would increase direct spending by the Department of Education by $2.9 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

That increase in spending would be partially offset by reduced spending by VA. Under the Post-9/11 GI Bill, veterans attending schools participating in the Yellow Ribbon Program are eligible to receive an additional contribution from VA (which is matched by the school) to help cover the cost of tuition and fees at more expensive schools. The grant program in the bill would cover much of the cost of high tuition and fees for eligible veterans at private institutions, decreasing the amount that VA would pay as a matching contribution for the Yellow Ribbon Program. Under the bill, CBO estimates that direct spending by VA would decrease by $1.1 billion over the 2010–2019 period. On net, CBO estimates that this proposal would increase direct spending for veterans education benefits by $1.9 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

Spending subject to appropriation

H.R. 3221 also would make several changes to discretionary spending. CBO has not completed an estimate of all the effects on discretionary spending under the bill, but we have estimated the bulk of such costs. The biggest increases in discretionary spending would stem from changes to the direct loan and Pell grant programs.

Administration of Direct Loans. As mentioned above, most of the costs for administering loans in the FFEL Program are mandatory, while administrative costs in the direct loan program are mostly discretionary. Based on information about contracts for administering the FFEL program and consistent with projected loan volume, CBO estimates that eliminating new lending in the FFEL program and shifting the projected volume to the direct loan program would increase discretionary spending for administrative costs by $7.2 billion over the 2010–2019 period.

Federal Pell Grant Program. In 2009, CBO estimates that the discretionary costs for Pell grants will total about $22.8 billion.

CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 3221 would increase discretionary spending for the Pell grants by $6.3 billion over the 2010–2019 period, subject to appropriation of the necessary amounts. Those increased costs stem mostly from changes made to the needs analysis formulas and eligibility calculations, which are described in greater detail under the subheading “Federal Student Loan Programs” in the “Direct Spending” section.

Intergovernmental and private-sector impact: H.R. 3221 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA. Institutions of higher education and public school systems would benefit from grants authorized under the bill. Any costs or requirements associated with those grant programs would be incurred voluntarily as conditions of federal assistance.

Estimate prepared by: Federal Costs: Federal Student Loan and Grant Programs: Deborah Kalcevic and Justin Humphrey; Veterans Education Programs: Camille Woodland; Impact on State, Local, and Tribal Governments: Burke Doherty; Impact on the Private Sector: Nabeel Alsalam.

Estimate approved by: Peter H. Fontaine, Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

XIII. STATEMENT OF GENERAL PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

In accordance with clause 3(c) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives, the goal of H.R. 3221 is to reform the federal student loan program, provide for modernization, renovation and repair of public school facilities, enhance early learning, and strengthen community colleges. The Committee expects the Secretary of Education to comply with H.R. 3221 and implement the changes to the law in accordance with these stated goals.

XIV. CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY STATEMENT

Under clause 3(d)(1) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives, the Committee must include a statement citing the specific powers granted to Congress in the Constitution to enact the law proposed by H.R. 3221. The Committee believes that the amendments made by this bill are within Congress’ authority under Article I, section 8, clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution.

XV. COMMITTEE ESTIMATE

Clause 3(d)(2) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison of the costs that would be incurred in carrying out H.R. 3221. The Committee expects to file, in the appropriate place, the cost estimate of the bill prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act upon receipt.

XVI. CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

(1) AVAILABILITY AND ALLOCATIONS.—There are hereby made available, from funds made available for loans made under part D, not to exceed $6,000,000,000 of annual loan authority for award year 2010–2011 and each succeeding award year, to be allocated as follows:

(B) The Secretary shall allocate not more than 1/4 of such funds for each award year by allocating to each participating institution an amount equal to the low tuition incentive amount of the institution, as determined in accordance with subsection (d).

(C) The Secretary shall allocate not more than 1/4 of such funds for each award year by allocating to each participating institution an amount which bears the same ratio to the funds allocated under this subparagraph as the ratio determined in accordance with subsection (e) for the calculation of the Federal Pell Grant and degree recipient amount of the institution.

(2) NO FUNDS TO NON-PARTICIPATING INSTITUTIONS.—The Secretary shall not make funds available under this subsection to any eligible institution that is not a participating institution. The adjusted self-help need amount (determined in accordance with subsection (c)) of an eligible institution that is not a participating institution shall not be made available to any other institution.

(1) USE OF BASE SELF-HELP NEED AMOUNTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraphs (2), (3), and (4), the adjusted self-help need amount of each eligible institution shall be the institution's base self-help need amount, which is the sum of—

(i) 25 percent of the average cost of attendance with respect to such eligible student; or

(ii) $5,500.

(C) GRADUATE AND PROFESSIONAL STUDENT SELF-HELP NEED.—To determine the self-help need of an institution's eligible graduate and professional students, the Secretary shall determine the sum of each eligible graduate and professional student's average cost of attendance for the second preceding award year less each such student's expected family contribution (computed in accordance with part F) for such second preceding award year, except that, for each such eligible graduate and professional student, the amount computed by such subtraction shall not be less than zero or more than $8,000.

(2) RATABLE REDUCTION ADJUSTMENTS.—If the sum of the base self-help need amounts of all eligible institutions for an award year as determined under paragraph (1) exceeds $\frac{1}{2}$ of the annual loan authority under subsection (b) for such award year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce the base self-help need amounts of all eligible institutions until the sum of such amounts is equal to the amount that is $\frac{1}{2}$ of the annual loan authority under subsection (b).

(3) REQUIRED MINIMUM AMOUNT.—Notwithstanding paragraph (2), the adjusted self-help need amount of each eligible institution shall not be less than the average of the institution's total principal amount of loans made under this part for each of the 5 most recent award years.

(4) ADDITIONAL ADJUSTMENTS.—If the Secretary determines that a ratable reduction under paragraph (2) results in the adjusted self-help need amount of any eligible institution being reduced below the minimum amount required under paragraph (3), the Secretary shall—

(A) for each institution for which the minimum amount under paragraph (3) is not satisfied, increase the adjusted self-help need amount to the amount of the required minimum under such subparagraph; and

(B) ratably reduce the adjusted self-help need amounts of all eligible institutions not described in subparagraph (A) until the sum of the adjusted self-help need amounts of all eligible institutions is equal to the amount that is $\frac{1}{2}$ of the annual loan authority under subsection (b).

(d) LOW TUITION INCENTIVE AMOUNT.—

(A) the total amount, if any (but not less than zero), by which—

(i) the average tuition and required fees for the institution's sector for the second preceding award year; exceeds

(ii) the tuition and required fees for the second preceding award year for each undergraduate and graduate student attending the institution who had financial need (as determined under part F); plus

(ii) the total amount for the second preceding award year, if any, by which—

(I) the tuition and required fees of each such student with such financial need; exceeds

(II) the average tuition and required fees for the institution's sector.

(2) RATABLE REDUCTION.—If the sum of the low tuition incentive amounts of all participating institutions for an award year as determined under paragraph (1) exceeds $\frac{1}{4}$ of the annual loan authority under subsection (b) for such award year, the Secretary shall ratably reduce the low tuition incentive amounts of all participating institutions until the sum of such amounts is equal to the amount that is $\frac{1}{4}$ of the annual loan authority under subsection (b).

(e) FEDERAL PELL GRANT AND DEGREE RECIPIENT AMOUNT.—For purposes of subsection (b)(1)(C), the Secretary shall determine the Federal Pell Grant and degree recipient amount for each participating institution for each award year, by calculating for each such institution the ratio of—

(1) the number of students who, during the most recent year for which data are available, obtained an associate's degree or other postsecondary degree from such participating institution and, prior to obtaining such degree, received a Federal Pell Grant for attendance at any institution of higher education; to

(2) the sum of the number of students who, during the most recent year for which data are available, obtained an associate's degree or other postsecondary degree from each participating institution and, prior to obtaining such degree, received a Federal Pell Grant for attendance at any institution of higher education.

XVIII. MINORITY AND SUPPLEMENTAL VIEWS

SUPPLEMENTAL VIEWS OF REPRESENTATIVES PHIL HARE AND DAVID LOEBSACK

We support the majority views. In particular, we agree that our nation's community colleges are essential to driving economic recovery. We write separately to ensure this legislation provides the necessary support to all our nation's colleges, especially those located in remote areas of the country, in order to fully address the economic crisis. We believe the focus of the competitive grant programs authorized in Title V for community college reform should be to prepare individuals for skilled occupations that are in high-demand in their local area or region. Therefore, we would like to clarify that the Committee intends for "high-demand industries" to be defined and determined in accordance with the workforce needs of local and regional economies, which may differ within the state or between states. In order to slow down and eventually stop the brain drain prevalent in rural America and many other areas of the country, the objective is to train and educate individuals for skilled professions of need within their communities, rather than provide educational opportunities for individuals to then seek jobs elsewhere.

We also agree that the focus of the grant programs should be on moving individuals into skilled occupations with family-supporting wages. However, the definition of "high-wage" also varies between regions and we do not want to inadvertently restrict the colleges located in areas with low to moderate industry from accessing this grant funding. With one-quarter of all Americans living in rural communities, rural America presents the most promising area of economic growth in the country.

In addition, we recognize that individuals with lower skills may need additional time to achieve skilled or "high-wage" jobs. To address this we believe that when considering high-wage or skilled occupations, the Secretary and the states must also look at occupations that may be reasonably expected to lead to such high-wages or skilled occupations.

Finally, in order to better ensure that the community colleges located in more remote areas of the country have the same access to federal funds as schools in urban centers, it is important that we have the data to understand where the money is being spent. Therefore, it is the Committee's intention for the Institute of Education Sciences (IES) in its evaluation of all the grantees who receive monies for community college reform to indicate whether the grantee is located in either a rural or urban area. The data collected from this evaluation would be invaluable to understanding where the grant money is going, what geographic regions are impacted and how we can better distribute resources or structure programs in the future to ensure that all our nation's students have access to the same educational and workforce opportunities.

PHIL HARE.
DAVE LOEBSACK.

MINORITY VIEWS

Committee Republicans are committed to maintaining the successful and robust public-private partnership that has provided low-cost and easily accessible college loans to students well for over 40 years. We have been, and remain, supportive of efforts to increase the maximum Pell Grant award and simplify the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). However, we believe this bill takes the wrong approach to accomplish these goals. H.R. 3221, the so-called Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 2009, turns sharply in the wrong direction by eliminating the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) program, spending less than half of the purported “savings” on increases to Pell Grants, and raiding student aid to fund pet projects like school construction, early childhood programs, and new initiatives for community colleges.

ANOTHER TAKEOVER BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

Committee Republicans believe H.R. 3221 represents another attempt by President Obama and Congressional Democrats to orchestrate a federal government takeover of a private industry. The federal government has already succeeded in taking ownership of the automobile industry and controlling the actions of the financial industry. With this bill, the Department of Education, an agency intended to ensure that every child has the opportunity to learn, will now become one of the country’s largest banks—originating more than $100 billion in federal student loans in the next few years.

In justifying this latest government takeover, Democrats claim the FFEL program is on “life support” and therefore must be eliminated. However, it cannot be ignored that Democrats have been trying to eliminate this program since 1993, when President Clinton put into place the Direct Loan program. What Committee Democrats refuse to acknowledge is that the FFEL program has been a stable source of private capital for more than 40 years. Private capital has temporarily dried up in the FFEL program, much like it has in the rest of the financial services sector. Yet student lending is the only sector of the financial services industry being targeted for a permanent government takeover.

Last Congress, the Committee worked in a bipartisan manner to pass H.R. 5715, the Ensuring Continued Access to Student Loans Act (ECASLA). This is one of the only economic stabilization bills that is working and is proven to save the federal government money. In fact, according to the President’s fiscal year 2010 budget, this program will save the federal government $6.7 billion in fiscal year 2010 alone. Under ECASLA, the FFEL program successfully originated approximately $70 billion in loans and every student who needed a loan received one during the 2008–2009 academic year. Congress has passed other bills to provide liquidity to the financial marketplace or help stimulate the economy. Those bills, however, are not proving to be as successful as ECASLA and, in most cases have simply driven the country deeper into debt.

Committee Democrats also fail to mention that the Direct Loan program was once on “life support.” In 1997, the program collapsed and was unable to make consolidation loans to borrowers. At that time, Congress did not seek to end the program. Rather, Committee Republicans led the effort to pass emergency legislation to bail out the Direct Loan program to ensure that borrowers could receive consolidation loans.

Committee Democrats also claim the private sector is dying because most student loans being originated in the FFEL program today are being made with federal capital using the authority provided to the Secretary of Education in ECASLA. At the same time, Committee Democrats claim their plan will maintain the program’s public-private partnership by permitting limited participation of certain private sector entities. However, both of these claims are false when the facts are examined. Despite the global credit crunch, there continues to be robust participation by the private sector under the FFEL program. There are still more than 1,500 active lenders willing to make student loans, including local lenders like the Navy Federal Credit Union, University Federal Credit Union, and Banc First, and approximately 40 percent of total FFEL loan volume is still being made using private capital.

There are also another 50 private and nonprofit loan servicers and more than 30 guaranty agencies that provide valuable services in their respective states and employ more than 30,000 private sector workers. By comparison, the U.S. Department of Education currently uses one servicer for the entire nation. While the Department recently announced that it would expand this contract to four servicers—a 400% increase from the monopoly that it was employing until recently—this move is a poor representation of the public-private enterprise that has been effective for both students and institutions. Even the few private sector participants that are able to maintain a limited role in student lending will not be able to use the creative, personalized approaches available today. They will simply be administering a one-size-fits-all approach dictated by the federal government where market competition and effective customer service is all but eliminated.

FFEL IS BETTER FOR STUDENTS AND INSTITUTIONS

Committee Republicans believe H.R. 3221 ignores the voices of the federal student loan consumers—the students who use the loans and the institutions that must administer the programs. Institutions have made their opinions known. When President Clinton first created the Direct Loan program in 1993, the federal government paid institutions a $10 fee for each loan, something that is classified as an “illegal inducement” under the FFEL program, and regularly pressured college presidents to join the DL program. Despite all of this pressure, the Direct Loan program only captured a total of 34 percent of loan volume at its peak in 1998. Since that time, loan volume has been around 20 percent. There has been a slight uptick in volume recently due to the global economic crisis that has affected every financial industry, including the student loan industry. However, even with the crisis and increased pressure from the Administration and Democrats in Congress, 4,400 schools, or 72 percent, remain in the FFEL program.

These schools will be forced out of FFEL under the Democrats' plan, regardless of their wishes or ability to make such a conversion. In fact, the Committee heard from institutions as recently as the day before the mark up when a group of 15 financial aid advisors released their ideas for an alternative proposal which focused on institutional choice of loan delivery system, customized default prevention and financial literacy programs, and uninterrupted loan access for students and parents while still avoiding significant administrative and financial burdens for institutions.¹ When it comes to health care, Democrats like to promise that, ". . . if you like your plan, you can keep it." It's too bad they don't feel the same way about student loan programs.

The demands of students and institutions within the FFEL program have sparked fierce competition among loan providers and servicers. The competition has led to lower prices for students and institutions and innovation in loan delivery, processing, and servicing. The competition and innovation in the current FFEL program has also led to repayment incentives, interest rate reductions, fee reductions, loan forgiveness, and other financial benefits for students. Loan providers also offer broader benefits, such as college planning services, financial literacy education, default aversion, and FAFSA assistance, among other value-added services. The innovations generated by competition cannot be overlooked, even by the Department of Education, which has followed the private sector's lead and put in place many of these innovations to improve the Direct Loan program.

Committee Republicans have heard from colleges and universities that the Direct Loan program puts additional administrative burdens on schools. Switching from the FFEL program to the DL program is not as easy as flipping a switch. Schools must ensure that their basic software can work with the DL system. Many schools have "homegrown" software that has been specifically developed to run the schools' programs. These institutions will have to overhaul their software systems since that work will not be done by a software vendor. Institutions will also have to notify parents and students that they will have to sign new loan agreements and will have to answer questions about the new loan products. Some institutions, such as graduate schools, do not have access to the C.O.D. system that is used for loan origination, so that system will need to be added and staff will need to be trained. Finally, websites and all financial aid materials will need to be updated. This does not even take into account the number of staff from different departments that may need to stop their current tasks to help with the implementation or the projects currently underway at the institution that will have to be placed on hold to undergo the systems update necessary for the implementation of the Direct Loan program.

In talking to institutions that have been in and out of the Direct Loan program, Committee Republicans have heard that it could take anywhere between four and nine months for a large institution, with plenty of staff, to be ready to issue its first loan. In addition, we have heard that the cost to institutions of switching programs was $240,000 at one institution and $400,000 at another institution. Dr. Harris Pastides, the President of University of South Carolina, provided more specific details in a letter he sent. He stated,

Because of the type of software developed specifically for our current computer system, our transition process is not simply a matter of purchasing and rapidly installing an 'off the shelf' program. Transition to direct lending would require an investment of well over a million dollars and a timeline for implementation exceeding one year. . . . To add the cost of converting our system to direct lending without any help would be tantamount to another budget reduction for us at this time. Ironically, this would increase costs and negate much of the positive impact of potential increases to financial aid generated by proposed policy improvements. (Emphasis added).²

Gaining eligibility for the Direct Loan program and being ready to operate the program on an institution-wide basis are two very different issues that have been ignored by Congressional Democrats in their zeal to nationalize the student loan industry.

FFEL IS BETTER FOR TAXPAYERS

Not only is the FFEL program the program of choice for students and institutions, it is good for taxpayers, too. Industry participants provide the capital up front and then share some of the risk in case the borrower defaults. Democrats may scoff that FFEL providers shoulder only three percent of the risk, but this figure represents billions of dollars that the taxpayer is not on the hook for this year. It's also a substantial amount when you realize that, under the Direct Loan program, the taxpayer is on the hook for the entire amount if a student does not repay his or her loan. The FFEL program also leverages about $70 billion in private capital each year when the financial markets are working properly. Committee Democrats want to borrow that $70 billion directly from China and our other creditors. Driving up the national debt has long-term consequences, whether it is reducing our nation's credit rating, inadvertently driving up costs, or putting us at the mercy of emerging super-powers on the other side of the globe.

Committee Democrats claim that the FFEL program simply provides profits to banks and that the Direct Loan program saves the government money. However, the facts show that the federal government has been receiving subsidies from lenders for the past several years. Since April 2006, lenders have paid $3.2 billion to the federal government. Additionally, while there are a number of factors that lead to the scoring differences between the two federal student loan programs. One undeniable factor is that a significant percentage of the "savings" in the Direct Loan program are due to the difference between the government's low cost of borrowing funds and the borrower interest rate. Committee Republicans have concerns about the federal government serving as a profit-making bank at the expense of low- and middle-income students.

Committee Democrats also claim they are making good on their promise to lower interest rates for students in H.R. 3221, but the facts show otherwise. At the beginning of the 110th Congress, Democrats rushed H.R. 5, the College Student Relief Act, through the House. That legislation would have reduced interest rates on student loans by half, from 6.8 percent to 3.4 percent, for all students. Immediately after the bill was introduced, Committee Democrats started to dilute their promise by scaling back interest rates from 6.8 percent to 3.4 percent over five years, but then allowing the interest rate to jump back up to 6.8 percent in 2012. At the time, The Chronicle of Higher Education reported that Democrats intended to make the 3.4 percent interest rate permanent in the future.³ Additionally, Inside Higher Ed reported that, “Democratic staffers explained that budget rules and fiscal realities required that compromise. They also said that they fully expected to find money in the intervening years to make the cut permanent.”⁴ The bill was never considered in the Senate.

Through the budget reconciliation process that year, Democrats were able to pass H.R. 2669, the College Cost Reduction and Access Act—legislation to, among other things, reduce student loan interest rates. But it was an even more diluted version of their original plan and only scaled back interest rates from 6.8 percent to 3.4 percent over four years for undergraduate students receiving subsidized loans. The legislation retained the 2012 cliff, resulting in the overall bill representing a negligible benefit for most students.

H.R. 3221 officially breaks any promises that Committee Democrats made to students when they committed to permanently lower interest rates; moreover, it ensures the federal government continues to make a profit off of the unnecessarily high level of interest being paid by students in the Direct Loan program. The bill changes the interest rate in 2012 to a variable interest rate, capped at 6.8 percent. Under this formula, it is projected that students will see an increase in their interest rates in 2012 (5.21 percent) and 2013 (6.26 percent) and will be right back up at the 6.8 percent cap in 2014.

MASSIVE ENTITLEMENT SPENDING

Committee Democrats are not only forcing students to spend more under their bill, but the American taxpayers will also bear the brunt of almost $80 billion in entitlement spending at a time when the national debt is more than $11 trillion and the deficit is estimated to reach $1.8 trillion this year alone. Historically, entitlement programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, or programs under the Child Nutrition Act were created to provide income benefits to individual citizens. Instead of recognizing this important policy, this bill spends billions of dollars in mandatory, en-

³Burd, Stephen. “Democrats’ Plan to Slash the Interest Rate for Student Loans Draws Criticism,” The Chronicle of Higher Education, January 5, 2007. The article stated, “House Democrats briefly considered making the interest-rate cut for only one year. Then they hoped to make the cut permanent as part of legislation to renew the Higher Education Act, the law governing most federal student-aid programs, which they hope to consider later this year.”

⁴Lederman, Doug. “Political Maneuvering on Student Loans,” Inside Higher Education, January 17, 2007

titlement funding on the Committee Democrats' favored political and policy causes.

While millions of families are struggling to pay their monthly bills and are thinking about which of their expenses to trim, Democrats in Congress are on a huge spending spree that will saddle our children and grandchildren with billions of debt. This bill, which Committee Democrats have portrayed as legislation to improve college access, actually contains: $6.6 billion for school construction—both at the elementary and secondary and higher education levels; $8 billion for an “early learning” initiative from birth to age 5; and $7 billion for community colleges, which may undermine our current job training system. There are major flaws with what the Democrats are proposing on school construction, early childhood education, and community colleges, but the larger issue is how they are pushing these proposals. Committee Democrats are putting forward a proposal to raid student aid funds and spend those entitlement dollars to bolster the funding of programs which should be within the control of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees in Congress.

CONCLUSION

Committee Republicans are concerned that Democrats are rushing through a risky scheme to take over the private student loan industry, regardless of the negative consequences for students and institutions. We are also very concerned that the proposed bill takes the “savings” that will result from eliminating the FFEL program and uses those funds to create a number of new programs that are not targeted toward individuals but rather toward favored political constituencies and causes. It is for these many reasons that Committee Republicans strongly oppose H.R. 3221 and urge Members of Congress to defeat this bill.

MINORITY VIEWS
A BROKEN PROCESS WITH COSTLY CONSEQUENCES

INTRODUCTION

Through this grossly distorted process, the Democratic Majority will attempt to force onto the American public a sweeping government takeover of health care without a shred of bipartisan support, and in spite of opposition by a majority of the people Congress has been elected to serve. They will do so by twisting budgetary and legislative procedures to win a political victory at any cost, by any means – because they cannot do it any other way. The arrogance, the paternalism, the condescension of this action are breathtaking.

The key factors in this extraordinary step are the following:

- A Flawed Health Care Bill. The legislation being driven through Congress will lead to further government intrusion in the doctor-patient relationship. It will cause costs to rise and quality to deteriorate, and inevitably lead to rationing of health care, one of Americans' most valued and personal services.
- Worsening a Fiscal Crisis. Making all this worse, these contorted procedures are being used to expand Federal entitlements when the government already faces a potentially disastrous fiscal path – one that threatens to overwhelm the budget and smother the economy – from programs that already exist.
- Extraordinary Abuse of Procedure. The Majority is doing all this by distorting budget reconciliation in unprecedented ways. The process has never been used to force through a government expansion of this magnitude – leveraged on a token savings amount, in the face of trillion-dollar deficits, and on a deliberate party-line vote.
- Starting Over. There is broad agreement on the need to reform health care. But what is needed is a different vision of how to meet the problems in health care, one that truly addresses the central problem of cost while maintaining a sturdy safety net for those who need it. Such approaches have been available, and still are – and they could lead to a truly bipartisan consensus on reforms that would address the most important and widely acknowledged problems.

A FLAWED HEALTH CARE BILL

Ideology, Not Health Care

From the beginning, the Democratic Majority envisioned a centralized, controlling government role in the provision and financing of health care. They failed to focus sufficiently on the underlying problem – unconstrained growth in health costs, which puts health insurance out of reach for many. In the end, their ideology leads to an inevitable chain of additional government mandates, spending, and taxes. The result is that even without the so-called “public option,” their health care bill is an outright government takeover of health care. Some examples:

- The measure creates a Health Insurance Rate Authority, a Washington-controlled price-setting board. This will usurp State governments’ role in regulating insurance and premiums, and will further smother the normal market forces that would otherwise encourage innovation and cost-saving efficiencies. It also ignores the real cost drivers in health care: the third-party payment system, which promotes overconsumption; the rising costs of health care services; and the payment mechanisms that encourage doctors to provide more services, not necessarily better outcomes.
- It lets Washington decide what kind of health insurance will be available. The proposal gives the Secretary of Health and Human Services [HHS], and a new Health Benefits Advisory Committee – an unelected group of Federal bureaucrats – unprecedented Washington-centered power to create and change the requirements for “acceptable coverage.” This will in turn restrict competition, stifle innovation, and limit the kinds of coverage that will be available to Americans.
- It gives the U.S. Preventive Services Task Force (the group that recently made the controversial recommendations regarding mammograms) new powers to further limit patient choice, allowing the Secretary of Health and Human Services to unilaterally deny payment for prevention services contrary to Task Force recommendations.
- It empowers a “comparative effectiveness board,” created by last year’s “stimulus” bill, that will restrict providers’ decisions about what treatments are best for their patients.

Gaming the Budget Estimates

The Senate bill is the base legislation for the Majority’s health care strategy. It does not control costs. It does not reduce deficits. It adds a new health care entitlement at a time when Congress and the President have no idea how to finance the entitlements that already exist.

The Majority claims the legislation reduces deficits by $118 billion over 10 years, as scored by the Congressional Budget Office [CBO]. But CBO can only score the legislative language presented to it – and in this case the language was contorted to produce a misleading outcome. The Democrats have hidden the true costs of their bill behind a wall of heavy blue smoke and a maze of mirrors. Some examples:

- The bill imposes 10 years of taxes and 10 years of Medicare cuts to offset just 6 years of spending. If the taxes and Medicare reductions were matched year for year with the spending, the real cost of the bill would be $2.3 trillion.¹

- The Medicare reductions, totaling nearly a half trillion dollars over 10 years, are not used to enhance the program's solvency, but instead to finance an entirely new entitlement. The administration's chief Medicare actuary has said up to 20 percent of Medicare providers may go bankrupt or stop taking Medicare patients as a result. Millions of seniors who have chosen Medicare Advantage will lose the coverage they now enjoy.²
- It claims $53 billion in "savings" from increased Social Security payroll taxes. But these revenues already are committed to future Social Security beneficiaries – so either they are being double-counted, or the authors of the bill do not intend to pay the benefits.³

² Memorandum from the Office of the Chief Actuary, Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, 8 January 2010.

³ Senate Budget Committee Republican Staff, op. cit.

- It takes $70 billion intended as premiums for the long-term care insurance provisions – the Community Living Assistance Services and Supports [CLASS] Act – and counts those as offsets too.⁴ The Senate Budget Committee Chairman called this “a ponzi scheme that would make Bernie Madoff proud.”⁵
- It authorizes approximately $70 billion in new discretionary spending, according to the Congressional Budget Office – an amount not considered in the estimated cost of the bill.

When the gimmicks and double-counting are stripped away, the health care legislation increases the deficit by $460 billion over the first 10 years and $1.4 trillion over the second 10 years.⁶ But that does not count rescinding the effects of the sustainable growth rate formula – the so-called “doc fix” – which is estimated to add $371 billion to the health care overhaul, according to the administration’s Office of Management and Budget.⁷ The Majority decided simply to remove this provision and deal with it in a stand-alone bill.

But the most damning assessment – again from Medicare’s chief actuary – is that the legislation fails in what should have been its most important task: to slow the growth of health care spending. Instead, it bends the cost curve upward, increasing national health spending by $222 billion above current estimates.⁸

Student Loans

Further abusing the reconciliation process, the Majority has added to this vehicle a government takeover of all Federal college loans, using the projected savings – assuming they materialize – to expand government now.

The legislation, titled the Student Aid and Financial Responsibility Act [SAFRA] abolishes the 40-year-old Federal Family Education Loan Program [FFELP] as of 1 July 2010. FFELP is a guaranteed lending program, and the largest source of student aid, that has leveraged hundreds of billions of dollars in private capital to help students go to college. Under SAFRA, the program will be replaced by 100-percent government-run lending. The Direct Loan [DL] program will issue and profit from all new loans, which will be financed with Treasury borrowing. The bill then spends about half of its estimated savings toward increasing Pell Grant vouchers, and uses the remaining amounts to create a number of new entitlement programs that do not directly benefit students and will require future spending by the Federal and State governments.

Proponents claim SAFRA will reduce the deficit, but this is an illusion created through the use of budget gimmicks.

First, under the original cost estimate, SAFRA claims to save $87 billion, and then spends slightly more than $79 billion, yielding ostensible deficit reduction of $7.8 billion.⁹ But this does not take into account the $13.5 billion worth of increased administrative costs (for both the Direct Loan and Pell Grant programs) that the bill shifts to the discretionary category, where the CBO cannot count them as direct spending. When this gimmick is removed, the bill increases the deficit by at least $5.7 billion.

Second, SAFRA's claimed savings are highly uncertain. Recently, CBO released an updated estimate that reduced SAFRA's savings by $20 billion, from $87 billion to $67 billion,¹⁰ and increased the estimated cost of the Pell Grant add-on by $16 billion.¹¹ It is unclear whether these updated estimates will be applied to the legislation brought to the House floor.

But even more disconcerting is the way CBO was required to calculate SAFRA's savings in the first place. Unless otherwise directed by Congress, CBO must calculate loan savings under the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, which requires "scoring" government loans using a simple net present value calculation based on a discount rate. This does not take into account "market risk" – the risk that the value of the loan will decrease due to changes in market factors.

Incorporating market risk to cost estimates more accurately reflects how much a loan program will generate. That is why Congress started including the effect in recent legislation dealing with Federal loans, such as the Troubled Asset Relief Program, among others. SAFRA's authors did not direct CBO to account for market risk when obtaining an official score for the legislation. Nevertheless, CBO noted in a letter to

Senator Gregg that if market risk were applied to SAFRA, it would reduce claimed savings by $22 billion over 10 years.¹²

In an April 2009 letter to the House and Senate Budget Committees, a former Office of Management and Budget director, a bipartisan group of former Budget Committee Members, and a former staff director for the Senate Budget Committee rightly warned: “Using the reconciliation process to spend tens of billions in the next few years under the assumption that future offsetting savings will materialize seems fiscally irresponsible due to the limitation of budget-scoring in this area, and the inherent unpredictability of the projections.”¹³

Beyond adding to deficits and debt, there are additional concerns with SAFRA. First, eliminating the current guaranteed lending program will result in the loss of tens of thousands of private-sector jobs associated with the industry, during a period of high unemployment. Meanwhile, many schools have expressed concern that they will be unable to transition in time to meet SAFRA’s 1 July 2010, deadline, which is likely to deprive some students of financial support.

Further, because the Federal Government will have to borrow the money to supply the new volume of Direct Loans, the shift will cause a dramatic increase in debt at a time when the country is already taking on dangerous levels of debt to pay for historic levels of spending. If loan origination volumes rise as expected to $100 billion per year, Federal borrowing could grow to over $1 trillion over 10 years.

The advantage of the FFELP federally guaranteed student loan option is that, except for extreme circumstances, it uses private capital. It also provides students with choice and ever improving service, a feature some complain is lacking with the Direct Loan program.

WORSENING A FISCAL CRISIS

The new $1-trillion entitlement in the health care legislation is being heaped onto a potentially disastrous fiscal path already facing the Federal Government – one that threatens to overwhelm the budget and smother the economy. To summarize:

- The Current Fiscal Path is Unsustainable. Federal deficits are projected to reach unprecedented levels, and if reforms are not made soon, the Federal debt will rise uncontrollably, with painful economic consequences. Untenable tax rates will be needed to service a huge and ever-growing debt, and high interest rates will be required to attract new borrowing.

¹² CBO letter to Senator Gregg, 15 March 2010.

¹³ Letter from former Budget Committee Ranking Member Frenzel et. al., 24 April 2009.

- Entitlement Programs are the Root of the Problem. Over the next 75 years, Medicare and Social Security are promising benefits equal to $43 trillion (in 2009 dollars) more than they can finance as currently structured – a gap often called the programs’ “unfunded liabilities.” Medicare is responsible for 88 percent (or $38.1 trillion) of the unfunded entitlement costs, versus about 12 percent (or $5 trillion) for Social Security. In the next 5 years, the combined unfunded liabilities for these two programs will increase by an estimated $14 trillion, to $57 trillion. Medicaid is projected to grow by 23 percent this year (partly due to “stimulus” funding), and 11 percent next year, suffocating State budgets.

- This Course Threatens Both the Budget and the Economy. Due to their drain on economic resources, the spending and debt levels now unfolding will dry up the prosperity of future generations and lead to declining standards of living.¹⁴ This will further deprive the government of resources needed to support its commitments.
- The President’s Budget Worsens the Problem. The vast spending ambitions in the President’s budget add to the problem, doubling the debt over the next 5 years, and tripling it over the next 10 years, compared with 2008 levels. By the end of the decade, the debt as a share of the economy approaches levels of the 1940s, reaching 90 percent of gross domestic product [GDP]. This approaches the 1046 high-water mark of 108.7 percent of GDP. Interest payments become one of the largest spending categories in the budget, more than quadrupling over the next decade – from $209 billion this year to $916 billion in 2020.

¹⁴ CBO has concluded in several publications that skyrocketing debt levels resulting under current policies will have devastating economic consequences. See pages 16 through 18 of CBO’s The Long-Term Budget Outlook, June 2009.

The President's answer is to hand off the problem to a "Fiscal Commission," which may or may not agree on solutions to recommend. But before the commission reports in December, the President and Democratic Majority are seeking to add their new trillion-dollar health care entitlement.

AN EXTRAORDINARY ABUSE

With all the fiscal and economic hazards this legislation invites, the method of pushing it forward is equally troubling. While budget and legislative process are complicated, it is critical to understand the nature and magnitude of the abuse taking place.

Proponents have tried to portray this undertaking a simple and not uncommon use of the budget reconciliation process. It is nothing of the kind. This is an extraordinary contortion, employed to force through sweeping changes in health care delivery and financing that lack adequate support in either the public or the Congress.

- Nothing Typical. Reconciliation originally was intended to expedite changes in spending and tax laws to make them align – to reconcile them – with levels in the budget resolution. Over time, it came to be used mainly to reduce budget deficits or, more broadly, to limit the growth of government.

The process has never been used to push through a $1-trillion expansion of government, to seize control of one-sixth of the U.S. economy, and to reshape the way all Americans receive and pay for their health care. Nor has it ever leveraged such a vast social change based on a token $1 billion in savings over 5 years¹⁵ in the face of a $1.5-trillion budget deficit this year alone – and doing so on a deliberate party-line vote, when the only bipartisanship lies in opposition to the legislation in question.

Proponents have tried to defend their actions by citing previous instances in which reconciliation bills have contained substantive policy changes. But the comparisons weaken upon examination. For example, the Welfare Reform legislation of 1996 was bipartisan and reduced spending by $54 billion over 6 years. The 1997 creation of the State Children's Health Insurance Program was part of the bipartisan Balanced Budget Act, which reduced Federal spending by $198 billion over 5 years.

¹⁵ Section 202(a) of the budget resolution for fiscal year 2010 (S.Con.Res. 13) instructed the Committees on Ways and Means, Energy and Commerce, and Education and Labor to report legislation by 15 October 2009 reducing the deficit by $1 billion for fiscal year 2009-14, ostensibly for health care reform. Under section 202(b), the Education and Labor Committee was instructed to achieve $1 billion in deficit reduction for fiscal year 2009-14, ostensibly for education. The same instructions were given to the Senate Committee on Finance and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

With respect to taxes, the first reconciliation bill reduced taxes by $6 billion (at a time when total spending was $332 billion, total revenue was $279 billion, and total gross domestic product was $1.6 trillion).¹⁶ Nor was either of the recent tax relief bills, in 2001 and 2003, used for such a vast expansion of government.

But even if one agreed that these prior cases were improper, none of them matched the scope and magnitude of this abuse. Further, as Senator Byrd has said: "Whatever abuses of the budget reconciliation process which have occurred in the past, or however many times the process has been twisted to achieve partisan ends does not justify the egregious violation done to the Senate's Constitutional purpose."¹⁷ Nor would it justify expanding on such abuses to this unprecedented degree.

- Mocking the Committee System. Never before has the House committee process been reduced to such a charade.

In response to their reconciliation instructions, two committees – Ways and Means, and Education and Labor – submitted thousands of pages of health care legislation to the Budget Committee, to be packaged and reported, as the process requires. (The Energy and Commerce Committee did not submit.)

Immediately after the Budget Committee's markup, however, all the health care provisions were to be stripped out and replaced with an entirely new bill, written by a handful of people under the cover of the Rules Committee. The new text will not consist of health care legislation, but will instead contain modifications to the Senate-passed health care bill, applicable after that measure is passed by the House. In other words, the health care portion of the bill that reaches the floor as a result of this process will bear no resemblance to the provisions reported by the committees of jurisdiction. It will not have gone through the reconciliation process per se; it will be reconciliation in form only. The Democratic Majority needs to do this because they cannot pass the Senate bill without securing votes through the back-room deal that this vehicle will carry.

It is common practice for the Committee on Rules to amend legislation before it reaches the floor. But this is a wholesale substitution. It renders the work of the committees of jurisdiction, and the Budget Committee, irrelevant.

¹⁷ Statement of Senator Byrd, 29 April 2009.

- Not a Small Adjustment. This is not just a simple “fixer” bill, or “sidecar,” either.¹⁸ It is the keystone on which the entire policy depends. If this process fails, the whole health care house of cards collapses.
- An Equally Convoluting Rule. Just as bizarre is the rule being contemplated for consideration of this legislation. The potential rule – fashioned by Rules Committee Chairwoman Slaughter – would “deem” passage of the Senate health care bill. At the same time, it will make in order consideration of the legislative language that will be substituted into this reconciliation vehicle, replacing the language the Budget Committee has reported.

There are several motivations for this. First is plausible deniability: the rule allows a kind of hands-off passage of the Senate bill with all its shortcomings – the “Louisiana Purchase,” the “Cornhusker Kickback,” and so on – while Members brand it merely a procedural vote, not a substantive one. The strategy will fail, of course: anyone who votes for the rule votes for the Senate bill – there is no getting around it. Further, it stands in direct contradiction to the Majority’s ostensible aim of seeking “a simple, up-or-down vote” on health care.

Second, tying the Senate bill together in a rule with the substitute “reconciliation” language is aimed at allowing Members to claim they passed the first only on the condition that it will be modified by the second. This too will fail, because it still provides no guarantee that the Senate will ever take up the reconciliation measure. Expecting Senators to be bound by a House rule is laughable, and would violate a critical constitutional principle: that each House determines its own rules.¹⁹

All this assumes that the “deeming” gambit is even a legitimate way to make a law. According to Article I, Section 7 of the Constitution, for a bill to become law it “shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate” and be “presented to the President of the United States” for signature or veto. There is no provision for legislation that is “deemed” to have passed by an indirect vote.²⁰

The bottom line is this: the House cannot pass the Senate bill on a straight up-or-down vote, and the Senate can no longer pass its own bill again; hence the House Majority has fashioned this extraordinary, unprecedented, and remarkably arrogant set of tactics to circumvent the regular order, and to win a political victory at any cost, by any means necessary.

AN IMPERIOUS MAJORITY

The Reason for Rules

It is also crucial to understand that the design of Congress's legislative procedures – including Senate rules that exist for good reason. They are intended to prevent an overzealous Majority from suppressing a Minority – and to protect the public from national laws and policies arrived at through haste.

Whatever its advantages as a budgetary tool, reconciliation's fast-track procedures²¹ clash with the Senate's constitutional role as a forum for thorough and thoughtful deliberation – a place intentionally designed to slow the creation of laws that will affect all Americans.²²

The Framers were well aware of the hazards of what Tocqueville termed the “tyranny of the majority,” and could trace the problem back to America's classical foundations. “If a majority be united by a common interest, the rights of the minority will be insecure,” Madison wrote.²³ Ironically, in this case it is not a majority of the people – most of whom now oppose this huge and sweeping government intrusion in their health care – but only the Majority in Congress, who are acting despite the people's will.

It demonstrates another of Madison's warnings: “A dependence on the people is, no doubt, the primary control on the government; but experience has taught mankind the necessity of auxiliary precautions.”²⁴ Indeed, the very existence of a bicameral legislature is designed to protect the governed, and Madison's commentary on this point was prescient:

It is a misfortune incident to republican government, though to a less degree than to other governments, that those who administer it may forget their obligations to their constituents to their constituents and prove unfaithful to their important trust. In this point of view a senate, as a second branch of the legislative assembly distinct from and dividing the power with a first, must be in all cases a salutary check on the government. It doubles the security to the people by requiring the concurrence of two distinct bodies in schemes of usurpation or perfidy, where the ambition or corruption of one would otherwise be sufficient.²⁵

This is why Senators are elected statewide (and presumably why, until 1913, they were chosen by State legislatures), and why each State has two: “No law or resolution can now be passed without the concurrence, first, of a majority of the people, and then of a majority of the States.”²⁶

All these are reasons why the violation of the reconciliation process – and the regular order of legislative procedures – is an alarming development, undertaken by a clearly desperate Majority. It is even worse considering the stakes: promoting a government takeover of health care – one of the most valued and personal services Americans have – and creating a new trillion-dollar entitlement that will accelerate the Nation’s march toward fiscal and economic decline.

Major Social Change by a Paper-Thin Margin

One of the strongest and most respected proponents of bipartisanship was the late Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan; but his views were not simplistic: he understood partisan debate had an appropriate place: “For the most part, I think you want the clash of ideas – you get the best from both that way.”²⁷ But major social legislation, Senator Moynihan believed, required broad consensus in both Congress and the public. David R. Gergen, writing a day after the Blair House health care “summit,” recently described the Senator’s views as they would apply to the current debate.

Moynihan, a Democrat, told me that there were two essential pre-requisites to passing major social reform in this country. The first, he said, was that landmark social legislation should be passed with significant, bipartisan support from both sides of the aisle – otherwise, there would always be trouble with it. He sent me the vote tallies to show how at least a half dozen or more Senators from the opposition party voted for big social initiatives stretching back to the New Deal – from Social Security in the 1930s, the civil rights bills of the mid-1960s, and Medicare and Medicaid bundled together in 1965.

²⁷ Speaking at a forum at The Center on Congress at Indiana University, aired on C-SPAN 16 February 2001.

Secondly, he said, landmark social legislation should enjoy solid support from the public before it is passed.²⁸

The current health care legislation, Mr. Gergen noted, passes neither test. Only one Republican supported the House bill, and he has since changed his mind. No Republicans voted for the Senate measure – not even the moderates who wanted to move it forward. Over the past year, public support has declined, to the point where most Americans oppose the legislation being pursued.

Mr. Gergen concludes: “I wish Pat Moynihan were at Blair House to whisper in the President’s ear.”²⁹

If this convoluted process succeeds, it will be unfortunate in two ways: first, by allowing this huge change in policy to be enacted; and second, by creating a perverse temptation for future Congresses, Republican or Democratic, to use it as a precedent for future legislation, including reconciliation.

STARTING OVER

There is broad agreement on the need to reform health care. Skyrocketing health care costs are driving families, businesses, and governments to the brink of bankruptcy – and leaving millions without adequate coverage. There is a need to address pre-existing conditions, to realign the incentives of insurance companies with patients and doctors, and to root out waste, fraud, and abuse.

But what is also needed is a different vision of how to meet the problems in health care, one that truly addresses the central problem of cost while maintaining a sturdy safety net for those who need it. Alternative approaches have been available, and still are – and they could lead to a truly bipartisan consensus on reforms that would address the most important and widely acknowledged problems.

When the House Majority brought its health care bill to the floor in November, the Republican Minority offered a substitute – a plan that would lower health care premiums; establish universal access to coverage for persons with pre-existing conditions; prevent insurers from unjustly cancelling policies; encourage small-business coverage; promote innovative State health plans; allow Americans to buy health insurance across State lines; enhance Health Savings Accounts; and reform malpractice law to prevent costly, frivolous lawsuits.³⁰

http://gopleader.gov/UploadedFiles/Summary_of_Republican_Alternative_Health_Care_plan_Updated_11-04-09.pdf

There have been numerous other proposals introduced by individual Members of the Minority during the past year, bringing their own perspectives to the issue. These have included the following (listed by the date of introduction):

- The Patients' Choice Act of 2009, introduced by Representative Ryan of Wisconsin on 20 May 2009.
- The Small Business Health Fairness Act of 2009, by Representative Johnson of Texas on 21 May 2009.
- The Help Efficient, Accessible, Low-Cost, Timely Healthcare [HEALTH] Act, a medical liability reform bill introduced by Representative Gingrey of Georgia on 6 June 2009.
- The Medical Rights and Reform Act, introduced on behalf of the Tuesday Group, by Representatives Kirk of Illinois and Dent of Pennsylvania, 16 June 2009.
- The Improving Health Care for All Americans Act, introduced by Representative Shadegg of Arizona, 14 July 2009.
- The Empowering Patients First Act, introduced by the Republican Study Committee on 30 July 2009.
- The Promoting Health and Preventing Chronic Disease Through Prevention and Wellness Programs for Employees, Communities, and Individuals Act of 2009, introduced by Representative Castle of Delaware, 31 July 2009.
- The Improved Employee Access to Health Insurance Act of 2009, an auto-enrollment bill introduced by Representative Deal of Georgia, 15 October 2009.
- The Health Insurance Access for Young Workers and College Students Act of 2009, a measure to improve coverage of dependents, introduced by Representative Blunt of Missouri, 21 October 2009.

None of these pretends to offer the perfect and complete solution to every problem. But all represent alternative approaches that should be considered – especially when the quality and affordability of Americans' health care is at stake.

Other elements worthy of consideration are the following:

- Reforming the Tax Treatment of Health Care. Addressing the discriminatory tax treatment of health insurance would lower health costs. Currently, coverage is linked to employment by the tax exclusion for employer-sponsored health insurance. This tax treatment effectively discriminates against workers and families who do not have job-based coverage. Linking the tax benefit to the individual would help put American families and their doctors back in control of their health care needs.

- Greater Opportunity for Small-Business Coverage. The proposal would create an alternative for small businesses to offer health benefits. Currently, unless a business can afford to offer a full-scale health insurance plan, its options are limited. The refundable tax credit model allows employees to take responsibility for purchasing their own health care with the credit, but also allows small businesses to make defined contributions to accounts – such as Health Savings Accounts [HSAs] – to help fund their employees’ health care expenses.
- High-Risk Pools. State health insurance high-risk pools would offer affordable coverage to individuals who would otherwise be denied coverage due to pre-existing medical conditions. This would make coverage affordable for those currently deemed “uninsurable.”
- One-Stop Marketplace for Health Insurance. Each individual would have an opportunity to choose the plan that best meets his or her needs through a State-based Exchange.
- Simple Auto-Enrollment. An Exchange would make it easy for individuals to obtain health insurance by providing new and automatic opportunities for enrollment through places of employment, emergency rooms, the Division of Motor Vehicles, and the like. If individuals did not want health insurance, they would not be forced to have it. Research has shown that auto-enrollment mechanisms have achieved near universal levels of coverage. An auto-enrollment mechanism has also been demonstrated to increase the percentage of employee-participation in employer provided 401(k) plans by 70 percent – from 20 percent of new employees enrolled after 3 months under self-employment, to 90 percent of new employees participating under auto-enrollment.
- Interstate Purchasing. Another reform worthy of consideration is interstate purchasing. Individuals could be allowed to use the refundable tax credit toward the purchase of health insurance in any State. This would greatly expand the choices of coverage available to the consumer, and also would encourage broader competition and diversity among insurers, who would be able to sell their policies to individuals and families in every State, as other companies do in other sectors of the economy.³¹
- Medical Liability Reform. Medical lawsuits and excessive verdicts increase health care costs and result in reduced access to care. Indefensible mistakes do happen, and when they do patients have a right to fair legal representation and fair compensation. But the current tort litigation system often serves the interests of lawyers while driving up costs and delaying justice. One solution to limit lawsuit abuse without limiting legal justice by implementing a cap on non-economic damages, and assisting States in establishing solutions to medical tort litigation. By enabling each State to tailor a solution to its own needs, the plan ensures the accessibility of health care for everyone by stopping the unreasonable costs for medical malpractice litigation.

Again, these proposed reforms should not be taken as a perfect and complete solution. Further, they could be pursued incrementally – doing what can be done, step by step, to control costs and expand access to quality health coverage. But they can point the way to real answers that can gain bipartisan support in Congress, backed by a broad consensus of the American public.

CONCLUSION

The United States stands at a precipice, where entitlements are pushing Federal spending to levels that will overwhelm the budget and smother the economy. The deepening deficits and debt will drain the U.S. economy of resources needed for growth and rising standards of living.

In the face of this fiscal challenge, the Democratic Majority is proposing to enact sweeping legislation creating a new $1-trillion entitlement, seizing control of one-sixth of the U.S. economy, and fundamentally altering the way Americans receive and finance their health care.

The Majority intends to enact this legislation through a convoluted process that involves abuse of House rules and the Budget Act's reconciliation process. Despite growing opposition to their plan – increasingly expressed over the past year, and culminating in January's Massachusetts Senate election – the Majority will exercise their raw political power to enact this bill, which will increase health care costs, diminish health care quality, impose taxes during the worst recession since the Great Depression, and increase spending, deficits, and debt.

This partisan debacle has been a tragic missed opportunity for true, patient-centered reform. Republicans will continue to pursue reforms that promote the central role of patients and doctors in health care.
