[Airspace Docket No. 95-AWA-12]

RIN 2120-AA66

Proposed Modification of the Salt Lake City Class B Airspace Area; UT

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Proposed rule; withdrawal.

SUMMARY: This action withdraws the notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) published in the Federal Register on August 5, 1998. The FAA proposed to reconfigure three existing subarea boundaries in the Salt Lake City Class B airspace area to enhance the efficiency of air traffic operations. However, recent changes in air traffic control (ATC) operational procedures and an ongoing review of Salt Lake City airspace indicate that additional changes to the Class B airspace area may be necessary. The FAA has formed a Capacity Enhancement Task Force, which consists of a group of aviation users in the Salt Lake Valley, to study and recommend design changes needed to modernize the current Salt Lake City Class B airspace area. Therefore, the FAA has determined that withdrawal of the proposed rule is warranted in order to conduct a review of the Salt Lake City terminal airspace area.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 14, 1999.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ken McElroy, Airspace and Rules Division, ATA-400, Office of Air Traffic Airspace Management, Federal Aviation Administration, 800 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20591; telephone: (202) 267-8783.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On August 5, 1998, an NPRM was published in the Federal Register (63 FR 41743) proposing to amend 14 CFR part 71 to modify the Salt Lake City, UT, Class B airspace area. Interested parties were invited to participate in the rulemaking process by submitting written data, views, or arguments regarding the proposal.

In response to the proposal, the FAA received two comments, one from the Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA) and one from the National Air Traffic Controllers Association (NATCA).

ALPA, in support of the proposal, stated that the proposed changes would be a "win-win" for instrument flight rule (IFR) traffic in the Class B airspace and for visual flight rule (VFR) traffic preferring to operate outside the Class B airspace in the Salt Lake City area. ALPA stated that since the reclassification of airspace "Airport Traffic Area" has been eliminated, there is no need to protect a 5-mile radius of the airport. They also stated that because there is no IFR traffic east of the airport below 9,000 feet, the area east of the airport could be used for VFR aircraft to transit the area east of the interstate below 9,000 feet without an ATC clearance. Further, the proposed changes should improve safety and efficiency of air traffic operations in the area and establish boundaries coincident with the Mode C veil.

NATCA, in opposition to the proposal, stated that recent changes in operational procedures, and the potential for an increase in the number of nonparticipating aircraft operating
