The cooperative agreement(s) are to be actively managed by the Office of Foreign Relations (OFR), ILAB, to assure achievement of the stated goal. Applicants are encouraged to be creative in proposing cost-effective interventions that will have a demonstrable impact on the HIV/AIDS infection rate and the level of discrimination in employment against individuals infected with HIV/AIDS.

I. Background and Program Scope

A. The International HIV/AIDS Pandemic

According to the United Nations, the total number of people living with HIV/AIDS in 2000 was 36.1 million, with two-thirds of those infected in sub-Saharan Africa. There were more than 5.3 million newly infected persons in 2000. The total number of AIDS-related deaths in 2000 was 3 million. AIDS is the number one cause of death in Africa and ranks fourth on a global scale. Although HIV/AIDS was initially viewed as strictly a health crisis, it is now widely recognized to have economic implications as well.

Recent studies on HIV/AIDS in the workforce warn of catastrophic consequences of HIV/AIDS for workers and employers worldwide, projecting a severe decline in the size and quality of the workforce in a number of countries over the next 20 years. The most infected country populations in sub-Saharan Africa could lose 29-35% of their labor force by 2020. Due to the disproportionate effect of HIV/AIDS on the 15-49 year age group, the most economically active segment of society is affected most severely. This fact has serious consequences for governments, employers, and workers alike. Moreover, the stigma and discrimination that surround those suffering from the disease contribute to the high prevalence rate by perpetuating misinformation and preventing people from seeking help. As a result, the World Bank estimates that in a typical sub-Saharan African country, with an HIV/AIDS prevalence rate of 20%, the average rate of GDP growth would be 2.6% lower. After a 20-year period, GDP in those same highly infected countries would be 67% less.

B. USDOL Global HIV/AIDS Workplace Education

The OFR carries out a worldwide international technical assistance program in support of three objectives: First, Expanding Economic Opportunity and Income Security for Workers; second, Protecting the Basic Rights of Workers; and third, Reducing the Prevalence of HIV/AIDS through Workplace Education. This SGA seeks one or more eligible and qualified organizations to develop and implement the projects supporting objective three, Reducing the Prevalence of HIV/AIDS through Workplace Education. In FY 2001, OFR is planning to initiate approximately ten (10) workplace education projects in all regions of the world, with a particular emphasis on Africa, the Americas, Asia, and Eastern Europe. The tasks required of the recipient organization(s) to carry out this work will involve project design, implementation, monitoring, and reporting in one or more countries.

II. Authority

ILAB is authorized to award and administer this program by the Department of Labor Appropriations Act, 2001, Public Law 106-554, 114 Stat. 2763A-10 (2000).

III. Application Process

A. Eligible Applicants

Any organization (other than a profit-making organization), capable of successfully developing and implementing a HIV/AIDS workplace education program to reduce the spread of HIV/AIDS and help eliminate the
