

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION34 CFR Part 646

RIN 1840-AC24

Student Support Services ProgramAGENCY: Department of Education.ACTION: Final regulations.

SUMMARY: The Secretary amends the regulations governing the Student Support Services Program in order to further implement statutory changes made to the Student Support Services Programs authorizing statutes, Sections 402A and 402D of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended (HEA), by the Higher Education Amendments of 1992, and to clarify and simplify certain requirements governing the program. In general, the selection criteria, prior experience criteria, and grantee accountability provisions are affected by these changes.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These regulations take effect August 23, 1996.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Virginia A. Mason, Division of Student Services, U.S. Department of Education, 600 Independence Avenue, S.W., The Portals Building, Suite 600D, Washington, D.C. 20202-5249. Telephone: (202) 708-4804 or by Internet to TRIO@ed.gov. Individuals who use a telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD) may call the Federal Information Relay Service (FIRS) at 1-800-877-8339 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m., Eastern time, Monday through Friday.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Student Support Services Program provides grants to institutions of higher education for projects offering support services to low-income, first generation, or disabled college students. These support services should increase their retention and graduation rates, facilitate their transfer from two-year to four-year colleges, and foster an institutional climate supportive of the success of low-income and first generation college students and students with disabilities. On December 13, 1995, the Secretary published a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) for the Student Support Services Program in the Federal Register (60 FR 64108-113).

Analysis of Comments and Changes

In response to the Secretary's invitation in the NPRM, 107 persons submitted comments on the proposed regulations. The following is an analysis of the comments and the changes in the regulations since publication of the NPRM. Substantive issues are discussed under the section of the regulations to which they pertain. Technical and other minor changes made to the language of the regulations and suggested changes the Secretary is not legally authorized to make generally are not addressed.

What is the Student Support Services Program? (§ 646.1)

Comments: Many commenters objected to the stated purpose in § 646.1(a) of the proposed regulations because of the phrase "facilitate their entrance into graduate and professional programs." Some commenters suggested that the phrase exceeds the scope of the authorizing legislation. Other commenters stated that the language would put the program at cross purposes with the Ronald E. McNair Postbaccalaureate Achievement Program and create an overwhelming burden on grantees to track students through graduate study. Several commenters recommended deleting "graduate and professional" and stating only the language from the statute.

Discussion: The Secretary has reviewed section 402D of the HEA, which authorizes the Student Support Services Program, and agrees with the commenters' suggestion that the section restate the statutory purpose of the program.

Change: This section of the regulations has been revised to mirror the statutory purpose of the program, namely to increase retention and graduation rates, and as appropriate, increase the transfer rates of eligible students from two-year to four-year institutions.

What Activities and Services May a Project Provide? (§ 646.4)

Comment: One commenter stated that the Secretary omitted test administration, in particular as it relates to students with disabilities, from the list of allowable activities and services.

Discussion: The only change made in the list of activities in the current version of this provision, § 646.10, is the inclusion of the mentoring programs as contained in § 402D of the HEA.

Change: None.

Comment: Several commenters suggested that § 646.4(i) be amended to permit the involvement of individuals other than faculty members and upper class students in mentoring programs. Commenters suggested that these other individuals include institutional and TRIO alumni, institutional administrators, graduate students and undergraduate upper-class students, individuals from the community, business and industry, and other persons as appropriate.

Discussion: § 646.4(i) reflects the statutory requirements concerning individuals involved in mentoring programs. The Secretary believes that neither the statute nor the regulations exclude other qualified and appropriate individuals from serving as mentors in Student Support Services projects. Furthermore, § 646.4(k) allows any other activity designed to meet the purposes of the Student Support Services program.

Change: None.

How Long is a Project Period? (§ 646.5)

Comment: Several commenters requested clarification of the five-year project period and the Department's administration of five-year grant cycles.

Discussion: This provision reflects the statutory requirements concerning the length of project periods. The Secretary believes that it is inappropriate to discuss subsequent funding cycles in the regulations. Information on how the Department will administer the four and five-year grants will be provided to successful applicants when awards are made.

Change: None.

What Definitions Apply? (§ 646.7(c))

Comments: Several commenters objected to the definition of cohort rate, which would require projects to compare the performance of project participants by cohort groups with other groups of students. The commenters stated that this evaluation measure is inappropriate since it would be difficult to find a valid comparison group with similar academic needs as Student Support Service project participants. Further, the process of maintaining data and tracking students in the comparison group would place unwarranted burden on already limited project resources and reduce resources for direct services to the eligible population.

Discussion: The term cohort rate was defined in the NPRM to apply to § 646.21(a)(3) where comparison information was requested on retention, graduation, grade point averages and transfer rates. The term was intended to apply to § 646.21(g)(2) and (3) where evaluation requirements included comparisons with student cohorts not served by the project. The Secretary believes the use of cohort groups and the calculation of cohort rates as a means to establish the need for the project and measure the benefits of the project are appropriate and valid methods. Thus, tracking and reporting of participants by cohorts standardizes the procedures for assessing progress across all projects and lends greater validity to the data obtained.

Changes: The Secretary concurs that the proposed definition did not clearly state the intention of introducing a standard approach for reporting outcome data. In addition, the Secretary has revised the evaluation criteria in section 646.21(g). Thus, the proposed definition of cohort rate is no longer applicable to these regulations and thus has been deleted. Nonetheless, the Secretary maintains that the cohort methodology is important in order to standardize the reporting of student performance outcomes. Therefore, the annual performance report for the program was designed to track students' academic progress by cohorts. The report will yield data that the Secretary can use, for example, in conjunction with the baseline data on eligible students as requested in section 646.21(a)(3). These data can provide comparative assessments without the additional institutional burden of tracking non-project participants.

Comment: Several commenters suggested that the definition of the term participant does not allow grantees to include eligible individuals who are not served on a continual basis or received services for less than one grading period. One commenter also noted that the definition was particularly restrictive for projects in open enrollment institutions where the student body is very transient, often seeking services after the beginning of the grading period, stopping out for one or more grading periods, or transferring to another institution after one grading period. Commenters believed that expanding the definition to include all participants served would be the only means for giving an accurate account of services rendered by projects. Many commenters suggested the use of the terms active participant and auxiliary participant to distinguish the level of participation in the project.

Discussion: The Secretary agrees that the proposed definition of the term participant may be too restrictive in establishing the minimum length of participation. However, the Secretary does not agree with the suggestion that there be two classifications of participants. Although projects may occasionally serve eligible students on a short term basis, these students should not be counted as project participants since the intervention received would not be sufficient to impact the student's chances for academic success at the grantee institution. Thus, the Secretary believes it is necessary to establish a definition for project participant that will support decisions regarding approved student service levels for funded projects and that will provide parameters for assessing the impact of the project on the postsecondary success of its participants.

Change: The Secretary has revised the definition of participant to allow each grantee to define in the application the extent of services an individual must receive in order to be counted as a project participant.

What Selection Criteria Does the Secretary Use to Evaluate an Application? (§ 646.21)

Comment: Several commenters stated that the criterion in § 646.21(a)(3) inappropriately defines need for the project in terms of the institution's need and not the need of the students. Further, by prescribing the comparison group as the total enrollment at the institution, commenters felt this favored institutions with smaller percentages of eligible students. Commenters suggested that the comparison group data used to state the need include national data on eligible students and/or information on student success at comparable institutions of higher education as a way to reduce bias for institutions with smaller percentages of eligible students.

Several commenters also stated that the language on graduate and professional school enrollment in § 646.21(a)(3)(iii) exceeds the legislative purpose of the Student Support Services program and overlaps the purpose of the TRIO McNair program.

Discussion: The Secretary agrees that the criterion in § 646.21(a)(3) could be interpreted to refer to an institution's needs and not the needs of the students. Therefore, this criterion has been restated. While some commenters have suggested using national data on eligible students and/or information from comparable institutions to create the cohort-like group for comparative purposes with project outcome data, the Secretary will not prescribe the type of comparison data that institutions should use to establish the need for the program. Instead, the Secretary encourages applicants to use meaningful comparison data that is related to the purposes of the program and to the proposed project outcomes. The Secretary further encourages applicants to define in the application the characteristics of the comparison group and identify baseline data on eligible students. These baseline data along with performance measures obtained from the annual performance report would serve as points of reference from which institutions could gauge participants' progress.

Change: The language of this section has been revised to expand the types of comparison data that may be used to establish need for the project. However, the Secretary has not changed the indicators to be used for comparisons.

Comment: Several commenters suggested that the term academic need be deleted from § 646.21(c)(2) because the provision highlights project participants with academic need and ignores other eligible project participants, i.e. low-income individuals, first generation college students, and individuals with disabilities. Some commenters suggested rewording this provision to correspond with a similar provision concerning selection of project participants in the Upward Bound Program regulations. Other commenters suggested that "retain" be deleted from § 646.21(c)(2) because retention would be addressed under § 646.21(c)(4) in the plan to provide services that address the goals and objectives of a project. One commenter believed that § 646.21(c)(2) may preclude projects from giving priority for admission to students whose ethnicity has been historically underrepresented at the project's host institution.

Discussion: The Secretary disagrees with the commenters because under § 402D(c)(4) of the HEA all project participants must have academic need. The Secretary also disagrees that the provision under § 646.21(c)(2) duplicates the provision of § 646.21(c)(4). Moreover, the Secretary wishes to emphasize the importance of retention in an applicant's plan of operation. The Secretary, however, has deleted the words "and ensure their participation without regard to race, color, national origin or gender" in § 646.21(c)(2) because grantees are otherwise required to follow these requirements. The Secretary notes that section 427 of the General Education Provisions Act (GEPA) requires all applicants in their applications to specify strategies for overcoming barriers based on gender, race, color, national origin, disability, and age, in order to ensure the full participation of eligible individuals in the project.

Change: The words "and ensure their participation without regard to race, color, national origin, or gender" have been deleted from this criterion.

Comment: Many commenters stated that the language in § 646.21(d)(3) is biased against public institutions in states that do not provide sufficient funding for need-based scholarships; thus, most colleges and universities are packaging loans for students to help meet need. Others contended that to comply with this criterion an institution would have to develop special packaging for Student Support Services participants and this would be unfair to other low-income students at the institution. Additionally, commenters stated that to commit institutional resources to special groups would be contrary to many state and federal statutes.

Discussion: The Secretary believes that given the assurance "to offer sufficient financial assistance to meet the student's full financial need," all grantee institutions should be committed to reducing the participants' dependence on loans. The Secretary believes that this criterion will encourage applicants to develop a plan to minimize loans to reduce the financial burden of participants after completion of their postsecondary education. Moreover, the criterion recognizes the limits on an institution's ability to provide grants to project participants through the use of the phrase "to the extent possible."

Change: None.

Comment: One commenter stated that to require an applicant to assure the full cooperation and support of functional components as stated in § 646.21(d)(4) is unrealistic. The commenter suggested that to identify ways to develop and maintain the cooperation of these offices is a more reasonable expectation.

Discussion: The Secretary disagrees with the commenter because to be a successful project requires the participation of these components of the institution. Additionally, the Secretary has determined that this provision should also include the components of the institution that collect and analyze data.

Change: The language has been revised to include the component of the institution that collects and analyzes data.

Comment: Many commenters suggested that in § 646.21(g)(3) the Secretary has underestimated the burden of collecting and maintaining cohort data on students not participating in the program and has not adequately considered the use of existing evaluation methods. Additionally, commenters believed that the resources and time required to establish a valid cohort group for non-project participants would place more burden on already limited resources and dilute the quality of services provided to students. Further, commenters stated that the complexity and feasibility of collecting data for student cohorts not served by the project would be difficult and would not necessarily factor in the academic need and disability criteria for eligible project participants. Several commenters encouraged the Secretary to use the baseline data required in the Need section of the application to determine the overall effectiveness of the Student Support Services project.

Discussion: The Secretary believes that information on project outcomes and therefore student performance is critical for indicating where needs are, whether the project is moving in the right direction, and what must be accomplished. By knowing how well students who receive services perform, the Department can gauge the extent to which the Student Support Services program is both reaching its intended beneficiaries and having a positive impact. To accomplish this, the NPRM required both the use of baseline data on each of the programmatic outcomes and the comparison of subsequent results on student cohorts not served by the project.

In a departure from the NPRM, the Secretary will not prescribe how the project will assess the benefits of a Student Support Services project on the target students and will not require projects to use a comparison group to assess student outcomes. This, however, does not preclude a project from proposing a comparison group or from using baseline data provided in response to the Need criteria (§ 646.21(a)) against which student progress can be assessed. Projects can also satisfy evaluation requirements by stating how student progress related to the purposes of the program (§ 646.1) and the prior experience criteria (§ 646.22) will be addressed. Additionally, the Secretary requests that each applicant demonstrate how the evaluation results will be used to improve program operations and activities.

Applicants will be awarded points for the proposed evaluation plan (§ 646.21(g)) based on the quality and appropriateness of the plan presented in the application. The Department of Education will also use information from the annual performance report in conjunction with the project objectives and evaluation strategies proposed in the application to evaluate a grantee's progress and award prior experience points.

Change: Section 646.21(g) has been revised to require an evaluation plan that is appropriate to the project, measures project success against appropriate baseline data, and uses the results to make programmatic improvements.

How Does the Secretary Evaluate Prior Experience? (§ 646.22)

Comment: One commenter stated that the new criteria for prior experience in § 646.22 should not be used to award prior experience points for the fiscal year 1997 competition because the current criteria have been the basis for the project design and implementation.

Many commenters believed that the omission of process objectives from the prior experience criteria allows grantees to disregard administrative requirements when reporting on the prior experience criteria and to focus on successful project results only. This, they noted would limit the Secretary's control over the quality of services. Other commenters noted that the part of § 646.22(b)(4), that states, "enrolled in graduate or professional schools," does not give credit to project participants who successfully pursue careers without benefit of a postbaccalaureate degree, and gives an unfair advantage to grantees serving students enrolled in programs that may lead to entrance into graduate or professional school. Further, some commenters believed that the Secretary expanded the purpose of the program and is at cross purposes with the McNair program by giving "graduate or professional school enrollment" weight in the prior experience criteria.

These commenters suggested that this criterion be deleted. Many commenters suggested that the Secretary give equal consideration to all measures of postsecondary achievement.

Discussion: The Secretary will not use the prior experience criteria in these final regulations to assess grantees for performance during the 1993–1997 funding cycle. The prior experience assessment for the upcoming competition will be conducted using the prior experience criteria listed in § 642.22(c) of the current program regulations. The Secretary believes that the process objectives and administrative requirements of a grantee should be evaluated on a yearly basis using interim reports and on-site monitoring to determine the extent to which the grantees are making progress toward meeting the goals and objectives of the program.

The Secretary also agrees that success at the postsecondary level does not necessarily mean receiving a postbaccalaureate degree, and thus agrees that graduate and professional school enrollment rates should not be a criterion under prior experience.

Change: The Secretary has revised § 646.22 to combine criteria (3) and (4) into a single criterion that addresses the successful completion of postsecondary education programs that result in graduation and/or transfer from a two-year to a four-year institution. Language is added to give prior experience points for meeting the administrative requirements of the program. The criterion that addressed graduate and professional school enrollment has been deleted.

What are Allowable Costs? (§ 646.30)

Comment: One commenter stated that lodging and meals should be included as an allowable cost when necessary for approved educational and cultural activities sponsored by the project.

Discussion: The Secretary believes that the approved activities in § 646.30(d) will allow projects to pay the cost of lodging and meal when appropriate.

Change: None.

Comment: Several commenters stated that the rate of four percent of the total project salaries as described in § 646.30(g) for professional development travel for project staff is discriminatory to programs located in remote areas. Further, they claimed this rate would place a hardship on staff from newly awarded projects with minimal budgets and the highest need for travel funds. A few commenters suggested an increase to 6.5 percent.

Discussion: The Secretary believes that professional development travel for staff may be required to properly implement a project. Most projects in the past have spent less than four percent for travel. However, the Secretary can permit a project to spend more than the four percent for travel in unusual circumstances.

Change: None

What Other Requirements Must a Grantee Meet? (§ 646.32)

Comment: Several commenters stated that § 646.32(a)(3) will prohibit participants from legitimately receiving services needed from more than one TRIO project and hinder the coordination of the programs. One commenter suggested changing the language to state "who is receiving the same services," to allow participation when services are not duplicated.

Discussion: The Secretary agrees with the commenters and accepts the suggested language.

Change: This section has been revised to include the language of the commenter which adds the phrase "the same" between the words "receiving" and "services". This revision will prohibit grantees from providing the same services to participants served by more than one TRIO project.

Further, the Secretary has decided to revise § 646.32(b)(4) to insert the words "by cohort" between the words "participant" and "for the duration". The change is needed to reflect the Secretary's belief that the academic progress of project participants should be tracked by cohort groups to provide valid measures of project successes.

Other changes: Although no comments were received on the following, the Secretary has reviewed the regulations since publication of the NPRM and has made the following changes:

Changes: The Secretary has assigned weights to subcriteria under need, objectives, and evaluation plan; revised § 646.21(c)(3) to include a plan to monitor participant's academic progress; and included evaluation costs as an allowable cost in § 646.30(h).

Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

Under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, no persons are required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. The valid OMB control number assigned to the collection of information in these final regulations is displayed at the end of the affected section of the regulations.

Intergovernmental Review

This program is subject to the requirements of Executive Order 12372 and the regulations in 34 CFR Part 79. The objective of the Executive order is to foster an intergovernmental partnership and a strengthened federalism by relying on processes developed by State and local governments for coordination and review of proposed Federal financial assistance.

In accordance with the order, this document is intended to provide early notification of the Department's specific plans and actions for this program.

Assessment of Educational Impact

In the notice of proposed rulemaking, the Secretary requested comments on whether the proposed regulations would require transmission of information that is being gathered by or is available from any other agency or authority of the United States.

Based on the response to the proposed rules and its own review, the Department has determined that the regulations in this document do not require transmission of information that is being gathered by or is available from any other agency or authority of the United States.

(2)(i) If an application for a new grant proposes to continue to serve substantially the same population or campus that the applicant is serving under an expiring grant, the Secretary evaluates the applicant's prior experience in delivering services under the expiring grant on the basis of the criteria in § 646.22.

(ii) The maximum score for all the criteria in § 646.22 is 15 points. The maximum score for each criterion is indicated in parentheses with the criterion.

(b) The Secretary makes new grants in rank order on the basis of the applications' total scores under paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) of this section.

(c) If the total scores of two or more applications are the same and there is insufficient money available to fully fund them both after funding the higher-ranked applications, the Secretary chooses among the tied applications so as to serve geographic areas that have been underserved by the Student Support Services Program.

(d) The Secretary does not make grants to applicants that carried out a Federal TRIO program project that involved the fraudulent use of funds.

Subpart D—What Conditions Must Be Met by a Grantee?

§ 646.30 What are allowable costs?

The cost principles that apply to the Student Support Services Program are in 34 CFR part 74, subpart Q. Allowable costs include the following if they are reasonably related to the objectives of the project:

(a) Cost of remedial and special classes if—

(1) These classes are not otherwise available at the grantee institution;

(2) Are limited to eligible project participants; and

(3) Project participants are not charged tuition for classes paid for by the project.

(b) Courses in English language instruction for students of limited English proficiency if these classes are limited to eligible project participants and not otherwise available at the grantee institution.

(c) In-service training of project staff.

(e) Transportation of participants and staff to and from approved educational and cultural activities sponsored by the project.

(f) Purchase of computer hardware, computer software, or other equipment to be used for student development, student records and project administration if the applicant demonstrates to the Secretary's satisfaction that the equipment is required to meet the objectives of the project more economically or efficiently.

(g) Professional development travel for staff if directly related to the project's overall purpose and activities, except that these costs may not exceed four percent of total project salaries. The Secretary may adjust this percentage if the applicant demonstrates to the Secretary's satisfaction that a higher percentage is necessary and reasonable.

(h) Project evaluation that is directly related to assessing the project's impact on student achievement and improving the delivery of services.

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1070a-14)

§ 646.31 What are unallowable costs?

(Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1070a-14)

§ 646.32 What other requirements must a grantee meet?

(a) Eligibility of participants. (1) A grantee shall determine the eligibility of each participant in the project when the individual is selected to participate. The grantee does not have to revalidate a participant's eligibility after the participant's initial selection.

(2) A grantee shall determine the low-income status of an individual on the basis of the documentation described in section 402A(e) of the Higher Education Act.

(3) A grantee may not serve any individual who is receiving the same services from another Federal TRIO program.

(b) Recordkeeping. A grantee shall maintain participant records that show—

(1) The basis for the grantee's determination that each participant is eligible to participate in the project under § 646.3;

(2) The grantee's basis for determining the academic need for each participant;

(3) The services that are provided to each participant; and

(4) The performance and progress of each participant by cohort for the duration of the participant's attendance at the grantee institution.

(c) Project director. (1) A grantee shall employ a full-time project director unless paragraph (c)(3) of this section applies.

(2) The grantee shall give the project director sufficient authority to administer the project effectively.

(3) The Secretary waives the requirement in paragraph (c)(1) of this section if the applicant demonstrates that the requirement will hinder coordination—

(i) Among the Federal TRIO programs; or

(ii) Between the programs funded under sections 404A through 410 of the Higher Education Act and similar programs funded through other sources.

(d) Project coordination. (1) The Secretary encourages grantees to coordinate project services with other programs for disadvantaged students operated by the grantee institution provided the Student Support Services grant funds are not used to support activities reasonably available to the general student population.

(2) To the extent practical, the grantee may share staff with programs serving similar populations provided the grantee maintains appropriate records of staff time and effort and does not commingle grant funds.

(3) Costs for special classes and events that would benefit Student Support Services students and participants in other programs for disadvantaged students must be proportionately divided among the benefiting projects.
