

dedication this exceptional person had for her community.

Born in New Hampshire, Bonnie came to San Diego with her family when she was a little girl. She was a small business owner, a real estate agent, a backcountry activist and an avid gardener whose own home garden became a popular fixture in the Alpine community. The Kibbee's, whose garden included various assortments of irises and day lilies, would set aside a day each spring to allow the public to come and visit.

Upset upon learning that the Internal Revenue Service was intending to confiscate the savings account of a child to pay off a parent's debt, Bonnie quickly established herself as a government watchdog and community patriot by protecting and standing up for the rights of private property owners. Through her positions on the Alpine Community Planning Group, Paul Gann's Citizen's Committee, the Christmas Calling Committee and as President of California Taxpayers Network, Inc., Bonnie dedicated herself towards community improvement, reducing crime and promoting law enforcement. Among her initiatives included raising funds for the Alpine Community Center, finding a new home for the Alpine Chamber of Commerce, assisting congressional efforts to oppose overzealous federal acquisition of private property and working to ensure that human beings were provided the same protections afforded to birds, fish and insects.

In a time when apathy is often chosen over public involvement, Bonnie Kibbee exhibited the true character of grassroots activism. As a Member of Congress, it is encouraging to see a private citizen who takes notice of what is taking place around them and works to change their community for the better. Thank you Bonnie for all your hard work. You were a natural leader, a great American and will be truly missed.

OREGON PUBLIC LANDS TRANSFER AND PROTECTION ACT OF 1998

SPEECH OF

HON. DARLENE HOOLEY

OF OREGON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, October 12, 1998

Ms. HOOLEY of Oregon. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 4326 because I think that this is a noncontroversial package that will help address ongoing resources needs in Oregon ranging from wastewater treatment to land transfers.

I am particularly pleased that this package includes a measure to authorize the Willow Lake Natural Treatment System project which will reduce wintertime sewer system overflows to the Willamette River in Salem and local creeks.

This initiative will also provide a source of irrigation water for the farming community and improve the river habitat for fish.

Mr. Speaker, this is just one of the win-win initiatives in this important package.

This package also includes a common sense land transfer arrangement between O & C counties and the BLM, a land exchange between the BLM and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Hart Mountain in eastern Oregon, in addition to other measures that have widespread support.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

ARKANSAS AMVET OF THE YEAR, WINSTON MCGINNIS

HON. MARION BERRY

OF ARKANSAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 20, 1998

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a man who has dedicated his time to working for Arkansas' veterans. For this reason, the AMVETS has awarded this great veteran, Winston "Mac" McGinnis who lives in my District in Melbourne Arkansas, the prestigious AMVET of the Year Award.

The AMVET of the Year Award was given to Mac for the many hours of volunteer work for all veterans and their families since his retirement from the U.S. Air Force in 1966. After an injury in Guam while serving in the Air Force, that resulted in a spinal cord injury, Mac was retired with 20 years of service. Since that time he has worked with other veterans and has volunteered in four different Veterans Hospitals. He has received a 100,000 mile award from the VA for the miles he has driven doing volunteer work and transporting veterans to and from VA hospitals.

Mac is the Executive Director of the AMVETS Department of Arkansas, Commander of Post #1 in Melbourne VAVS Representative at the Little Rock Medical Centers and National Executive Committeeman for Arkansas AMVETS. The Silver Helmet Award has over the past 40 years acquired a well-deserved reputation as the most prestigious of all the awards given by veterans organizations. I congratulate Mac for his award and his years of service working with the veterans in Arkansas. Mac, thanks for a job well done. I wish you well.

HONORING KATIE DAVIS

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 20, 1998

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Katie Davis for her dedicated service to the Brooklyn community and to congratulate her as a recent recipient of an Institute for Community Living award.

Katie Davis, a graduate of Hunter College and Columbia University's Public Health Administration School, and a successful administrator at Kingsborough Psychiatric Center has made and continues to make a difference in the lives of young African Americans and Hispanics. Katie's involvement with youngsters in various aspects of their lives through a continuous process of mentoring, engagement in positive activities and community programs aimed at giving them hope for their future, has helped to mold their actions and to lead more productive lives. Many of these young adults have gone on to successfully occupy various positions, further their studies and give back to their communities by helping others.

Katie has made a tangible difference in the lives of countless young adults as well as in her own. She has worked incessantly on behalf of community residents who have special needs like her own daughter, Jacqueline, and continue to meet daily challenges for independence and dignity throughout their lives. It is in Jacqueline's memory that the Institute for Community Living's Emerson/Davis Family Development Center was dedicated. Katie has also been an advocate for children's education and for the improvement of housing for seniors and young low-income families.

Katie is an active member of the Board of Directors of the Vanguard Urban Improvement Association, which sponsors, the development and renovation of affordable housing for low-income families in Central Brooklyn. She is also chairperson of Medgar Evers College Community Council, where she works to improve the college's ability to connect with the community, and to enhance the academic status of this educational institution. One of Katie's greatest accomplishments, however, was her election by the grassroots community as a delegate to the 1984 Democratic Convention. Her election by the community was viewed as an acknowledgement of her tireless efforts in providing voter education workshops, and organizing and directing voter registration and participation campaigns. As an active member of the Antioch Baptist Church she has served on its Board of Trustees. Katie currently resides in Brooklyn with her husband, Hervin, and her daughter, Charlene.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in honoring Katie Davis for her invaluable contributions to the Institute for Community Living and the Brooklyn community.

TRIBUTE TO JOE KENNEDY

HON. JACK KINGSTON

OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 20, 1998

Mr. KINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, Evans County, Georgia certainly has its share of outstanding citizens.

Perhaps because in Evans County people still take very seriously things like God, patriotism, and civic responsibilities.

And so, among so many outstanding citizens, it gives me particular pleasure to pay tribute today to one of Evans County's own who never failed to live up to those standards—Joe Kennedy, loving father, devoted husband, political leader, and outstanding Georgian.

Born and raised in Claxton, Joe spent his whole life dedicated to serving his fellow citizens in public life.

He was the kind of elected official people always felt was working for them, for Joe was a guy who, over a period of 40 years in public life, always seemed to be truly happy to help people in any way he could.

He seemed happy to help because he was.

He enjoyed serving people, and he was so very proud of his participation in a profession that he believed to be a noble one.

If Joe were alive today, he would surely be astonished that some people are even asking the question of whether character matters.

What an absurd question, and he could not conceive of why anyone might even suggest that a man's integrity was not the most important consideration of all.

A veteran of the U.S. Army, Joe served with distinction in the Korean war and received numerous decorations for his service, including the Bronze Star, the Korean Service Medal, and the United Nations Medal with two battle stars in the Korean war.

After being honorably discharged in June 1953, with the rank of captain, he returned to his native Georgia and began to build a life for himself and his family.

In 1996, Joe was elected to the Georgia Legislature, serving District 4 in southeast Georgia.

He went on to represent that district for a total of 24 years, 24 years in a position where he set the standard for being responsive to his constituents.

Although fiercely proud of being a Democrat, and proud of his conservative credentials, Joe was not a partisan.

His loyalty was to a better Georgia for all citizens.

This came before party or politics.

He loved nothing more than finding a way to achieve his goals while obscuring the source of the credit.

But we must give credit where credit is due, and the state of Georgia is marked in many ways by his legacy of accomplishments.

The highway running through Claxton to Interstate 16, a section of which now bears his name, was expanded to four lanes as a result of his efforts.

Joe was behind the construction of the Claxton Regional Youth Development Center, an activity employing 30 people.

The determined perseverance of Joe Kennedy was also behind the Southeast Detention/Probation Center, the Ogeechee Technical Institute, and the Claxton Seniors Citizens Park—institutions which provide a service to Georgians and which employ hundreds of our citizens.

And Georgia Southern University obtained its university status in great part as a result of Joe's persistent efforts to improve the higher education opportunities that would be available to southeastern Georgia students.

The list of his accomplishments is long, and they are, indeed, the visible reminders of his legacy.

But to the people who knew him, and who loved him, those are not the things that will bring a wistful smile to our faces when we recall his memory.

As a young man, Joe soon earned a reputation for being a man of his word.

As he rose in power and influence, that never changed.

To Joe, honesty was simply the way to do business, and he would never sacrifice the trust he had earned for some short-term advantage.

Joe did not win every election he entered, but he did win the hearts of the people who knew him best, and his performance during his race for lieutenant governor validated the high opinion we had of him.

Slick out-of-state consultants with briefcases full of dirty tricks never worked for Joe Kennedy.

He was straightforward to supporters and opponents.

After the polls closed, Joe accepted the decision of the voters with the same quiet dignity that has been characteristic of his rich, extraordinary life.

He still had his integrity and he still had a passion to serve his fellow Georgians.

Joe went on to occupy other high positions in the Georgia State government, and to his last days he did what he loved most: talking to people about public policy issues and finding out how best to solve the political problems that confront us all.

He brought that enthusiasm to his last position in government as a member of the Georgia Board of Regents.

How fitting it was to learn that on the day that God had decided was his time, Joe was speaking to the downtown Rotary Club of Statesboro.

He was doing what he loved right to the end.

He will be dearly, dearly missed.

God bless you, Joe Kennedy. To his beautiful wife Lalah, children Debra, Cliff, and Adam, to all of his in-laws, grandchildren, and relatives, thank you for sharing him with us.

TRIBUTE TO WESLEY E. BISGAARD

HON. DUNCAN HUNTER

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 20, 1998

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, on August 6th of this year the State of California and specifically the communities of Imperial County within my district suffered a great loss with the death of Mr. Wesley E. Bisgaard. Throughout his life, Wes was dedicated to his family, church and community. I rise today to recognize his remarkable dedication and contributions to all of us.

I met Wes in 1979 during my first campaign for Congress when he was serving as the Republican Party chair for Imperial County. I still remember the look in his eye when he first shook my hand, it was as if to say "this is what I have to work with?" From that day forward, he was always ready to lend me a hand and offer advice that he gleaned from years of working through the various systems of government, whether it was the State of California or the U.S. Congress. One thing about Wes, he never left you wondering what his opinion was.

Wes led a remarkable life that reads like a John Steinbeck novel. After the dust bowl the Bisgaard family moved from their farm in North Dakota to California where they eventually began a new life in Holtville, California, where they remain today. During World War II, while Wes worked for Douglas Aircraft, he met and married Mildred "Millie" Eppeleman. In 1952, Wes and Millie, along with their two children, Karen and Christopher, moved to Imperial Valley to join his brother and once again take up his first love: farming. The Bisgaard Brothers farmed 1,000 acres of alfalfa, lettuce, cotton, sugar beets, barley, cabbage, and later wheat for seed.

Agriculture is the mainstay of not only Imperial Valley, but California as well and Wes played a very active role through his memberships on many local and state farming advisory boards and commissions. In fact, when he finally retired at the age of 79 he was the Manager of the Imperial County Farm Bureau, completing a 45 year career in the industry.

Wes and his wife Millie lived their lives with a strong work ethic, unimpeachable ethical standards, a central place for God in their lives, an abiding sense of charity towards others and a compelling degree of commitment to the wider community. Those of us lucky enough to know Wes will forever be grateful for that opportunity. Imperial County and the farmers there are better off today because of his dedication and commitment to his community: for that, all of us are grateful.

S. 505 VIOLATES U.S. INTERNATIONAL TREATY OBLIGATIONS

HON. JOHN S. TANNER

OF TENNESSEE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 20, 1998

Mr. TANNER. Mr. Speaker, recently, the House passed S. 505, the Sonny Bono Copyright Term Extension Act. Provisions were included in this legislation relating to fairness in music licensing. Some have expressed concerns over these provisions.

The Congress has been advised by the Secretary of Commerce that the fairness in music licensing reform legislation violates U.S. international treaty obligations. The United States Trade Representative, the Register of Copyrights, and the Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks have all joined with the Secretary of Commerce in voicing concerns over these provisions. They believe that the exemptions included in Section 202 of Title II would "violate our obligations under the Berne Convention for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works." As a consequence, it could result in the WTO finding that United States has violated its multilateral treaty obligations. Adequate attention was not given to these concerns.

WORLD POPULATION AWARENESS WEEK 1998

HON. ALBERT RUSSELL WYNN

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 20, 1998

Mr. WYNN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call World Population Awareness Week 1998 to the attention of my colleagues. October 24–31 marks the annual celebration of World Population Awareness Week. More than 300 family planning, environmental, educational, community and service organizations in 61 countries are co-sponsoring the week in an effort to raise awareness of the need for universal voluntary family planning.

I call the Governor of Maryland's, the Honorable Paris Glendening, proclamation to the attention of my colleagues.

WORLD POPULATION AWARENESS WEEK PROCLAMATION—1998

Whereas world population stands today at more than 5.9 billion and increase by more than 80 million per year, with virtually all of this growth in the least developed countries;

Whereas the consequences of rapid population growth are not limited to the developing world but extend to all nations and to all people, including every citizen of the State of Maryland concerned for human dignity, freedom and democracy, as well as for the impact on the global economy;

Whereas 1.3 billion people—more than the combined population of Europe and North Africa—live in absolute poverty on the equivalent of one U.S. dollar or less a day;
