United States to receive the care she needs to prevent what her doctors call a death sentence.

My colleagues, please help. Help change one life for the better. Help me pass the legislation for Keysi.

A SELECT COMMITTEE ON U.S. NA-TIONAL SECURITY SHOULD EX-AMINE TECHNOLOGY TRANSFERS TO COMMUNIST CHINA

(Mr. GIBBONS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GIBBONS. Mr. Speaker, the first responsibility of Congress and this government is to protect the citizens of the United States from an outside attack and to be prepared to defend this great Nation. It appears that the Clinton administration, however, has woefully failed in this responsibility. If true, then they have failed this Congress, and regrettably they have failed America.

I strongly support House Resolution 463 to establish a Select Committee on U.S. National Security to examine the illegal transfer of classified U.S. technology to Communist China. Mr. Speaker, this is not a partisan issue, this is not politics as usual. This is a national security issue that cuts to the very core of what we stand for and what we believe.

We have equipped our military with the finest technology in the world. To deliberately allow that technology to fall into the hands of enemies places each and every soldier, sailor, airmen and marine at risk. Ultimately it needlessly places the Nation at risk.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this resolution. It is the right thing to do, our national security demands it, our military deserves it, our Nation expects it.

THE CORRELATION BETWEEN THE INABILITY TO GET CAMPAIGN FINANCE REFORM AND THE KILLING OF TOBACCO LEGISLA-TION IN THE SENATE

(Mr. MEEHAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MEEHAN. Mr. Speaker, yesterday the rule for campaign finance reform was pulled off the floor. It is now June 18, and we still have not had an up or down vote on the bipartisan Shays-Meehan campaign finance reform bill.

On the same day they pulled the bill and the rule over in the United States Senate; they killed the tobacco legislation designed to protect America's children from tobacco.

It is interesting. Six million dollars from the tobacco companies to the Republican National Committee, $100 million in a campaign to try to get the Congress to do nothing on tobacco.

The American people get the correlation between the amount of money the tobacco companies have invested and the inability to get campaign finance reform. There is a connect, and people get it. We have a bipartisan campaign finance reform in the House that we need to vote on; that is, Shays-Meehan. And we have a bipartisan tobacco bill in the House; that is, Hansen-Meehan-Waxman.

Let us move on this legislation and protect America's children.

SCHOOL CHOICE DENIED FOR DIS-TRICT OF COLUMBIA'S CHILDREN

(Mr. SHIMKUS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, our President said to D.C. schoolchildren, "Tough luck." We do not get to hear a liberal say that very often, but the President's veto of D.C.'s scholarship bill last month is an in-your-face slap at D.C. parents and D.C. children. "Too bad for you' is the message. Too bad for you, that is, if you happen to be poor.

Just look at the pattern. Failed, dangerous schools, and the liberals ask for more money. Congress votes for more money, and in return we get failed dangerous schools where almost no learning takes place. And so the liberals come back the following year and say, "Look, the problem is the schools need more money." And so Congress spends more money, more money for everyone knows that the problem is not enough money. More failure, more school violence follows, and so the pattern is repeated year after year.

The same people who would never one second accept dangerous, dysfunctional schools for their own kids are as determined as ever to deny school choice to those who do not have a choice. As a former teacher it makes me sad.

WE NEED MANAGED CARE AND TOBACCO REFORM

(Mr. GREEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GREEN. Mr. Speaker, when are we going to get serious about real reform?

Republicans in the Senate have killed tobacco legislation which would have helped to reduce teen smoking, and House Republicans are refusing to allow real managed care reform to come to the floor. The majority is allowing the quality of medical care for our citizens to decline considerably while allowing the tobacco industry to jeopardize our children's health.

It is estimated that 3,000 young people start smoking every day. One-third of these children will eventually die from tobacco-related diseases. We need to stop the next generation from becoming addicted to tobacco. We need to establish guidelines and protections for patients to give them access to quality health care.

The American people have asked us to protect their children from smoking and are demanding top quality medical care. We need tobacco reform, we need managed care reform. Eighty percent of Americans want a patients' bill of rights and tobacco reform. The Republican majority in Congress is denying Americans these important rights.

SUPPORT THE CHILD CUSTODY PROTECTION ACT

(Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, can my colleagues picture Joyce Farley's shock when she discovered that her 13 year-old daughter had an abortion after being transported by a stranger across State lines without Miss Farley's knowledge? The truth is simple and tragic.

Crystal was date raped and impregnated. The man's mother arranged for Crystal's abortion, transported her to New York in order to circumvent Pennsylvania's parental consent laws, paid for the abortion and then casually dropped her off 30 miles from home so that this minor girl could fend for herself.

Crystal had to undergo a second abortion because the first one was botched, and she faced a prospect of serious psychological and physical and post-abortion complications.

This scenario could be a real life experience for any parent in America. There is legislation to keep this from

There is legislation to keep this from being repeated, however. H.R. 3682 is not about outlawing abortion. It is about the right of every parent, including Joyce Farley, to counsel, comfort and help their child. It protects the most vulnerable, inherent and sacred right that exists, that between a parent and a child.

HELP REBUILD CRUMBLING SCHOOLS

(Mr. BALDACCI asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BALDACCI. Mr. Speaker, I rise to urge my colleagues to support the motion that will be offered later today by the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL) to provide federal assistance for school construction instead of providing taxpayer subsidized education benefits for private schools.

Last spring in Maine a commission of school facilities completed a comprehensive examination of the physical condition of our State's schools. The commission identified safety, legal compliance improvements and repairs urgently needed in our schools. They identified other repairs and other necessary improvements idly waiting funding with faint hope of assistance from State and municipal budgets.

Students cannot learn in classrooms with leaky ceilings, poor air quality and wiring that could not support modern technology such as computers. America's students would be far better off by adopting the Rangel school construction plan than by adopting a misguided proposal that will help relatively few families send their children to private school.

I urge my colleagues to invest in our educational infrastructure and to support the Rangel motion.

REPUBLICANS DELIVER FOR TOBACCO COMPANIES

(Mr. MILLER of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, over the past 3 years, the tobacco companies have delivered millions of dollars to the Republican National Committee and to the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee and to Republican Members of the House of Representatives and of the Senate.

Yesterday, the United States Senate delivered for the tobacco companies. Yesterday, the United States Senate, after a month of debate and delay, voted to kill the tobacco bill, which was designed to get back to and pay back many of the health care costs that this government has spent because of tobacco illnesses and death, and to try to keep our young children from smoking. Yesterday the Senate killed that. They delivered on their campaign promises.

Today the House sets out to do the same. It is setting out to kill campaign finance reform so that they can continue to keep the tobacco money flowing to the Republican Party.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. NEY). Members need to be reminded that it is not within the rules to refer to actions of the Senate on the floor of the House.

AMERICA NEEDS SCHOOL CHOICE

(Mr. BARR of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BARR of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, in my home State of Georgia, a record number of high school juniors, over 17,000, failed this year to pass a basic skills test as a prerequisite for graduation. This week the House of Representatives took steps to respond to this problem by passing a resolution condemning the deplorable practice of promoting unqualified students for social reasons. This must be viewed as only the first step.

We must follow it by taking creative steps to increase parental choice and involvement in education such as encouraging charter schools, establishing education savings accounts, protecting the rights of parents to home school their children, and exploring the notion of school vouchers.

For decades, teachers, students and Washington bureaucrats have tried to shape our education system, yet their involvement has resulted in higher and higher spending and lower and lower performance. It is time to turn things around. The fact is, bureaucrats and big labor do not, cannot and should not educate our children. Teachers and parents do, should and must.

If we are really serious about improving education, let us not worry about schools, let us worry about teaching the hearts and minds of our students with parents and teachers, with the best interests of those students in mind.

PASS CAMPAIGN FINANCE REFORM

(Mr. MENENDEZ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, yesterday the other body of the Congress failed America's children by killing campaign—

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will suspend. Mr. COBURN. Mr. Speaker, it is inappropriate to mention the other body. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is correct about such characterizations. PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, parliamentary inquiry.

The SPĚAKĖR pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Is not "the other body" the appropriate way to refer to the Senate?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Critical references to the other body are not in order.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, someone killed tobacco legislation and failed the children in this country. I guess we do not want to talk about who failed the children in this country, and bowed to big tobacco interests. Here in the House, the Republican leadership is trying to kill campaign finance reform through death by amendment.

Listen to what our colleague, the gentlewoman from Washington (Mrs. SMITH), a Republican representative, in yesterday's Wall Street Journal said about the GOP leadership's unquenchable love of cash. She quickly discovered that it was a common practice for the GOP majority to hold up action on bills while milking interested contributors for more campaign contributions, and she said, "We do what? Isn't that extortion?" I think it is. I think LINDA SMITH is right.

The fact of the matter is, the reason that the Republican leadership is trying to kill campaign finance reform in this House is because they would not be allowed to continue what LINDA SMITH calls "extortion." She is right, and we should pass campaign finance reform in this House.

SUPPORT EDUCATION SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

(Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BOB SCHAFFER of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, yesterday President Clinton, in a letter to Speaker GINGRICH, wrote that the legislation creating education savings accounts, which we will consider today, would weaken public education and shortchange our children. That charge is preposterous.

I would like one Democrat to explain why giving parents more control and more power over their children's education would not be good for their children. I would like one Democrat on the other side to explain how more competition would result in worse schools. I would like one Democrat to look in the eyes of children in dangerous or dysfunctional schools and explain why they would want to keep them there. I would like one Democrat to explain why they would sell out American children, once again, to the education special interests who block every real reform that comes to this body, and who are the ones who are shortchanging our children.

Today, let us vote for the children. Let us support education savings accounts.

KIDS WILL DIE IF THEY BEGIN SMOKING

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, every day in America, 3,000 children begin to smoke. 1,000 of those children will die. Yesterday, the other body of this Congress gave those children a death notice by failing to pass a comprehensive tobacco reform bill supported by bipartisan public health groups around the Nation.

Shame, shame, shame.

But I will take the time, which I hope my colleagues will do as well, to listen to the children. We will bring children from around the Nation here to the United States Capitol on Wednesday, June 24, to listen to their
