

months after they died flying planes into the Twin Towers in New York City. But the really shocking statistic was not that, it was the fact that the student visas were approved 13 months after these two terrorists graduated from flight school. The purpose for which the student visas were applied for had been fulfilled, and they should have left the country promptly after their course of study was concluded. They did not, and the rest is history, and over 3,000 people died as a result of that.

What this legislation does is that it provides a student visa tracking system so if someone enters the United States on a student visa and either does not show up at school, drops out of school, gets kicked out of school, or graduates from school, then the INS will know about it and take the appropriate action to make sure that those students return to their home countries.

Had this type of a system proposed by this bill been up and functional on September 11, Mr. Atta and his conspirator would not have been in the United States to go to an American airport to hijack two American planes and to kill thousands of people.

That is why it is important that this bill be passed, so that future Attas who wish to exploit the weaknesses in our visa system and to abuse the hospitality that is extended to them by the American people at American institutions will no longer be able to do so. I urge the House to concur in the Senate amendments.

Mr. ORTIZ. Madam Speaker, as co-chairman of the House Border Caucus and a representative of South Texas, I rise in support of H.R. 3525, the Enhanced Border Security and Visa Entry Reform Act and thank the House for moving this bill so quickly after Senate passage.

It is an important bill for the security of the nation—and my district sits square on some of the real estate most affected by our border policies. It ensures safety for the people within this country's borders and provides the tools necessary to the U.S. Customs and the Immigration and Naturalization Service to better serve the American people.

Most importantly for the taxpayers in my district, the bill also has a provision to extend the border crossing card deadline for residents along the Southwestern border of the United States. This extension will provide a much-needed boost to the economies that have suffered since the tragic attacks of September 11th.

After the attacks, Congress stopped work on a stand-alone bill with bi-partisan support to extend the deadline for one year to October 1, 2002. With the extension in today's bill, until Oct. 1, 2002, consumers whose lives transverse the border can conduct business normally again. Regular border shoppers can—after we finish this bill—use their border crossing cards to go to school, to go to work, to go shopping, or visit their families. They can once again participate in the border economy.

The Southwestern border is vitally important to the United States. It is the gateway to the United States from Latin and South America.

It is the port-of-entry for one of our most valued trading partners, and it represents the rich diversity of immigrants on which this country was founded. This bill is an excellent first step in recognizing that fact.

The Southwestern border, according to a recent U.S. Chamber of Commerce report, has a population of 6.2 million people in the U.S. and approximately 4.3 million people in Mexico. The buying power of border residents is immense and the economy of South Texas depends on their participation in our marketplace. In my district alone, 75–80% of Brownsville's downtown retail sales normally come from people crossing the border.

Since September 11th this number has dropped. This same report also cites the border crossing card deadline as one of the main reasons that fewer people are crossing the border. The economic effects of the attacks in September were bad for the country; they were devastating for the Southwestern border.
