2. In § 8.2, paragraphs (a)(1) through (a)(6), respectively, are republished and paragraph (a)(7) is removed, to read as follows:

§ 8.2 Semiannual assessment.

(a) * * *

(1) Every national bank falls into one of the ten asset-size brackets denoted by Columns A and B. A bank's semiannual assessment is composed of two parts. The first part is the calculation of a base amount of the assessment, which is computed on the assets of the bank up to the lower endpoint (Column A) of the bracket in which it falls. This base amount of the assessment is calculated by the OCC in Column C.

(2) The second part is the calculation by the bank of assessments due on the remaining assets of the bank in excess of Column E. The excess is assessed at the marginal rate shown in Column D.

(3) The total semiannual assessment is the amount in Column C, plus the amount of the bank's assets in excess of Column E times the marginal rate in Column D: Assessments = C+[(Assets – E) × D].

(4) Each year, the OCC may index the marginal rates in Column D to adjust for the percent change in the level of prices, as measured by changes in the Gross Domestic Product Implicit Price Deflator (GDPID) for each June-to-June period. The OCC may at its discretion adjust marginal rates by amounts less than the percentage change in the GDPID. The OCC will also adjust the amounts in Column C to reflect any change made to the marginal rate.

(5) The specific marginal rates and complete assessment schedule will be published in the “Notice of Comptroller of the Currency Fees”, provided for at § 8.8 of this part. Each semiannual assessment is based upon the total assets shown in the bank's most recent “Consolidated Report of Condition (Including Domestic and Foreign Subsidiaries)” (Call Report) preceding the payment date. The assessment shall be computed in the manner and on the form provided by the Comptroller of the Currency. Each bank subject to the jurisdiction of the Comptroller of the Currency on the date of the second or fourth quarterly Call Report required by the Office under 12 U.S.C. 161 is subject to the full assessment for the next six-month period.

(6)(i) Notwithstanding any other provision of this part, the OCC may reduce the semiannual assessment for each non-lead bank by a percentage that it will specify in the Notice of Comptroller of the Currency Fees described in § 8.8.

(ii) For purposes of this paragraph (a)(6):

(A) Lead bank means the largest national bank controlled by a company, based on a comparison of the total assets held by each national bank controlled by that company as reported in each bank's Call Report filed for the quarter immediately preceding the payment of a semiannual assessment.

(B) Non-lead bank means a national bank that is not the lead bank controlled by a company that controls two or more national banks.

(C) Control and company have the same meanings as these terms have in sections 2(a)(2) and 2(b), respectively, of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (12 U.S.C. 1841(a)(2) and (b)).

Amendments to New Regulatory Framework for Trading Facilities and Clearing Organizations

AGENCY: Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

ACTION: Final rules.

SUMMARY: The Commodity Futures Trading Commission (Commission or CFTC) is adopting a number of technical amendments to its rules implementing the Commodity Futures Modernization Act of 2000 with respect to trading facilities and clearing organizations. The rules add new categories of exchange rules or rule amendments that need not be approved by or self-certified to the Commission; amend the definitions of “rule” and “dormant contract;” add new definitions of “dormant contract market,” “dormant derivatives transaction execution facility,” and “dormant derivatives clearing organization”; and add a procedure for listing or relisting products for trading on a registered entity that has become dormant.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 8, 2002.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Commission, on August 10, 2001, promulgated rules implementing the provisions of the Commodity Futures Modernization Act of 2000 (CFMA) relating to trading facilities.¹ 66 FR 42256. These rules, parts 36 through 40 of the Commission's rules, became effective on October 9, 2001.

The CFMA profoundly altered federal regulation of commodity futures and option markets. The new statutory framework established two categories of markets subject to Commission regulatory oversight, designated contract markets (contract markets) and registered derivatives transaction execution facilities (DTFs), and two categories of exempt markets, exempt boards of trade and, under section 2(h)(3) of the Commodity Exchange Act (Act), exempt commercial markets. The Commission's rules relating to trading facilities established administrative procedures necessary to implement the CFMA's provisions and provided guidance on compliance with various of its requirements. In addition, the Commission, under its exemptive authority, in a limited number of instances, provided relief from, or greater flexibility than, the CFMA's provisions.

On April 26, 2002, the Commission proposed a limited number of amendments responding to initial issues that had arisen in administering its implementing rules, or which are technical in nature. 67 FR 20702. The Commission received three comment letters, all from contract markets. The commenters generally supported the proposed rules, but expressed concern about the intended scope of the proposed amendments relating to self-certification of exchange fees. The Commission agrees with these comments, and is amending rule 40.6(c) to better describe those categories of exchange fees that will be subject to the self-certification requirement and those that will not. In all other respects, the Commission is adopting the rules as proposed.²

II. The Final Rules

A. Dormant Contract Markets and Products

The Commission has long required boards of trade, before relisting a dormant contract for trading, to demonstrate that the contract continues to meet the Act's requirements. See 17 CFR 5.2. This requirement was based upon the premise that contracts that have been dormant for a significant period of time may not have been updated to reflect intervening changes in cash-market practices, and therefore may no longer meet applicable statutory and regulatory requirements. Accordingly, the relisting of a dormant contract was treated in some respects similarly to the designation of a new contract.

Part 40 of the Commission's rules implementing the CFMA retains the concept that the Act's requirements for listing a new product for trading should also be applicable when relisting a dormant contract for trading. Specifically, Commission rule 40.2 requires that, before either listing a contract or relisting a dormant contract for trading, registered entities certify that the product complies with the Act. The Commission proposed amending its part 40 requirements relating to dormant contracts in two ways.

First, the Commission proposed to revise the exemptive period in the definition of "dormant contract" in rule 40.1 from the time following "initial listing" to the time following initial exchange certification or Commission approval. The Commission originally used "initial listing" to mark the beginning of the exemptive period based upon its belief that registered entities routinely would certify products to the Commission shortly before trading was imminent as permitted by rule 40.2. However, many exchanges have continued their prior practice of fulfilling regulatory requirements well in advance of a product's anticipated listing date. In addition, some exchanges have certified to the Commission, but have never listed for trading, a number of new products. Accordingly, the Commission proposed that the exemptive period under the dormant contract definition begin running from the time of certification or Commission approval. Second, in light of the far greater rapidity with which markets innovate and change today compared to when the dormant contract rule was first promulgated and the lessened burden of a simple self-certification compared to the previous requirement that dormant contracts be approved by the Commission prior to relisting, and for consistency with the operation of other rules, the Commission proposed to amend rule 40.1 to reduce the grace period during which a new contract is exempt from being defined as dormant from 60 to 36 complete calendar months.

The Commission also proposed to amend rule 40.2 so that it would apply in instances where the registered entity itself has become dormant. Prior to enactment of the CFMA, the term "designated contract market" denoted the Commission-approved products traded on a board of trade.³ Accordingly, prior to the CFMA, a board of trade's initial application for designation as a contract market in a commodity triggered review of both the general requirements for designation as a contract market as well as those requirements that were product-specific. If a board of trade determined to relist a contract for trading after all of its contracts had become dormant, the Commission would have reviewed both the terms and conditions of the product to be relisted as well as whether the board of trade continued to meet the general designation requirements. The Commission proposed to amend parts 37, 38, 39 and 40 of its rules to clarify that, when a registered entity that has become dormant determines to list or relist an initial product for trading (or in the case of a derivatives clearing organization, to accept a product for clearing), it must demonstrate that it continues to satisfy the criteria for designation or registration.⁴ In making such a demonstration, a registered entity may rely upon previously-submitted materials that still pertain to, and accurately describe, current conditions.

No comments were received concerning these proposed amendments on dormant markets and products and the Commission is adopting the rules as proposed.

B. Product Approval Procedures

Contract markets or DTFs may request that the Commission review and approve new products and new rules or rule amendments. The Commission proposed amending rules 40.3 and 40.5 to include a provision similar to that for applications for contract market designation and DTF registration, that the applicant or submitting entity identify with particularity information in the submission that will be subject to a request for confidential treatment and support that request for confidential treatment with reasonable justification. See rules 38.3(a)(5) and 37.5(b)(5). As proposed, rule 40.3 also provided that the terms and conditions of products for which approval is voluntarily requested will be made publicly available at the time of their submission to the Commission to enable the Commission, by obtaining the views of market participants and others, to ascertain whether the proposed product would be readily susceptible to manipulation, or otherwise violate the Act.⁵ Finally, the ⁴ The definitions of "dormant contract market," "dormant derivatives transaction execution facility," and "dormant derivatives clearing organization" provide for a 36-month initial exemptive period that would begin when the Commission issues an order, including conditional orders, designating a contract market or registering a DTF or a derivatives clearing organization.

The Commission is also adopting, as proposed, two technical amendments related to continuing goodstanding designation or registration status. The first makes clear that the notification procedure available to contract markets to operate as a DTF applies only to active contract markets. Accordingly, before using this notification procedure, dormant contract markets must reinstate their active contract market status. Of course, they could also become a registered DTF by application. The second provides that, upon a change of ownership of a contract market or DTF, the new owners must certify that the facility continues to meet the respective designation or registration requirement.

⁵ Commission staff routinely conduct trade interviews when reviewing novel instruments to ascertain the relative susceptibility of a product to being manipulated. To be meaningful, these interviews require the release of the proposed instrument's terms and conditions. Generally, the Commission also intends to continue its long-standing practice of requesting public comment on the terms and conditions of new products under review for Commission approval by publication of ² The Commission will consider as appropriate additional amendments to the rules implementing the CFMA related to trading facilities based upon further administrative experience.

Commission proposed a new rule 40.8 to make clear that all other information required by the core principles to be made public by a registered entity will be treated as public information by the Commission at the time the Commission issues an order of designation or registration, a registered entity is deemed approved, or a rule or rule amendment is approved or deemed approved by the Commission, or can first be made effective by the registered entity.⁶

No comments were received concerning these proposed amendments on product approval procedures and the Commission is adopting the rules as proposed.

C. Exchange Fees

The Commission also proposed to amend rules 40.1, 40.4 and 40.6 explicitly to address the procedures applicable to the imposition or amendment of exchange fees. The Commission's proposed rules provided that fees related to delivery of an enumerated agricultural commodity would be subject to the prior-approval requirements of the Act, and that all other fees would be subject only to the certification requirement. The Commission's proposed rules further provided that fees or fee changes of any type of less than $1.00 would be exempt from the certification requirement (or the prior-approval requirement, if applicable) as de minimis.⁷

The three contract markets that commented expressed concern that the Commission's proposed rule could be notices in the Federal Register. In instances where notice in the Federal Register is impracticable or otherwise unnecessary, notice of a submission for voluntary approval and of the public availability of the proposed product's terms and conditions will be through the Commission's internet Web site (<http://www.cftc.gov>).

The terms and conditions of products eligible for trading by self-certification must be made publicly available by the contract market (Core Principle 7), or the DTF (Core Principle 4), and will be available from the Commission, at the time that the exchange legally could commence trading—the beginning of the business day following certification to the Commission.

⁶ This requirement is limited to information required to be made public by a registered entity under a core principal, and does not apply to additional materials that may be filed in support of an application for designation or registration. For example, section 5(d)(7) of the Act requires contract markets to make publicly available information concerning "the terms and conditions of the contracts of the contract market and the mechanisms for executing transactions on or through the facilities."

⁷ Separately, as proposed, the Commission has revised the list of rule amendments that are not material changes to futures contracts on the enumerated agricultural commodities to clarify that rule changes not required to be certified to the Commission under rule 40.6(c) are also not material.

read to require the exchanges to certify all fees and fee changes of $1.00 or more, including fees established by an independent third party and fees that are administrative in nature. The Commission did not intend this result and accordingly is revising rule 40.6 to clarify the treatment of rules relating to fees. Under the final rules, certification will still be required for fees or fee changes that are related to delivery, trading, clearing and dispute resolution and that are $1.00 or more.⁸ See rule 40.6(a).⁹ Fees of $1.00 or more that are unrelated to the foregoing (delivery, trading, clearing and dispute resolution), or that are established by an independent third party,¹⁰ will be exempt from certification but subject to notification under rule 40.6(c)(2)(v). Finally, neither the certification nor notification requirements will apply to fees that are under $1.00, or that relate to matters that are administrative in nature, such as dues, badges, telecommunications services, booth space, real time quotations, historical information, publications or software licenses. See rule 40.6(c)(3)(ii)(E).

D. Definition of Rule

The Commission proposed to amend the definition of "rule" in part 40.1¹¹ to ⁸ The $1.00 fee or fee change is on a per contract basis and not on a per unit basis.

⁹ Such a certification includes the exchange's determination (which need not be separately stated) that the fee or fee change complies with the exchange's obligation under Core Principle 18 that its actions avoid resulting in an unreasonable restraint of trade or imposing any material anticompetitive burden on trading.

¹⁰ These fees may include, for example, USDA grading and inspection charges.

¹¹ With respect in general to the definition of "rule," Commission staff in recent months has learned, through bulletins and notices to the members of registered entities, of a number of rule changes that were not appropriately submitted to the Commission for review under part 40. The Commission again reminds registered entities, as it did in its proposal, that the definition of "rule" under part 40 encompasses more than just provisions labeled as "rules" in rulebooks, but includes, among other things, resolutions, interpretations and stated policies. In order to relieve any administrative burdens, registered entities may submit rule changes to the Commission in the form of member bulletins and notices, so long as those submissions are labeled and, if necessary, certified in accordance with the procedural requirements of part 40. In this regard, the Commission notes that it does not interpret this requirement as expanding any requirement or its administrative practice with regard to rule submissions that existed prior to enactment of the CFMA. The Commission further notes that its rules provide several categories of exchange rules that registered entities are not required to certify or to report to the Commission in a weekly notification. The categories of rules that are exempt from the certification and notification requirements are those that, for instance, relate to the routine, daily administration, direction and control of employees. See rule 40.6(c)(3) for a complete list of rules that are exempt from both certification and notification exclude from its meaning exchange actions relating to the setting of margin levels, except with respect to security futures products and contracts on stock indices. Prior to the CFMA, section 5a(a)(12) of the Act required that all changes to contract terms and conditions, with the exception of rules relating to the setting of margin levels, be submitted to the Commission for prior approval. The ability to adjust margin levels was afforded this special status because of the recognized need for exchanges to change margin levels rapidly, often changing margin levels within a single trading session, in response to changing market conditions. In section 113 of the CFMA, Congress removed the prior-approval provision, providing instead that registered entities could amend their rules by self-certification. However, there is no indication that Congress intended thereby to affect the special status accorded rules relating to the setting of margin levels.¹² Accordingly, the Commission believes that specifically excluding the setting of margin levels (except with respect to stock index products and security futures products) from the definition of "rule" is consistent with Congress's intent and with the public interest.¹³ One commenter, the New York Mercantile Exchange, stated that it appreciated this proposed clarifying amendment. The Commission is amending the definition of "rule" as proposed.

III. Cost-Benefit Analysis

Section 15 of the Act requires the Commission to consider the costs and benefits of its action before issuing a new regulation under the Act. Section 15 does not require the Commission to quantify the costs and benefits of a new regulation or to determine whether the benefits of the proposed regulation outweigh its costs. Rather, section 15 simply requires the Commission to "consider the costs and benefits" of its requirements. In this Federal Register release, the Commission has expanded this category of exempt rules to include fees or fee changes that are either under $1.00 or that relate to matters that are administrative in nature.

¹² In this regard, Congress did not modify the Act's other provisions relating to margins. See section 2(a)(C)(v).

¹³ The Commission is also adopting, as proposed, a number of technical amendments. Appendix C to part 40 details the information that foreign boards of trade should include in a request for no-action relief to offer and sell to persons in the United States foreign exchange-traded futures contracts on broad-based securities indices. The Commission is amending that guidance to incorporate the changes made by the CFMA to the criteria for approving such stock index futures contracts. The Commission is also, as proposed, making conforming changes to a number of delegations in the rules and to several other provisions.

action, in light of five broad areas of market and public concern: protection of market participants and the public; efficiency, competitiveness, and financial integrity of futures markets; price discovery; sound risk management practices; and other public interest considerations. Accordingly, the Commission could in its discretion give greater weight to any one of the five enumerated areas of concern and could in its discretion determine that, notwithstanding its costs, a particular rule was necessary or appropriate to protect the public interest or to effectuate any of the provisions or to accomplish any of the purposes of the Act.

The Commission's proposal contained an analysis of its consideration of these costs and benefits and solicited public comment thereon. 67 FR 20704. The Commission specifically invited commenters to submit any data that they may have quantifying the costs and benefits of the proposed rules. Id. The Commission has considered all of the comments letters received, none of which specifically addressed the costs or benefits of the proposed rules. The commenters, however, did raise concerns about the possible unintended consequences of the Commission's proposal concerning exchange fees and the Commission has responded favorably to those concerns and thus has limited any unintended costs.

After considering the costs and benefits of these rules, the Commission had decided to adopt them as discussed above.

IV. Related Matters

A. Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., requires federal agencies, in promulgating rules, to consider the impact of those rules on small entities. The rules adopted herein would affect contract markets and other registered entities. The Commission has previously established certain definitions of "small entities" to be used by the Commission in evaluating the impact of its rules on small entities in accordance with the RFA.¹⁴ In its previous determinations, the Commission has concluded that contract markets, DTFs and clearing organizations are not small entities for the purpose of the RFA.¹⁵

In the proposed rules, the Commission solicited comment on whether the rules as proposed would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The Commission received no comments in response to this request. The Commission hereby determines that the rules, as adopted herein, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Therefore, the Chairman, on behalf of the Commission, hereby certifies, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), that the proposed amendments will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

B. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

This rulemaking contains information-collection requirements. As required by the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3507(d)), the Commission submitted a copy of this section to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for its review. No comments were received in response to the Commission's invitation in the notice of proposed rulemaking to comment on any potential paperwork burden associated with these rules.

Duty-Free Treatment for Certain Beverages Made With Caribbean Rum

AGENCY: U.S. Customs Service, Department of the Treasury.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This document adopts as a final rule, with minor revisions, the interim rule amending the Customs Regulations that was published in the Federal Register on February 9, 2001, as T.D. 01-17. The interim rule implemented a change to the Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery Act, also known as the Caribbean Basin Initiative (CBI), that enabled certain beverages to obtain duty-free entry under specified conditions when the beverages were processed in the territory of Canada from rum that was the growth, product or manufacture either of a CBI beneficiary country or of the U.S. Virgin Islands. This final rule adopts the certification and supporting documentation requirements set forth in the interim rule that were necessary to establish compliance with the statutory law, thereby ensuring that the rum beverages were properly entitled to duty-free entry under the CBI.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Final rule effective on October 9, 2002. This final rule is applicable to products that are entered or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption on or after October 4, 2000.
